PUT OFF REPEAL VOTE BY STATE; PASS BEER BILL

Senate Delays Dry Law Test a Year.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 19.—[Special.]—Problems of the new anti-prohibition era occupied the attention of both houses of the Illinois general assembly almost to the exclusion of all other business. Each house took important action, each in a separate field, as follows:

The senate amended a bill for the creation of a convention to act on the 21st amendment repealing the 18th by changing the date for the election of delegates from June 5, 1933, to April 8, 1934, thereby practically killing the chance of state action this year.

The house of representatives, after a tug of war, passed a beer regulatory bill by the two-thirds vote necessary to make it effective upon concurrence by the senate in house amendments and signature by Gov. Horner.

The vote of the senate to postpone the election of ratification convention delegates was not entirely unexpected. Downstaters, including Democrats who broke away from the organization leadership, expressed fear that the wet and dry issue would hurt some of the judges running for reelection on June 5 and refused to listen to arguments of any sort.

Beer Vote a Surprise.

The vote of the house of 102 to 45 for the administration's beer measure was more of a surprise. Until this morning it appeared that the final roll call would show a clear party division, but when the tug of war was over the list showed 11 Cook county Republicans and 14 downstate Republicans joining with 31 Cook county Democrats and 46 downstate Democrats to put the measure over.

After the house approval the bill was rushed over to the senate for the purpose of seeking immediate concurrence there in house amendments, but it encountered such heavy opposition that final consideration was postponed until tomorrow morning.

Two Cents a Gallon Tax.

This is the bill to impose a state tax of 2 cents a gallon on beer, to impose a state license fee on all retailers of $50, and limiting local licenses downstate to $200. No limit was specified for Cook county.

The clinching argument that brought about its passage in the house was the fact that more than the majority of 77 votes required to make the bill effective on July 1 were in sight and that in the meantime the state should not be left without some control over beer and the opportunity to gather in some needed revenue.

Main Provisions of Bill.

The bill requires persons selling at retail to secure a license from the city, town or village, or, if their place of business is not within a city, town or village, from the county, and also a license from the state department of finance. Such department also licenses the sale upon trains and boats.

The location of the premises selling beer is not to be within 100 feet of churches, schools, hospitals, homes for aged or indigent or veterans' home, except in certain enumerated instances. The bill also prohibits sale for consumption upon the premises unless food is sold or offered for sale on such premises.

It prohibits persons engaged in manufacturing or bottling beer or wine from engaging in the sale of such beverages at retail or from furnishing or paying for fixtures or equipment used by any licensee selling such beverages at retail. It provides for the revocation of licenses.

Ignore Horner's Wishes.

In changing the date for the election of delegates to the constitutional convention the senate ignored the wish of the governor that the election be held on June 5, the day of the judicial elections, but many members refused to go on record as opposing the wishes of the executive.

Downstate senators, most of them Democrats, composed the bloc which sat stolidly in their seats and passed their votes on roll call. Their opposition to the bill was based on the fear that some downstate judges might not be reelected if the tremendous vote which is anticipated when ratification delegates are chosen was brought out June 5 at the judicial election.

Support 1934 Election.

An indictment charging Moe Rosenberg, former convict, junk dealer, and a Democratic leader in the 24th ward, with defrauding the government of approximately $65,000 in income tax payments for the years 1929 and 1930, was returned yesterday before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Rosenberg appeared at the federal building shortly after the indictment was returned and signed a $15,000 surety bond to insure his liberty. A bench warrant which had been issued for his arrest was canceled by Judge Wilkerson. Rosenberg refused to comment on the case.

Charge Net Income of $345,932.

The indictment charged that Rosenberg, who paid no tax for either 1929 or 1930, had a total net income for the two years of $345,932. The government charged that, with the exception of a large item for each year listed as "income from other sources," a large part of this total was derived from the Rosenberg Iron and Metal company, 2501 South Hoyne avenue, of which Rosenberg is president.

The income "from other sources" was estimated in the indictment at $190,709 for the two years. United States Attorney Dwight H. Green refused to comment on this sum other than to say that the sources would be revealed at the trial of the case.

The indictment showed clearly that the $190,709 could not have come from stocks, bonds, interest, real estate dealings, or from the Rosenberg junk business. It was pointed out that Rosenberg's rapid political rise placed at his command the power to dictate to business and individuals in his ward. The indictment recalled the statement previously made in government circles that Rosenberg's "trial would rival that of Capone as a sensational exposé of political methods."

Two Counts in Indictment.

There were two counts in the indictment, one charging the evasion of an income tax payment of $54,847 in 1929 and the second charging evasion of a payment of $9,470 in 1930. Each count is a felony and conviction carries a possible maximum sentence of five years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

In 1929 Rosenberg claimed a net income of $5,991, the indictment charged, although his real net income totaled $270,059. One item in the return for that year reported interest received from loans and mortgages as $4,062, when actually, according to the government charge, the interest received from those sources was $11,396. Income from the Rosenberg Iron and Metal company was reported at $45,282 for 1929, the indictment said, when the income really totaled $165,339.94. The mysterious income "from other sources" was set at $152,104 for 1929.

1930 Tax Evasion Charged.

The second count in the indictment charged that the tax evasion for 1930 amounted to $9,470 on a net income of $75,872. Rosenberg's return for this year listed his income at $1,435.86 and relieved him of paying tax, as he is married and lists two dependents. The income "from other sources" for the year, the government charged, totaled $38,605.

The grand jury investigation of the Rosenberg case was the most speedy in the record of the United States District court here. Presentation of evidence was started on Tuesday and finished at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after United States District Attorney Green and his first assistant, William J. Froehlich, had taken seventeen witnesses into the jury room.

Rapid Rise to Wealth.

The sums mentioned in the indictment indicate Rosenberg's rapid rise to wealth. More than fifteen years ago Rosenberg served a twenty month sentence in the federal prison at Leavenworth for conspiracy to steal from interstate shipments. At that time he was a junk dealer in a small way. He once pleaded guilty to a charge of arson and was indicted on a charge of perjury in connection with the arson case.

His first step toward his later power was taken in 1928, when he became Democratic ward committeeman in the 24th ward, succeeding his brother, Michael, who also was a sanitary district trustee, after the latter's death. He rose rapidly from a minor political power to a place as the intimate of party leaders, cornered a majority of the stock of the Cook County Trust company, and built up a large junk business.

Rosenberg's activities brought him

TWO CRACK TRAINS CUT 15 MINUTES OFF RUN TO NEW YORK

The New York Central and the Pennsylvania railroads will clip 15 minutes from the running time of their crack 18 hour trains between Chicago and New York—respectively the Twentieth Century and the Broadway Limited. Beginning April 30 these trains will make the run in 17 hours and 45 minutes.

The change was revealed last night when the roads announced that they were changing their passenger train schedules to conform with daylight savings time, which is to go into effect a week from Sunday, and to improve their services in connection with the Century of Progress.

In addition the running time of other trains in the Chicago New York service will be reduced from 15 to 30 minutes.

Under the new schedule the Twentieth Century will leave Chicago at 1:15 p. m. central standard time, or 2:15 p. m. daylight saving time, instead of 2 p. m. central standard time as now. The Broadway Limited will leave Chicago at 3 p. m., daylight saving time, and will arrive in New York a quarter of an hour earlier than it does now.

The two trains cut their schedule from 20 to 18 hours last year. It is understood that competition from airplanes was one factor causing the increase in speed.

The Pennsylvania announced that it was consolidating trains, which would enable it to save approximately 4,000 train miles a day throughout its system, saving $4,000 a day or $1,460,000 a year.

SPAIN ORDERS 2 BIGGEST ESTATES IN EUROPE SEIZED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 19.—The government today turned down the appeals of the dukes of Alba and Infantado, two of the greatest land owners in Spain, for exemption from the confiscatory measures which were voted against grandees last August.

Marcelino Domingo, minister of agriculture and head of the Institute of Agrarian Reform, turned a deaf ear to their pleas that they had rendered great services to their country. He ordered the estates, long considered the biggest in western Europe, seized. They will be partitioned among the poor.

The republic has remembered and honored an old debt of Spain and is exempting from confiscation the vast Granada estates of the duke of Wellington, which were awarded to his great ancestor for his help in driving Napoleon out of the country.

Seize Cuban 'Death Plant' on Wheels

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, April 19.—A major step toward solving the mystery of last week's city-wide bombings is thought to have been taken tonight when police seized three youths and confiscated an infernal machine which was literally a monster bomb in the shape of an automobile. It contained enough dynamite to destroy life and property over several blocks had it been successfully exploded. Somebody named it an "autobomb."

The machine was said to have been built secretly at the home of Antonio Chivas, engineering professor of the national university faculty. It had the motor of one car, the chassis of another, and the sedan body of a third, with the addition of a home-made hood and a faked license plate.

Dynamite in Secret Box.

Underneath the chassis, along its entire length, was attached a galvanized iron box filled with 350 pounds of dynamite and T. N. T. From it a wire led to a magneto and another was attached to the hand brake.

Antonio Chivas Jr., Rafael Snard, and Jose Antonio Jimenez, students, were arrested as they left the Chivas residence tonight to set bombs throughout the city, according to the police. The boys carried revolvers and several rounds of ammunition were concealed under the rear upholstery of the car. Behind the side panels of the auto were six rifles.

The machine also carried a complicated apparatus capable of discharging time bombs while the machine was in motion. From a second container, beneath the hood, protruded two steel pipes, running parallel under the car. One was the regular exhaust, the other was for discharging bombs. The latter was controlled by a lever near the steering wheel.

Plot for Mass Killings.

Documents found on the students included city maps designating the residences of foreign and Cuban officials, the business houses of alleged government supporters and other buildings which the police believed were scheduled for bombings tonight.

Other documents indicated that after setting off ten bombs from inside the container, the youths planned to abandon the car close to police headquarters so that when the hand brake was released to remove the car from the streets, the circuit would be closed, exploding the huge T. N. T. tank, wrecking the building and killing the majority of police reserves quartered there.

The investigators believe the machine was used last week in dropping the 26 bombs which exploded along an eleven mile route between Havana and suburbs. This is accepted as the only logical explanation of how so many bombs were placed without the terrorists being noticed. The bombs were set off in spite of extraordinary police precautions after the oppositionists had warned citizens of the coming bombings nearly two weeks in advance.

J. P. MORGAN ASSERTS INFLATION IS WAY OUT OF U. S. DEPRESSION

New York, April 19.—(AP)—Wall street, citadel of sound money, widely welcomed the program of controlled inflation launched in Washington today.

While the steps taken by the administration were variously interpreted and met with varying degrees of approval, many banking leaders asserted that the vicious spiral of deflation must be checked.

A statement issued by J. P. Morgan said:

"I welcome the reported action of the President and the secretary of the treasury in placing an embargo on gold exports. It has become evident that the effort to maintain the exchange value of the dollar at a premium as against depreciated foreign currencies was having a deflationary effect upon already severely deflated American prices and wages and employment.

"It seems to me clear that the way out of the depression is to combat and overcome the deflationary forces. Therefore, I regard the action now taken as being the best possible course under existing circumstances."

Mr. Morgan's statement had a profound effect upon the financial community. With the exception of a similar statement made in London in September, 1931, describing the British suspension of gold payments at that time as constructive under the circumstances, yesterday's comment by the financier was the first formal expression of his opinion upon financial developments in many years.

POLICEMAN KILLS AUTO THIEF WHO TRIES TO ESCAPE

Arthur Gentile, 22 years old, 1335 Erie street, an alleged auto thief, was shot in the head and killed last night by Policeman David Krake of the Town Hall station. Gentile's partner, Michael Santero, 21, of 1237 Ohio street, who was armed, was arrested.

The shooting took place in front of Krake's home at 3519 North Western avenue. Off duty, Policeman Krake was in his home with a friend, Roy Wessel of 2742 North Monticello avenue. Wessel's car was parked outside.

Two men got into the car. They were Gentile and Santero, according to Krake. As Krake approached them they alighted, Santero drawing his gun, and started to flee. Krake fired, killing Gentile and halting Santero.

U. S. OFF GOLD STANDARD; FARM WEALTH UP MILLIONS

President Will Ask Broad Powers on Price Control.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—With the United States officially off the gold standard and the government definitely embarked upon a policy of controlled inflation, the Roosevelt administration is studying further moves to restore pre-depression price levels and revive business.

There is to be no resort to "printing press money," the President gave assurance today in announcing that the bars have been put up against further export of gold and that the dollar is to be allowed to depreciate naturally in foreign exchange.

"We are off the gold standard," said Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin upon returning to his office from one of his frequent conferences with the President.

This was the first time a high official of the government had made such an admission.

Seeks Broad Authority.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was learned tonight, contemplates asking congress shortly, possibly tomorrow, for broad authority to carry into effect his program of controlled inflation, or, as he prefers to call it, control of commodity price levels. His aim is to raise prices but to keep them from going too high.

An inflation measure drafted by Senators James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], and Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] was submitted tonight to Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley, the President's economic adviser, for presentation to Mr. Roosevelt tomorrow. A modification of the Thomas inflation bill, it gives the President authority to issue greenbacks, to revalue the dollar, and to accept payments on the war debts in silver at a value of 50 cents an ounce.

Late in the day Secretary Woodin began preparation of a regulation tightening up the restrictions on the export of gold imposed by the executive order of March 5. Under the new dispensation no gold will be allowed to leave the country except that earmarked for foreign account before last Saturday and such amounts as are required to save American business men from loss on commitments in foreign trade incurred prior to the proclamation of the new policy today.

Same Footing as Britain.

By taking the United States off the gold standard, Mr. Roosevelt believes, he has armed himself with a powerful weapon for use in his negotiations with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and other foreign statesmen which are to begin at the White House on Friday. The United States is now on the same monetary footing as Great Britain and many other nations. Its money is unstable in value in international trade. Mr. Roosevelt can now with greater propriety propose that all nations go back on the gold standard together.

Some other forms of inflation that might be adopted the President is Pit Has Biggest Day Since Opening of New Building.

Detailed market stories of yesterday's spectacular trading on all stock and commodity markets appear in the market section.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Inflation took hold of all American markets yesterday and sent prices whirling upward on the heaviest volume of trading in many months, as the public strove to adjust itself to the depreciation in the value of the dollar.

Stocks on the New York stock exchange advanced from one to ten points in the heaviest day's trading since Sept. 13, 1932. Sales totaled 5,079,676 shares. The New York curb enjoyed a 500,000 share day and on the Chicago stock exchange 160,000 shares changed hands in the biggest day since Aug. 10, 1932.

Orders Pour In.

Tickers were swamped. Orders large and small poured into commission houses in steady streams. Scarcely had the "big board" opened yesterday when blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares appeared on the tape and this pace was maintained until closing time. The public was back in the market again. Brokers also reported heavy buying orders from London and other foreign cities.

The big noise, however, was in commodity markets. Wheat closed with net gains of 2 to 2½ cents per bushel, after heavy profit taking had erased some of the earlier gains. Around noon prices were 4½ to 4¾ above Tuesday's close.

Pit Is Swamped.

The Chicago Board of Trade seethed with activity all day long and clerks in grain commission houses were kept until a late hour last night tabulating the day's results. Trading was the heaviest since the Board of Trade moved into its new building in June, 1930.

Unofficial estimates last night placed yesterday's trading in all grains at somewhere between 80 and 100 million bushels, compared with 72 million bushels on Tuesday.

Despite heavy profit taking offerings of all kinds of grain were freely absorbed. Oats, corn, rye, and barley shared the price gains and the heavy trading enjoyed by wheat. Millions of dollars were added to the farm value of grain each hour of trading.

Sugar Up 7 Points.

Cotton on the Chicago Board of Trade closed with net gains of about $2 a bale. Rio coffee advanced a quarter of a cent a pound. Sugar moved up 7 to 8 points, May delivery closing at 1.26 cents a pound.

In the face of the defeat on Monday of the 16 to 1 silver measure in the senate, silver futures yesterday gained 3 cents an ounce, the most spectacular rise in the history of silver trading in New York.

Recalls Boom Days.

Not since the boom days of 1928 and 1929 had there been seen anything like the activity on the floor of the Board of Trade yesterday. All day long traders jammed the pits excitedly executing orders. At noon, when September wheat, which had closed at 65⅝ cents on Tuesday, touched the 70 cent mark a lusty cheer arose from the floor.

Plan to Enlarge Pit.

Last night the floor committee of the Board of Trade took under consideration a proposal to enlarge the grain pits in order to relieve the congestion. Commission houses began to recall employés they had laid off. One leading house which has been working its help three weeks out of four last night issued orders for everybody to be at work today.

Meanwhile dealers and producers of all kinds of commodities were striving to adjust themselves to a new experience—depreciation of the value of currency. Many of them were making wrong guesses.

Some Short Selling.

Brokers content to accept the commissions on a greatly enlarged volume of trading were making up for many lean months. Others, however, were reported to be taking a trimming trading on their own account. Many of them, believing yesterday that the rise the day before was unjustified, began selling short.

While these professionals were losing money on wrong guesses, outsiders, long absent from the market, were cleaning up on the hunch that decline of the dollar would push up the prices of commodities. For the third straight day the public was in the market on a broad scale. Large numbers of five, ten, and twenty-five thousand bushel lots kept pouring in all day.

Last night after the close widely divergent opinions as to the future trend of the market were expressed by experts. Many of them believed that prices had overleaped themselves and that a severe reaction was in store. Others pointed out that after each advance since the bank holiday gains had been consolidated.

Hold Wheat at Profit.

Many traders, it was reported, are holding wheat at 20 cent profits, afraid to sell for fear they won't be able to get back in the market at a good price.

Yesterday's commodity price advances were attributed almost entirely to the administration's announcement of its inflation program and the consequent decline of the dollar in foreign exchange.

As proof of this the action of wheat in foreign markets was cited. While wheat was going up in Chicago in terms of American money wheat in Liverpool was going down in terms of British money. May wheat in Liverpool advanced from 48 to 49¼ cents per bushel in terms of American money, but its sterling price fell slightly. The apparent discrepancy is explained in the fact that American money became worth less in terms of sterling during the day.

Wheat News Bearish.

Out of the west came bearish news for wheat. Kansas winter wheat, long suffering from drought, enjoyed soaking rains and more rains were forecast for today. Wheat experts said that this news under ordinary circumstances would have been good for a drop of nearly two cents in wheat. Instead, wheat prices advanced more than two cents.

Practically all commodity prices have been advancing steadily since the end of the bank moratorium a month ago. Wheat, however, has been gaining more rapidly than other products partly because the drought in the southwest is expected to cut in production and partly because of the Morgenthau announcement that the farm board's stabilization experiments were at an end.

Stocks on Farms.

On April 1 the department of agriculture estimated that there were still on farms in the possession of farmers 1,127,000,000 bushels of corn, 467,000,000 bushels of oats, and 178,000,000 bushels of wheat. Between April 1 and yesterday 4¾ cents per bushel had been added to the farm price of corn, 13 cents to the farm price of wheat, and 3⅜ cents to the farm price of oats. Rye has gained 6½ cents and barley, stimulatde by brewers' demands, is up 9½ cents.

Crop observers say that little grain has moved from the farms since April 1. Price advances since April 1, therefore, are estimated to have added about $52,000,000 to the value of corn held on farms, $15,000,000 to the farmers' supply of oats and $23,000,000 to farmers' wheat. Including other grains and cotton the increase in the farmers' wealth in the first nineteen days of April is placed well above $100,000,000

Country holders of grain, encouraged by the price upturn yesterday, began selling cash grain. A half million bushels of cash corn was sold on the Board of Trade, the largest trading in months. A carload of No. 2 red wheat, highly esteemed for flour, brought 69¾ cents a bushel, the best price in a year and a half.

U. S. Steel Price Up.

On the New York Stock exchange some of the outstanding gains were: Allied Chemical and Dye, $7 a share; American Can, $6.37½; American Smelting, $6; Homestake Mining, $9; Union Pacific Railroad, $4.37½; Utah Copper, $10; Hershey Chocolate, $9.50, and U. S. Steel, $4.12½.

Only the bond market failed to participate in the upward swirl of prices. United States government bonds broke a point or more and high grade corporation issues slipped one to three points.

THE TRIBUNE'S price average for fifty stocks moved up 3.65 points for the day. The average for twenty-five industrial stocks alone was up 6.06 points. The combined bond price average, however, was down .27 point.

The entire market movement yesterday apparently followed the realization by the public that the United States was off the gold standard externally as well as internally and that a cheapening of the dollar was under way. A cheaper dollar was interpreted to mean a general rise of all commodities—grain, cotton, gold, and provisions—in terms of dollars.

LONDON, April 19. — President Roosevelt's prohibition of gold exports and abandonment of support for the dollar abroad came as a shock to London.

Selling of dollars was insistent today, mainly on French, German, and Dutch accounts, with the result that the London-New York rate, which finished at $3.49 Tuesday, shot up to $3.61½, at which it closed. The lowest point of the day was $3.50.

Financial experts characterized Washington's decision as a "bewildering development" at a moment when they considered that America had weathered the March banking crisis. It was commonly supposed, and London banking circles still hold, that American holdings of free gold are sufficient to withstand any campaign against the dollar.

Predict Recovery of Dollar.

These experts emphasized that the United States is the great creditor nation of the world and eventually, when the present wave of distrust is over, the world must buy dollars to pay its debts to America.

The Daily Telegraph says President Roosevelt has "presented the statesmen of the world with a new problem. Following America's latest action a demand will arise in every country for fresh depreciation so that exporters may not lose their power of competition in world markets. The new task of the statesmen is to prevent a chaotic process of competitive depreciation of currencies."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express says the American government has a perfect right to take any measures calculated to better conditions for the American people, but insists that under no conditions must the pound return to gold and be pegged at a level with the depreciated dollar.

"That way lies surrender of our independence to domination of Wall street," the papers says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 19.—Only after the exchange closed here tonight was the full import of President Roosevelt's action in reëstablishing the embargo on gold realized. The dollar then sank to 23 francs, or 92 cents to a gold cartwheel.

Earlier in the day speculators frolicked and brought the dollar once to as low as 23 francs 25 centimes, but it closed at 24.60. After the closing, when the most reliable financial agencies reported that President Roosevelt was definitely bending before inflationist opinion, the bottom dropped out.

French bankers are frankly puzzled why the embargo on gold was reimposed in the face of what was sure to be an inevitable slump of the dollar abroad. The Bank of International Settlements at its meeting at Basel in March underlined the striking fact, that if Washington cared to defend the dollar abroad, it could do so for many months without gravely endangering its gold reserve.

Fear for French Franc.

French bankers are asking themselves whether, in letting the dollar go at this moment President Roosevelt has not weakened his hand for his coming discussion with Prime Minister MacDonald on the return of the pound sterling to gold. They had felt before today's developments that his policy was to be able to point to a dollar maintained on gold but ready to drop at any moment, and they considered this more effective than pointing to a dollar already down.

Fears are already being advanced as to the fate of the franc if the dollar does go, as some predict, to 15 francs. With the franc high against the pound, French industry is already hard put to compete with the British, and no illusion is held out as to the possibility and advisability of staying on gold if the dollar goes down much further.

NATION GOES OFF GOLD STANDARD; TRIES INFLATION

not disposed to resort to except by international agreement, and these will be discussed in connection with proposals for a general return to the gold standard. It might be, for example, that such an agreement would include a reduction of the present 40 per cent backing of gold required for currency issues or a reduction in the gold content of the dollar. Remonetization of silver through international agreement is another drive scheduled for consideration at the world economic conference to which the conversations with the foreign envoys are to be a prelude.

Would Revise Dead Wood.

The President's view is that all the nations must clear away a lot of dead wood if a new basis for world recovery is to be found, just as the bank crisis of early March in this country made it necesary to clear away the dead wood of the banking structure in order to make a fresh start.

With regard to the gold embargo, Mr. Roosevelt, after discussion of the situation with his cabinet, came to the conclusion that the country confronts a choice between raising or even maintaining the level of prices at home and maintaining the value of the dollar abroad. He decided that the wise course is to stop trying to hold up the dollar abroad, to let it fall as far as natural forces may take it. This is the course that Great Britain took with regard to the pound sterling with beneficial results to domestic price levels and business generally.

Aim at Raising Prices.

Raising of commodity prices was the sole motivating force behind the closing down on all gold shipments despite the fact that many political benefits at home and abroad will accrue to the administration from it, high government officials insisted. They characterized as mere "happy accidents" the effect the move had on quieting inflation talk in congress and on the new equality it gave to the United States in the international field just before conferences are begun with representatives of foreign nations.

Proponents of this point of view pointed out the stimulating effect on commodities which the action already had had during the course of the day. Once started up, prices might continue, they held, calling attention to other favorable factors, such as the abnormally short wheat crop.

Out of the welter of differing opinion which was afloat around the White House and the treasury today there emerged, however, a skeptical point of view toward the new move, held even by important figures inside the administration. The skeptics based their beliefs on three premises:

1. Because the United States is a creditor nation the dollar will rise on the international markets again as the necessary demand for dollar exchange to settle debts due to this country and its businesses becomes felt again. Thus, after the immediate period of wild fluctuations, the dollar will recover, canceling much of the benefits in world trade which the administration hopes might arise from its depreciation.

2. England and other foreign countries will not idly watch the fall of the dollar undermine their own trade positions. They will again depreciate their currencies to maintain the advantage they had while America was on the gold standard. Thus the United States may have started a "mad scramble for the bottom" among world moneys.

See Support Necessary.

3. The domestic prices may rise with the immediate news of the move, but they will have to be supported or continued by newly stimulated consumption, demands for goods, or by further governmental action.

Already the rise in prices is encouraging the farmer, Secretary of the Treasury Woodin declared. Better feeling is noticeable in the country generally, he announced after meeting with the governors of the twelve federal reserve banks. Each governor was asked by the secretary to state conditions in his region.

"It is a hopeful picture that I get from these governors," Woodin said. "There certainly is an improvement all over this country in almost all lines. The rise in prices has certainly brought new hope to the farm communities. Of course, we are not in the middle of a boom or even starting one."

Plan to Open More Banks.

Pumping of credit out of banks where it is now piled up, was not the major reason for calling the governors of the reserve banks to Washington, Woodin insisted. The matter was discussed, however, but was found to be too closely connected with the general problem of getting business started to be treated alone.

Reopening of banks now closed was the immediate reason for summoning the governors, Woodin said, but discussion as yet has hardly gone beyond preliminaries. The governors are to meet again tomorrow.

Meanwhile, a plan has been worked out by Walter J. Cummings, special assistant to Woodin, for aiding the banks. This plan, which has been closely guarded while the federal government sought the cooperation of state banking authorities, supposedly will be discussed by the governors tomorrow.

Move Fails to Surprise.

So prepared in their own minds for inflation were senators and representatives that the quickly spreading report of the President's announcement aroused only interest and no surprise.

Senators bound to the support of some even more direct means of inflation were gratified at the step this country had taken, though they were not satisfied that the step was long enough.

Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], who yesterday withdrew his inflation amendment to the farm bill at the request of the President and who went to the White House late yesterday in order to be informed of the President's intentions, was considering reintroduction of his amendment. Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], whose measure to remonetize silver at 16 to 1 was defeated last Monday by a vote of 33 to 43, announced his hope that the President would eventually declare for free coinage of silver.

Approved by Bulkley.

"We have been, in fact, off the gold standard since March 5," he said. "Official recognition of this is normal and healthy. The exchange value of the dollar should be permitted to decline. The effect of that should be a beneficial rise in prices. At some future time we shall have to decide concerning the return to the gold standard and at what rate of parity between gold and the dollar. It probably will not be at the old rate."

Similarly approving words came from other senators experienced in banking and financial matters.

"What is needed," said Senator Duncan U. Fletcher [Dem., Ala.], chairman of the senate banking and currency committee, "is not so much more money as increased velocity in its movement. What appears to be in circulation is not really circulating. This calls for what is termed controlled inflation.

Says Prices Must Be Raised.

"Something must be done to raise the prices of our commodities or we cannot pay our private debts or the taxes necessary to carry on our national, state, and local governments, and provide interest and sinking funds on their bonded debts. Our monetary policy must be established to accomplish that.

"We must put our dollar on an equal basis with the currency of other great trading nations.

"If England and the United States would adopt a measure of value, consisting of gold and silver, the rest of the world would follow and we would have a stable measure which would stimulate trade, raise values, and change the psychological conditions from one of fear to one of hope and gradually lead to prosperity. There is not enough gold to enable the various nations to stabilize their currencies on the basis existing before the war. There must be found some other basis for currency."

Believes It Wise Move.

Senator Walter F. George [Dem., Ga.] saw the American move as a negative means of approaching inflation, similar to the one employed by Great Britain in going off the gold standard. He believed it a wise move in that if it alone proved effective no other measures would be necessary and that if it did not prove sufficiently inflationary it did not oppose a barrier to future and more direct methods.

On the Republican side the ultra conservative Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] believed that export trade would be helped but that further means of direct inflation would have to be resorted to if domestic commodity prices were to be lifted.

Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Republican leader, indicated an agreement with the administration's action, but stopped short of recommending any direct inflation plan.

Urges Action on Credit.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] was strong in his approval of the President's action.

"Abandonment of the dollar externally may prove to be a complete answer to our problem so far as the currency factor is concerned," he said. "For the first time in many, many months we shall be able to compete for the export trade of the world. It is bound to force prices upward. Other countries having lost their yardstick of money through depreciation of the dollar, I believe that persistent pursuit of the policy now undertaken will permit the countries of the world, meeting at the coming international conferences, to restore the gold standard on a uniform basis.

"Today's action and settlement of the currency question, however, meet only a portion of the problem—a fifteenth portion. For we transact only one-fifteenth of our business in currency, and the remainder on credit. If we will add to today's action liberalization of the federal reserve policy and federal insurance of bank deposits we can save the situation inside the country and by such combined action within and without establish a sound financial and economic basis for recovery."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—Strife within the party ranks marked the closing hours of debate today as Democratic senate leaders sought to push the administration farm bill forward to a point where a final vote will be possible tomorrow.

Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] had put peanuts into the bill yesterday. Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, finally got the troublesome goober out. A deal added sugar beets and cane to the bill.

The sugar amendment proposed by Senator Edward P. Costigan [Dem., Colo.] was adopted with the peanut advocates' help. Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] wanted flax in the bill. Senator Lynn J. Frazier [Rad., N. D.] sought the inclusion of oats. Senator Thomas P. Gore [Dem., Okla.] believed he might propose the addition of broom corn.

Senator Robinson thought it time to intervene.

"This bill is being put in a condition where it will merit much of the criticism directed at it," he declared.

WOODIN RECEIVES HIS ASBESTOS SHORTS FOR WEAR AT TREASURY

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—While he hastened between the White House, the federal reserve board conference room and his office, Secretary of the Treasury Woodin was presented today with a neat cream colored pair of asbestos pants, fashioned like running trunks.

G. W. Fiechtner, Denver, sent them following the quip by Ogden L. Mills, who said that his successor, whoever he was to be, would need asbestos pants to hold down the treasury chair for the next four years.

Since he first touched the chair on his initial visit to the treasury—a precaution which he admits he took—Woodin has scoffed at the asbestos pants idea. But when he heard that some one in Denver was considering sending them he declared that he would like to have them. They will adorn a wall of the Woodin home.

Mrs. Margaret Stearns Weds Davis Chamberlain

Mrs. Marguerite Stearns, 28 years old, of Chicago and Detroit Lakes, Minn., and Davis Chamberlain II., 30 years old, of Des Moines, were married yesterday at the Methodist church in Lake Forest by the Rev. Allan Billman. Mr. Chamberlain is the son of Dr. Lowell H. Chamberlain of Des Moines and a grandson of Davis Chamberlain, wealthy manufacturer of medical products. His bride is the divorced wife of Frederick Stearns. She is a former student of the Chicago Conservatory of Music. The couple are staying temporarily at the Belmont hotel. They will make their home in Des Moines.

Expect Kidnaped Youth to Be Freed Today.

From an authentic source it was learned late last night that 19 year old Jerome Factor, kidnaped on April 12 in front of his home at 1215 Lunt avenue, probably will be released by his captors sometime today.

Despite emphatic denials by the youth's father, John [Jake the Barber] Factor, it is known that he and his friends were negotiating with representatives of the abductors yesterday and that only a difference of opinion on the amount of the ransom prevented young Jerome's return last night.

Factor is said to have been assured that his son is unharmed and that those who seized him are anxious to make a deal and get the dangerous business over. The negotiations have centered on the figure of $50,000, which Factor has consistently maintained is more than he can raise.

Reported on Trail of Gang.

The "hoodlum detective squad," which has acted in behalf of the youth's father, is reported to have got close on the trail of the kidnapers and may, with a bit of luck, close in on them and take the youth by force. Such action would make them instead of the abductors the logical recipients of the money Factor would be compelled to pay as a ransom.

Murray Humphreys, Sam Hunt, and Tony Accardo are the leaders of this underworld investigation. All are holdovers from the old Capone gang régime and have the facilities to take care of any trouble that might arise in an encounter with the captors. Factor is said to be convinced that the gangsters have come much closer to a solution of the kidnaping mystery than have the police.

125 Hoodlums Hunt Captive.

It is understood that 125 known hoodlums, scattered over the state, are aiding Factor and doing so at their own expenses. One of them explained their attitude is one of self-defense—that kidnapings create too much "police heat" and tend to interfere with their more orthodox rackets. In recruiting the 125 hoodlums a process of elimination has been worked out in which suspicion is directed against a minor kidnap gang whose members naturally refused to join the Humphreys-Hunt-Accardo searching corps.

It is regarded as almost certain that young Factor, when his release is arranged, will be freed at some out of the way spot. No attempt will be made to pay over the money at the father's headquarters in the Morrison hotel. Instead, it is said, the amount agreed on will be in the hands of a trusted friend of Factor. One report had it last night that this friend already had the funds and was only awaiting Factor's order to turn it over to an authorized receiver.

Factor in Gloomy Pose.

Factor himself maintained a gloomy attitude last night, insisting that he was not in touch with the abductors and that he could not pay a large sum. He declared that his earlier hopes had begun to fade. Informants close to him said, however, that this was merely a pose and that he was now fully confident he would get his son back within twenty-four hours.

Mrs. Leonard Marcus, former wife of John Factor and mother of the kidnaped youth, went to the detective bureau last night and signed a formal complaint against Archie Brown accusing him of kidnaping. She said he was one of two men she had seen loitering near her home a day or two before her son was seized.

Brown Known as Kidnaper.

Brown is a member of a kidnaping ring that has been operating in southern Illinois. Ted Patterson and Edward Strauss, pals of Brown, also were arrested by the police on Monday and are being held. Mrs. Marcus said she was not sure Strauss was the man she had seen with Brown. Patterson was ill at the time and is not believed to have done any scouting around the Lunt avenue home

Both Brown and Patterson are under bonds to appear for trial in Springfield on a kidnaping charge.

Late last night two men in a new automobile, who admitted they were friends of Brown and Patterson, were arrested by the state highway police at Champaign. Their names were withheld, and the importance of the arrests was not made plain.

During the day Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office and private detectives were busy running down clews in the case. Two detective bureau squads were sent out to search for the kidnaped youth when it was reported he was imprisoned in a farmhouse about forty miles from Chicago. The search at this place proved futile.

John Factor has conferred with Capt. Gilbert, but the latter has complained of a lack of coöperation by the kidnaped youth's father.

Hoodlum Investigators Released.

Members of the hoodlum investigating agency, after being held for 24 hours by the police, were released Tuesday, and yesterday appeared before Judge McGarry on charges of disorderly conduct. Their case was continued to May 2.

Young Factor is a pre-legal student at Northwestern university. His father was a stock promoter in England and is fighting extradition on an indictment charging him with defrauding British investors of $7,000,000. The case is now before the Supreme court of the United States.

PRINCE WILHELM, HEIR TO GERMAN THRONE, TO WED COMMONER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 19.—The hope which German monarchists pinned on Prince Wilhelm, eldest son of ex-Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm and lawful pretender to the throne of Germany, was shattered today. The prince announced his engagement to Dorothea von Salviati, descendant of an old Italian aristocratic family but not belonging to a royal house, which after marrage would disbar Wilhelm from his right to the throne. Both are 26 years old.

While studying in Bonn university Wilhelm met Dorothea, the daughter of the chamberlain to his ill fated aunt, Princess Victoria, the ex-kaiser's sister, who in her sixties fell in love with and married the young Russian adventurer Alex Zoubkoff only to die brokenhearted, her last penny squandered on her boy husband. Dorothea's family to preserve its protestantism, emigrated from Italy at the end of the 18th century. Her mother is of the patrician family of Grasemann of Hamburg.

OAK PARK, DRY 80 YEARS, O. K.'S 3.2% BEER SALES

Oak Park, considered the driest of Chicago's suburbs, approved 3.2 per cent beer last night. Unanimous approval was given at a village board meeting at which Trustee Dorothy C. Kerr presided as acting president. By its action the village breaks a dry tradition of nearly eighty years.

Under the new ordinance beer may be sold at drug stores, groceries, markets, restaurants, and other places of business, but it must not be consumed on the premises. The beer must not be sold to minors nor within 500 feet of churches or schools. The license fee will be $30.

Officially the sale of beer will be permitted ten days after legal publication, but it was hinted following the board meeting that sales might begin today so far as police interference is concerned.

$240,000 LAND DEAL TO BE ABANDONED BY COUNTY BOARD

Members of the county board yesterday asserted that there will be no purchase of the Beverly Lake farm, which has been offered as a tract to be added to the forest preserve district at a price of $240,000. President Emmett Whealan announced that he would veto any vote to purchase the land, which was valued by the assessor at $62,000 recently. Commissioners Peter Kelly, Grace Fleming, Amelia sears, George Miller, William Busse, Charles Weber, and Dan Ryan asserted that they, too, would oppose the purchase.

Commissioner Walter J. La Buy, who heads the committee appointed to examine the farm, asserted that the report to be made next Friday would recommend that all negotiations for purchase be dropped.

Tell Defense Stand

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—The less militant faction of the Daughters of the American Revolution, now in annual session here, today won a victory over the more militant branch.

Of itself, the victory was trivial enough: Merely the matter of modifying the words of a resolution objecting to any cut in national defense personnel from "emphatically protest" to the more restrained "record themselves as opposed to."

Symbolically, however, the change was hailed as a triumph by the followers of Mrs. Russell William Magna, the president general, who wants to have the D. A. R. pursue a "sane policy," avoiding extremes.

The followers of Mrs. Grace Brosseau and Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, two past presidents who are not supposed to be in favor of the Magna administration's policies, were beaten on the floor of the house.

PRESIDENT HAS COLD, BUT HE STICKS TO JOB

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt kept to his study at the White House today to nurse a severe cold in his throat, but he kept hard at his tasks.

He conducted his regular Tuesday morning press conference, receiving newspaper men in the study. The President has determined never to cancel a press conference during his presence in Washington, which has been a boon to correspondents used to opposite treatment from former President Hoover, who canceled practically all his press conferences.

Although he had some difficulty in speaking he showed his usual animation and it was said he expected to be back at his desk tomorrow morning.

CONGRESS' ONLY EX-CONVICT RAPS NEIGHBOR IN EYE

Objects to Repetition of Sweet Adeline.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.] — The Hon. Francis H. Shoemaker, a Minnesota Farmer-Labor man who lately left the quiet of Leavenworth penitentiary for the turmoil of the house of representatives, found his nerves so jangled by the duties of statesmanship that last night he simply couldn't stand another strain of "Sweet Adeline" which floated into his hotel room.

He had been standing it, he said, for three nights.

So he grabbed the telephone, yelled down to Theodore H. Cohen, the persistent songster: "Hey, if you don't cut that out I'll be down and break your neck."

Socks Eye Instead.

"I'm the only ex-convict in congress, and I'm a hard boiled baby."

Or at least that is the way the incident was reported today to police headquarters by Attorney Charles Kaplan, who wants a warrant for the arrest of Shoemaker on an assault charge.

With Mr. Kaplan appeared Mr. Cohen: and with Mr. Cohen appeared a peach of a shiner, a pair of dark colored glasses, four stitches above the injured eye, and a 1,500 word brief of the case.

Admits Pugilistic Encounter.

"Sure I hit Cohen," Representative Shoemaker admitted today when called away from his legislative duties to answer questions about his pugilistic prowess.

Then he went on to explain his side of the story.

"I've stood it for three nights," he lamented. "That fellow Cohen gets a bunch in there; they turn on the radio, then they bellow out songs themselves. Take 'Sweet Adeline'—Gosh, that got on my nerves.

"Last night I telephoned; told 'em they'd have to stop. Called three times; then I had to go and stop it myself."

No Weapons, He Insists.

Reminded that Cohen had charged him with saying "If all Jews were like you we'd need a Hitler over here," Shoemaker admitted that he had said something like that. But as for the story that he might have had a gun, or that he hurled a milk bottle, that disgusted him mightily.

"I don't need a gun or a milk bottle," he protested. "I'm man enough to take care of myself without them."

The district attorney is wondering whether or not a congressman's immunity from criminal prosecution protects him when he takes a sock at a private citizen.

Representative Shoemaker is reported to have a more realistic reason for pooh-poohing any possible prosecution:

"There were too many married women there; they wouldn't enjoy the publicity."

Mr. Shoemaker served nine months in Leavenworth as a result of his conviction on a charge of sending scurrilous matter through the mails. Coming to congress this December, his pet quip was, "A lot of you fellows go from congress to the penitentiary; I'm the only guy that came from the penitentiary to congress."

JUDGE REJECTS 2 BOMB TOTERS' PLEA FOR LIBERTY

Captives Said to Be Pals of Belcastro.

Two men, seized by Sergt. Richard Johnston's detective bureau squad while they were carrying a dynamite bomb on Tuesday evening, failed yesterday to obtain their release on a writ of habeas corpus. They are William Palermo, 2817 Arthington street, and James Catura, 2340 Emerald avenue, both known to the police as underlings of James Belcastro, "king of the bombers."

The application for a writ was taken before Chief Justice Prystalski of the Criminal court, who denied the plea after Assistant State's Attorneys Mal Coghlan and Euclid Taylor requested additional time to investigate the case. They promised that the two men would be formally charged with transporting and possessing dynamite, which is a felony, by 10 a. m. today if no more serious charge could be substantiated.

During the afternoon the bomb was taken to the crime detection laboratory at Northwestern university, where it was X-rayed. The picture showed that the bomb contained high explosive and a fuse with cap. It was decided not to open the bomb, but to leave it wrapped and tied as it was when the two men were arrested at Sangamon and Lake streets.

Prosecutor Coghlan said that the bomb was similar in every way to one that was left at the National Fur Cleaning and Dyeing company, 1646 North Halsted street, recently. Palermo and Catura were questioned closely during the day, but made no admissions. They denied knowing Belcastro.

A third man, who had been arrested by Sergt. Johnston's squad a short time before the bomb toting pair, was also named in the petition for the writ of habeas corpus. He is Joseph Prady. The investigators were trying to learn what, if any, was his connection with the explosive.

Police Squad Praised.

Deputy Chief of Detectives William V. Blaul congratulated the Johnston squad on finding the men with the explosive in the car. Palermo tried to toss it away, but was compelled to give up the attempt. It is believed the bomber suspects were on their way to set off a blast when they were halted.

In the Felony court yesterday Judge Matthew Hartigan fined two men who were in possession of dynamite $50 each. They are Martin Hangaard, 44 years old, 434 Hickory street, and Michael O'Donnell, 31 years old, 20 North Racine avenue. They asserted they were using the explosive to blast tree stumps.

Former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills was in Chicago yesterday en route to Washington after a month's visit with former President Herbert Hoover in California. He was accompanied by Mrs. Mills, his stepson, Philip Fell, and Mrs. Ruth Pratt, former congresswoman from New York. He declined to discuss politics or the activities of the present federal administration.

DECLARES NEED OF NATION IS SUPERIOR MEN

U. S. Faces Uphill Fight for Liberty, Luce Says.

Liberty is in danger and will have need of many gallant defenders in the days that are coming in the swiftly changing American scene; Henry R. Luce, editor of Time, said last night in a lecture at Mandel hall of the University of Chicago. He was presented by President Robert M. Hutchins and had as his subject, "Indispensable Men."

He spoke first of the phenomenon of the revival of confidence—a lifting of the hearts of men, which arises from the positive ambition to create by consecutive planning and management an ordered society.

"Men are aroused in this country, organized for a supreme battle against nature, including the supposed law of supply and demand," said Mr. Luce. "It will be a long, exciting battle, of many turns, but ultimate triumph. This is more important than a new deal. This is a new faith."

Superior Man Missing.

One missing factor, he declared, is the superior man, a factor disregarded by almost all American social thinkers, and there is room in our social planning for this. He recalled that during the presidential campaign Owen Young said there were no indispensable men and Mr. Roosevelt on the same platform took this up and made it the theme of his own speech. It was the kind of thing, Mr. Luce said, that the American people had come to like.

"In March," he continued, "one fact stood out. The fantastic hour had brought forth its hero. He had to establish confidence in himself before he could bring it back to the American nation. That was the foundation of his thinking.

"What concerns me tonight is not the economic inevitability of history, but the deeply ingrown impediment, that complex in American psychology, unfavorable to the development of the superior man in public life. It is not among the masses. They always run after heroes. It is most gripping, paralyzing, among what it is most un-American to call the upper middle classes.

Different Mood Needed.

"I question whether that mood has been exercised. One month after the inauguration the feeling among most people was that a splendid job had been done and the thing to do was to stop there—let congress go home. Congress is perhaps the most obsolete single piece of machinery in our archaic government. This persistent do nothing mood is not characteristic of the American temperament.

"Our present mood is for no more heroes—for quietism. It is a mood of bewilderment and the first defense is conservatism and cynicism. The most dangerous aspect is that conservatism is largely tainted with cynicism. We have taken the first step away from this dreadful mood. We were under the spell of the word normalcy. Now we know that prosperity is not just around the corner. We are now ready to explore, advance, for we have nothing to lose.

"At last, even in America, the nineteenth century comes to a close. It lies buried in Westminster Abbey and in the hills of Vermont. Its objective has been fulfilled. It discovered our earth, how to take more than enough from the earth to feed and clothe the people. It gave new tools to plumb the universe. It lit the fires of liberty over the world.

Still More to Learn.

"Now Einstein has taught us how much more there is to learn. We begin to see that undiscovered continents lie before us. We have reasoned conviction that with all our ability to produce there must be a way to distribute the necessities of life. There must be a way.

"We know there must be a broad highway of intercourse between the hordes of Asia and the west. The impact of east and west is going to be the dominant factor in our lives. That highway is the undiscovered continent of peace. These are not romantic dreams, but physical necessities.

"If men are not great enough to deal with this terrific force, if man is beyond his depth, if there is no genuine faith in leaders, it matters not who leads. But let us say that the best men we can muster must be put at the head of the expedition. For a great danger we need superior skill, vitality, courage.

Urges a Nation of Critics.

"We begin then to have tasks for superior men. We should be sensitive to the differences between men. Let us put an end to our indifference. We must turn ourse]ves into a nation of critics, a broad aristocracy of critics. President Roosevelt is filling the offices of state with men almost completely unknown. I hope that many will emerge as superior liberals.

"Conservatism has lost its appeal. Liberty as an ideal is apt to come in the years. Then let liberty become the goddess of the conservatives, instead of their hiding behind her skirts. If the conservatives fight centralization and prefer private control they must make their own unemployment insurance for instance, more attractive than state insurance.

"Conservatives must shift their ground. They can no longer chatter about whether society owes every man a job. The only issue is how to give him a job. It will take great conservative leadership to occupy the new ground actively.

An Opposite of Dictatorship.

"The taste for superior men is opposite to the taste for dictators. The rest of the world is on the march. It is getting its leaders. It is a march of ignorance, poverty, fear, such as America has never known. Richer in all else, we should be richer in men, not in a dictator, but in rank after rank of superior men.

"Either we find a way to develop public responsibility in private business or very soon there will be no private business whatever, and that would be a profound catastrophe and would set the world back generations in the search for a consciously ordered society.

"Today we have something new to offer our young men. This is not the end of the world; only the end of folly. They may take part in one of the great moments of history, a great undertaking of the human spirit. To superior men it is a place in the sun and beneath the stars."

MacDonald at Washington Tomorrow; Herriot on Way

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—With Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of England and former Premier Edouard Herriot of France on the high seas, America bound for economic conferences with President Roosevelt, the state department today announced a program for the conferences and for a round of social activities. At the same time, similar plans for the reception of Prime Minister Richard Bennett of Canada were revealed.

MacDonald Due Friday.

Mr. MacDonald, the first to arrive at Washington, will reach the capital on Friday afternoon, with his daughter, Ishbel, and members of his advisory staff. He will hold a press conference at the White House. He will live there during his six day stay and will dine informally with the President Friday evening.

On Saturday the British minister will address a luncheon at the National Press club. That night he will attend a formal dinner at the White House. Sunday he will take a trip to the country, or down the river on the Sequoia, and he will dine informally again at the White House.

M. Herriot arrives Sunday, receives the press and dines informally at the French embassy. On Monday, the day of Mr. Bennett's arrival, the Canadian and British ministers will attend a dinner at the British embassy. M. Herriot will have tea with President Roosevelt and confer with him after dinner at the White House.

On Tuesday all three visitors will have luncheon with Secretary of State Hull, and at the White House that evening Mr. MacDonald and M. Herriot will join in what may prove an historic occasion, at dinner with President Roosevelt. It is the only occasion at which the British, French, and American representatives will sit together in a discussion of the world's problems.

Mr. MacDonald will depart from Washington on Wednesday noon. He will go to New York. There he will attend a meeting of the Council on Foreign Relations, then make an address before the Pilgrims society at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, departing for England at midnight.

On Mr. MacDonald's leaving, Premier Bennett will move into the White House, but Wednesday evening he is scheduled to have dinner with Undersecretary of State William Phillips.

Plans for M. Herriot.

M. Herriot on Wednesday will confer with the President again and he will also dine that evening at the White House.

Thursday M. Herriot will confer with the President at 2:30 p. m., dining that night at the French embassy, while Mr. Bennett attends a formal dinner at the White House.

A final talk between the President and M. Herriot is scheduled for Friday morning. After that M. Herriot will leave for New York to attend two meetings there. He sails for France on Saturday, April 29. Premier Bennett will leave for Ottawa on Friday.

TWO EDGEWATER BANK ROBBERS FOUND GUILTY

Peter Stathas, alias Two Gun Murphy, 22, and George Katras, alias Mike Aritos, 29, were convicted yesterday by a jury in Judge Michael Feinberg's court on a charge of robbing the Edgewater Trust and Savings bank, 5545 Broadway, of $3,000 on Aug. 18, 1932. They face sentences of 1 year to life each in the penitentiary. Motions for a new trial are to be heard on April 28.

Stathas and Katras, who had been at liberty on $10,000 bonds, were taken into custody when they were unable to provide bond of $20,000 each demanded by Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller.

The robbers were arrested in Wheeling, W. Va., a month after the robbery. Stathas had been arrested immediately after the robbery, but he jumped a $10,000 bond and went to Wheeling. This proved his undoing because witnesses at the trial tried to show that the men were in Wheeling at the time of the robbery and continuously thereafter until extradited to Chicago. In rebuttal Prosecutor Mueller showed that the witnesses, at least as far as Stathas was concerned, could not be telling the truth.

BRITONS FLY OVER MOUNT EVEREST FOR SECOND TIME

The flights, which required three hours, were made by the Marquess of Clydesdale, Lieut. Col. L. V. S. Blacker, Air Commodore P. F. M. Fellowes, and a motion picture cameraman named Fisher.

Airplanes flown by the Marquess of Clydesdale and Lieut. D. F. McIntyre, members of the Houston expedition, flew over Mount Everest in the Himalayas on April 3. It was the first time the highest mountain in the world had been crossed by airplane.

ROME AND BERLIN UNITE; DEMAND POLITICAL 'CURE'

Insist It Is Necessary for Economic Betterment.

ROME, April 19.—(AP)—An agreement in Italian and German viewpoints that improvement in the world political atmosphere is a necessary forerunner for economic betterment was disclosed in speeches today by Premier Mussolini and Hermann Goering, German cabinet minister.

Appearing at a meeting of the interparliamentary commercial conference on the eve of the Washington economic conversations, both statesmen stressed this point.

Capt. Goering took the opportunity to compliment Premier Mussolini on his four power peace club plan, which he called "A genial initiative to eliminate political obstacles."

Would Pay Debts in Goods.

The Italian premier left no doubt that war debts were uppermost in his mind in connection with the forthcoming economic discussions. He declared the conviction was growing everywhere that war debt installments should be payable primarily in exchanges of goods and services.

Italy is opposed to quotas on imports and restrictions on foreign exchange which "raise a heap of obstacles to commercial movement, contracting its volume notably and creating a harmful disequilibrium between internal and external prices," he said.

"A good sign is the recognition that is being reinforced everywhere that it is not possible to pay international debts merely with transfers of money, but that the debts themselves must be paid above all with exchanges of goods or services."

Adding importance to Mussolini's remarks was the fact that in less than a week Finance Minister Guido Jung will leave for Washington to represent Italy in economic conversations.

"Every reduction in sales," Mussolini said, "is a step toward stoppage of productive activities and therefore a stimulus toward unemployment.

"We believe that to get out of the vicious circle in which we find ourselves it is necessary to work simultaneously in various fields—that is, the fields of credit, production and commerce.

Goering Leaves for Berlin.

"Italy is inspired by the principle that above all it is necessary to provide adequate liquidation of the past on the financial terrain, monetary rehabilitation and assistance in the economic-agrarian field."

Capt. Goering spoke shortly before he left by airplane for home.

"Europe above all is menaced by subversive forces," he said, adding that Italy shows "that a country disciplined internally and united nationally is the only one that can pursue efficient political action.

"The solution of economic problems presupposes the solution of political questions, and therefore it is fortunate that the conference in which I have participated was held in Rome, where Premier Mussolini's genial initiative seeks a possibility of the elimination of political obstacles."

BRUCE BARTON HAS WOMAN ARRESTED; CHARGES EXTORTION

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Francis W. King, 42, was arrested today on an indictment charging she attempted to extort $50,000 from Bruce Barton, author and advertising executive.

Mr. Barton became acquainted with Mrs. King in 1928, when she was a clerk in his office, according to Charles E. Kelley, attorney for the advertising man. She had posed as unmarried, he said, but in December her husband, Hugh Rodgers King of California, began a divorce action and sued Barton for alienation of affections. Mr. Barton settled the alienation suit for $25,000, according to Mr. Kelley.

Last summer Mrs. King returned here and consulted George J. Leisure, a law partner of Col. William J. Donovan, as to whether a book she had written, "Roos Martin," was libelous. Mr. Leisure arranged an interview between Mrs. King and Mr. Barton which wound up with the latter calling her a "blackmailer."

She started suit for slander and Mr. Barton complained to the district attorney's office that Mrs. King had demanded $50,000 under threat of publishing "Roos Martin," which, Mr. Barton contended, was a libelous reflection on him.

Charged with Defrauding Gov't of $65,000.

to the attention of the government and an investigation of his income tax payments was begun in 1931. Negotiations were opened to settle the case in Washington and it was reported that Rosenberg offered a $150,000 settlement, which was refused by the internal revenue department.

Political wisecrackers predicted that Rosenberg's growing political power would prevent the case from getting before the grand jury. The overwhelming Democratic victories of the last year brought the report that Rosenberg would have much to say in the division of political spoils.

A report that Rosenberg had retained Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in the Coolidge régime, as his attorney was not confirmed or denied yesterday. Ald. Jacob Arvey, who appeared to schedule bond for Rosenberg, said that he was acting as a political friend of the defendant. He said that he did not know who would represent Rosenberg at the trial of the income case.

Rosenberg appeared at the federal building after the $15,000 surety bond offered by Ald. Arvey had been approved by the court. The withdrawal of the bench warrant by Judge Wilkerson saved Rosenberg from the necessity of being finger printed. It was pointed out, however, that the government has a full set of Rosenberg's prints taken during his previous criminal activities.

GERMAN MASONS TO BE DISSOLVED; PLAN NEW ORDER

Lodge to Be Placed on "Christian Basis."

BERLIN, April 19.—(AP)—Dissolution of all Masonic lodges in Germany and their reformation on a "purely Christian basis" was announced tonight by the national grand lodges.

The lodges will be reorganized under the name "National Christian Order of Friedrich the Great." Jews will not be permitted to join the new order.

A statement said that "in deference to the times" the grand lodges had decided upon the step.

This sweeps away Masonic tradition almost 200 years old in Germany. The first lodge was established in Hamburg in 1737 and the second in Berlin the following year. Berlin's "Grand Mother lodge of three worlds" was founded by Friedrich the Great.

Statement Explains Action.

"For two hundred years the lodge has protected its Christian groundwork and denied Jews entrance," the statement said. "In order to avoid all misunderstandings, the Grand Mother lodge has dropped the name Free Mason. The lodge will be named the National Christian Order of Friedrich the Great.

"Loyalty to its old connections and to the old bonds with the Hohenzollerns shall be the duty of the new lodge.

"The name Free Mason as well as the rituals based on the Old Testament, because of their faithful service and in reverence to Friedrich the Great, will temporarily be retained.

"So that the Grand Mother lodge will not be confused with other non-Christian lodge formations, the Grand Mother lodge has ordered reorganization."

1,000,000 Members Affected.

It is believed that the number of Free Masons in Germany is about 1,000,000. Chancellor Hitler, in his campaign some months ago, often attacked the lodge.

The government banned eight foreign newspapers today, including the Neue Volkszeitung and the Arbeiter, both of New York. The bans against Isvestia and Pravda, organs of the Moscow government and the communist party in Russia, were rescinded.

The Aryan law, which bars nearly all Jews from civil service and degrades them to second class citizenship, is being invoked in all German universities by Chancellor Hitler's cabinet.

Final action was postponed today until Saturday because Hitler is remaining in Berchtesgaden, Bavaria, awaiting the personal report of Capt. Hermann Goering, leading Nazi member of the cabinet, on his visits with Premier Mussolini and the pope in Rome. Capt. Goering left Rome for Berlin today.

Celebrate Birthday Today.

All Germany is prepared to celebrate Hitler's 44th birthday tomorrow. President von Hindenburg was the first to felicitate Hitler. The president sent the chancellor a silver framed, autographed photograph of himself with a cordial personal note.

What the birthdays of Wilhelm II. meant to pre-war monarchist Germany Herr Hitler's birthday will mean to Nazi Germany. Big parades, tattoos by uniformed storm troop detachments and other Nazi affiliated organizations, and other events were planned in Hitler's honor in every little backwoods village, but the chancellor issued strict orders that the day be observed with solemn dignity, "in memory of those who left their young lives for the great liberty movement." There will be special programs, however.

Cleared of Hitler "Plot."

MUNICH, April 20 [Thursday].—(AP)—Paul Orlowsky, who was arrested Monday at Berchtesgaden when police said he was acting suspiciously in the neighborhood where Chancellor Hitler is spending a vacation, was cleared today by a further police investigation, which disclosed that he is an accredited member of the Nazi party and that he desired to speak with the chancellor concerning a petition. The police said he planned no attack on the chancellor's life.

BOARD UNITES AGAINST PLAN TO CLOSE SCHOOLS

Teachers Are Warned of Dangers in Proposal.

Members of the school board, several of whom a week ago advocated closing the schools, presented a practically united front yesterday in opposing a closing resolution presented by a group of unorganized teachers.

The resolution, presented by Teachers Milton Raymer and Harry L. Tate, would have bound the board to close the schools on May 1 unless the tax warrant sales drive being organized by Henry P. Chandler had sold warrants to give teachers three months' pay in cash at that time. The resolution brought the warning from Trustee Joseph P. Savage that agitation to close the schools is detrimental to the best interests of the teachers.

Warns Against Closing.

"Many think now," said Mr. Savage, "that we can't finance the schools on their present scale. If we once close them you may find that they will be reopened as some closed banks have been reopened—with greatly reduced obligations in the matter of salary schedules. If conditions don't improve the board may be put to the necessity of operating only the elementary schools and shutting down high schools for a while."

Raymer and Tate presented their resolution at an informal conference with the school trustees before the special meeting of the board. They were urged there not to present it at the meeting, being assured that the board would not pass it.

"Do you realize what you are asking?" asked President Orville J. Taylor. "You want the Chandler committee to raise about $12,000,000 in ten days."

Demands Teachers Cooperate.

"Let's not fool ourselves," said Mr. Savage. "We're not going to have enough votes on this board to close the schools at any time short of their regular term. Mayor Kelly is devoting all his time to seeking pay for public employés. Why not cooperate with him and with the Dewey and Chandler committees? All they have had for their efforts so far is a lot of abuse."

"I think we will soon get relief through pressure on Chicago banks to accept our tax warrants and borrow on them from the Reconstruction Finance corpoartion," predicted President Taylor.

Despite the advice he had been given, Raymer presented his resolution at the close of the board meeting, which was attended by some 500 teachers. The board adjourned without considering it.

Limit 1932 Warrant Sales.

The trustees adopted a resolution limiting their issue of 1932 tax warrants to not more than 50 per cent of the tax levies, and providing that an additional 25 per cent, if city officials are agreeable, may be sold to the city's aggregate of funds.

Mr. Condee took a draft of the board's proposed bill to issue $30,000,000 in bonds for salaries to Springfield for presentation to the legislature.

A referendum will be taken in all the schools today in order to determine whether teachers and other employés will accept a month's pay in 1932 tax anticipation warrants in lieu of cash. The plan was adopted at a meeting of 25 teacher representatives in the office of Supt. William J. Bogan, who declared that it would be an aid to the Chandler committee. The plan would take $4,200,000 in warrants out of the hands of the committee.

PRESIDENT MAY HEAR CITY'S LOAN PLEA NEXT WEEK

Mayor Kelly was informed yesterday that Congressman A. J. Sabath expects to arrange a conference between President Roosevelt and a Chicago delegation, including the mayor, which will make a trip to Washington soon with a request for a federal loan. The trip may be made next week.

"Congressman Sabath told me," said the mayor, "that he is seeking an amendment to the Reconstruction Finance corporation act which would permit a loan to Chicago for the purpose of paying the back salaries of city and school employés. He said also that there is an amendment pending that would permit the government to lend money for public works that are not self-liquidating."

The mayor announced that he has asked Gov. Horner, State's Attorney Courtney, and County Judge Jarecki to attend the conference of Cook county legislators in his office on Saturday. The meeting has been called by the mayor to discuss bills that would aid in the collection of delinquent taxes.

PRESIDENT TO OPEN FAIR IF WORK PERMITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt, it was learned today, will go to Chicago to open the Century of Progress Exposition in person unless affairs of state prevent.

Mr. Roosevelt has told Chicago callers that he is planning to go in response to the city's invitation and that he hopes no contingency will arise to prevent. Only the development of some critical situation at the time requiring his presence in Washington would cause him to forego the visit, he explained.

Anna May Wong, stage and screen actress, stopped in Chicago for a view of A Century of Progress exposition yesterday. A year ago Miss Wong broke ground for the Golden Temple of Jehol. She was greatly interested in the completed exhibit and spent an hour within its walls. Miss Wong will sail from New York on April 26 to fulfill contracts in Germany, Austria, and England.

SO. PARK BOARD PUTS CAR LINE TO FAIR ON 23D ST.

The south park board at its meeting yesterday adopted an ordinance providing for street car transportation to the World's Fair via the 23d street bridge over the Illinois Central railroad tracks. The meeting was the occasion for a celebration honoring Edward J. Kelly, newly elected mayor, who retains his post as president of the park board.

Several organizations recently have advocated surface car service to the exposition via Roosevelt road, but the commissioners declared such a plan inadvisable. The Roosevelt road line, they contended, would cross Michigan avenue at grade at a busy intersection and cross the inner drive at grade or through a costly subway. Such a plan would call for expenditures of $500,000 by the park board, city, and surface lines.

The new line, which has been agreed upon by the car company, will start on Cermak road, formerly 22d street, east of Indiana avenue. It will go east in Cermak road to Silverton way, continuing southeasterly to the viaduct at 23d street and South Park way, and then over the viaduct and north to the exposition entrance at 18th street. The surface lines will bear the entire expense of the line.

SAUERS DENIES IRREGULARITY IN BOND DEFAULTS

Superintendent of the Forest Preserve Charles G. Sauers and his controller, Rudolph Mulac, Jr., yesterday denied that recent defaults in bonds and interest of the district were irregular in any way.

With records of the bond sales and redemptions they appeared at the county building and were questioned by Commissioner Grace Fleming, who charged before the county board Tuesday that the defaults had been deliberately planned to depress the market prices. She said that individuals who bought the bonds on the market at a low price had profited greatly when they were redeemed at par recently.

Both Sauers and Mulac said that when $131,000 in bonds and interest were defaulted in 1931 they had made every effort to obtain money from loop bankers and other sources. They said that they had attempted to sell warrants to raise funds, but that the impending forfeiture had depressed the market for the warrants. Both said that the defaults were caused by the delay in collection of taxes.

PARKED TRUCK AND BEER STOLEN.

Joseph Fritz, 6815 South Green street, reported to the police yesterday that a small truck which he had parked near the Metropole hotel, 2300 South Michigan avenue, was stolen yesterday. On the truck were 17 cases of beer.

PROSECUTOR SUED ABOUT CASE OF M. S. DAUGHERTY

Washington Court House, O., April 19.—(AP)—Removal of Prosecutor Norman L. McLean was demanded today in a suit charging he had been negligent in failing to obtain reindictment of Mal S. Daugherty in connection with the closing of the Ohio State bank here.

Daugherty, former president of the bank, was found guilty of misappropriating funds, but the Court of Appeals reversed the conviction. The suit, charging McLean specifically with willful neglect of duty and gross misconduct in office, was filed by Jacob H. Chenault, retired farmer, and five others persons, who had combined deposits of $25,000. The bank had deposits of $2,422,237 when it closed May 12, 1930.

Daugherty, brother of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, was convicted on March 4, 1931. He was fined $5,000 and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment. The Ninth District Court of Appeals reversed the conviction and remanded the case for retrial.

Common Pleas Judge H. M. Rankin set May 14 for a hearing of the action against McLean.

BILLS AFFECT "NONRESIDENT" TEACHER STATUS

Springfield, Ill., April 19.—[Special.]—Representative William J. Connors introduced in the lower house today two bills he says are intended to meet numerous complaints about the municipal employé situation in Chicago. He said complaints had been directed chiefly at the fact that many public school teachers live in the suburbs.

One bill seeks to amend the city civil service act to provide that persons employed under the merit system must be residents of the city. A second bill is intended to bar nonresidents from employment by the city. They were referred to committee.

Representative Robert M. Woodward, at the request of a committee of the Chicago Bar association, introduced bills for the consolidation of all judicial elections in Cook county.

ASK HIGH COURT ORDER TODAY TO VOID TAX CUT

Emergency Petition Aimed at Appeals Board.

An emergency petition for a writ of mandamus to compel the county board of tax appeals to expunge its recent order for a 15 per cent reduction in the base assessment prices on homes and small flat buildings will be filed with the state Supreme court at Springfield today. The petition will be filed by Attorney Lester Falk, tax expert, on behalf of a Chicago client.

At the same time representatives of the major taxing bodies, including State's Attorney Courtney, Corporation Counsel Sexton, and Attorneys Thomas V. Sullivan and William Rothmann, counsel respectively for the school board and the sanitary trustees, will ask the court's permission to appear as friends of the court to urge immediate action. Appearances for these representatives already have been filed with the court.

Holds Board's Order Void.

The petition recites that the order for the horizontal slash in assessment prices as entered by Fred W. Brummel and George F. Nixon, members of the board of tax appeals, is void.

The bill charges that power for such a cut was given the old board of review, since the taxes of the county were computed from the assessment rolls after they were corrected by the board. With the creation of the new taxing machinery, the bill relates, the tax bills in Cook county are calculated from the rolls as made by the assessor before revision, thus making it essential that the power for a general cut be taken from the board of appeals. This, it is stated, has been done by the legislature.

The petition asks the court to consider the confusion in Cook county which has resulted from the reduction order, stating that collection of 1931 taxes has practicaly ceased, and reciting that the credit of every tax expending body in the county has been seriously impaired.

Jacobs Defies Order.

The order for the 15 per cent tax cut was given on March 22. Assessor J. L. Jacobs immediately informed the appealers that he would refuse to recognize their order on the advice of his counsel, County Tax Attorney Hayden N. Bell.

Since the assessor controls the assessment books and ultimately must certify them before the second install- of 1931 taxes is sent out, a deadlock was reached. It was then suggested that the problem be presented to the state tax commisison for settlement. The assessor agreed to do this, provided the opinion of Attorney General Kerner be taken as final in every legal question involved.

During a series of star chamber sessions nearly 5,000 pages of testimony was taken before the commission, which consists of Chairman Scott W. Lucas, Barnet Hodes and Prof. Simeon Leland of the University of Chicago.

On April 11 the commission upheld the reduction order by a vote of two to one, Prof. Leland being the dissenter. It then was learned that although the commissioners had considered the question of the right of the appeals board to make the cut, purely a legal one, they had failed to ask the opinion of the attorney general. On this ground Assessor Jacobs disregarded the commission's ruling.

AL AMAN MAY BE MADE DRY CHIEF IN CHICAGO AREA

Al Aman, chief enforcement officer in the Chicago prohibition office, is slated for appointment as prohibition administrator for this district, according to reports in the federal building. He was called to Washington Wednesday on an undisclosed mission, and, according to reports, is to be appointed within the next week or ten days.

Since the change in administration at Washington Aman has been frequently mentioned as the probable successor to M. L. Harney as administrator. Harney is an appointee of the previous administration.

Coincident with any change in administrative officers a drastic shakeup is expected in the prohibition office.

KING OF ENGLAND BANS 80 PER CENT OF SOVIET GOODS

Embargo to Cost Russia $78,500,000 a Year.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 19.—Retaliation for the sentences imposed on five British engineers by a soviet Russian court on charges of espionage and sabotage came from the hand of King George this morning, nine hours after the verdict was read in Moscow.

The king summoned Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council and acting premier, and Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, to Windsor castle at 9 a. m. He signed a proclamation placing an embargo on four-fifths of the Russian exports to Great Britain.

The action was taken under an emergency law passed by parliament. Application of the embargo was suspended until April 26 to allow British importers to clear goods in transit.

Loss to Russia $78,500,000 a Year.

Every primary Russian commodity which finds a market in Great Britain was listed. The loss to the soviets, on 1932 trade figures, on which the embargo is based, will be about $78,500,000 annually.

Butter, grain, cotton, petroleum, timber and articles partly or wholly manufactured of wood, poultry and game are banned. Little is left which may be imported except caviar, vodka, furs and all luxury products.

There is also some trade in canned foodstuffs, notably fish, but these are negligible as compared with the commodities which the soviets have sold Britain to help build up their precious accumulations of foreign valuta.

Soviet Envoy Notified.

The king signed the decree in his audience chamber near a large malachite vase presented to Queen Victoria by Czar Nicholas. Present were the two cabinet ministers, who were the sole representatives of the privy council: Sir Clive Wigram, the king's private secretary, and Sir Maurice Hankey, the privy council's clerk. The whole operation was over in half an hour.

Both cabinet men then returned to London. Sir John went immediately to the foreign office to receive the soviet ambassador, I. M. Maisky, who had an appointment. Maisky was informed of what had happened.

British officials hope that the prospect of losing one of its biggest markets will induce the soviet central executive committee to grant reprieves to L. C. Thornton and William MacDonald, the Britons who were sentenced to three and two years, respectively, in prison. If it does not, the British may take other reprisals.

Immunity Is Withdrawn.

The embargo could be made absolute by a simple decree. Then there is Arcos, Limited, the big soviet trade delegation occupying several floors in the huge American office building here. Three members of the delegation who have enjoyed diplomatic immunity are now reduced to the state of common aliens and must not only register with the police like all other foreigners, but must establish a good case for remaining in England.

Either the home or labor office could withhold permits to work in London and they would be compelled to leave. The Arcos offices are now subject to police raids, and the large English staff which the communists employed there at high wages as good propaganda agents would become useless.

An indication of the Russian reaction, however, is found in the statement that Arcos is already planning to decrease its staff.

Oil Agency Hit.

The embargo on petroleum products hits the Russian agency which supplied filling stations throughout Britain. Heads of the company today said they had made arrangements for large supplies. The oil trade indicated that the price of gasoline would not be affected immediately, but the place which the soviets have occupied in the British market must be available to other refiners eventually.

The same applies to grain. Canada and Australia are likely to benefit most. Duties imposed at Ottawa last year constitute a check to the American farmer.

A competent estimate of the total Russian indebtedness to Great Britain was placed today at $65,000,000 for goods already supplied. Of this sum about $50,000,000 is owed under the British government's guarantee scheme embodied in the trade agreement which expired last Monday. Under this plan the British government guaranteed 75 per cent of the credits granted Russia by British exporters, so the British taxpayer has a claim of about $37,500,000 against Moscow.

Engineers Ask Clemency.

MOSCOW, April 19.—(AP)—The soviet central executive committee tonight was considering a petition for the commutation of prison sentences imposed on two British electrical engineers and the other three Britons convicted of sabotage were getting ready to leave the country.

B. Braude, defense counsel for L. C. Thornton, asked the council to change the punishment decreed for Thornton and William MacDonald to exile for life.

The two engineers were the only ones of the five to receive prison sentences. Allan Monkhouse, chief of the Metropolitan-Vickers branch in Russia, and two associates, John Cushny and C. H. Nordwall, who were ordered deported from the soviet union, were considering asking for a review of their sentences.

Denied an Appeal.

They may petition the central executive committee for mercy, but under the verdict handed down they are not entitled to appeal the cases.

The three men, together with A. W. Gregory, who was acquitted, conferred today with their Russian attorneys and British advisers. They hoped to leave for Berlin tomorrow evening, arriving in London on Sunday.

Monkhouse was busy winding up his affairs at his office today, while Nordwall tried to find a photographer to take their pictures, which will be necessary before they can get visas. The men must formally apply for permission to leave, even though they have been banished.

BILL CUTS OFF CONGRESSIONAL RECORD WASTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—A plan to cut down congressional expense and congressional oratory at one legislative swoop by curtailing free distribution of the Congressional Record will be laid before the house tomorrow by Representative Raymond J. Cannon [Dem., Wis.].

In the form of a bill, Mr. Cannon announced, he will suggest that the present daily distribution of the Record, which totals 31,000 copies, be reduced to 5,000. Instead of their present 88 daily copies, senators would receive only seven; representatives would be limited to six instead of sixty.

Saves $4,000 a Day.

The new member from Wisconsin said his plan would save the taxpayer $4,000 a day. He made public a letter from Public Printer George H. Carter showing that printing the Record in the first session of the last congress cost nearly a million dollars.

Almost as important as the economy to be achieved, Mr. Cannon pointed out, would be the reduction in the volume of oratorical bombast in both house and senate which could be expected if members were denied the privilege of distributing their utterances to 30,000 voters.

Halts Useless Speakers.

"It is also my opinion that it will have a tendency to speed up legislation," Mr. Cannon said. "When the farm bill came before the house, the house resolved not to permit amendments. Notwithstanding that fact, eight hours debate was permitted—wasting two full days while the whole country was waiting for actual legislation. This bill will eliminate useless chatter in the Record."

PUT OFF REPEAL VOTE BY STATE; PASS BEER BILL

was certain Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] postponed further consideration, called the bill back to second reading, and offered an amendment to hold the election next April. This brought many of the "silent" members into the open, and they accepted their own proposition with alacrity.

When Ward moved for postponement the bill had received only 22 of the 34 votes necessary for immediate enactment. Seven members had voted against it and 22 others were either absent or not voting.

Taunted by Republicans.

But when Ward, without further comment, recalled the bill to second reading and proposed his April, 1934, amendment, 28 members voted for it, 11 dissented, and 10 sat silent or were absent. Two others, John M. Lee [Dem., Chicago] and J. S. Mundy [Dem., Marshall] voted present.

Republicans were quick to taunt the Democrats because of their refusal to vote. Chief among the inquisitors were Martin R. Carlson of Moline and Arthur A. Huebsch of Brookfield.

"If the expression of the people of Illinois means anything, it means immediate ratification," declared Huebsch. "There has been no doubt as to their stand. It is of the utmost importance to act promptly and when we find that we can elect delegates with no additional expense to the people, we should by all means take advantage of it.

"This election will in no way affect the judicial election. I thought the Democratic party was going to do so much about repeal. I'm amazed at its failure."

"Evidently," said Carlson, "you Democrats don't care to repeal the 18th amendment."

Senator Lee was disappointed with his own colleagues.

"We slap our own party when we put off this ratification," he said. "It didn't take the President long to do things. I don't want to vote to postpone this election."

Change Was "Forced."

James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville] explained that the change of program by the Democrats was forced upon them. "Republican and Democratic senators alike are afraid of placing the selection of delegates in with the judicial election," he said.

The debate in the house over the beer regulation bill occupied an hour and a half, and the roll call, because of the number of members who explained their votes, took another hour and a quarter. The discussion did not become so heated as the debate of last week, and the general atmosphere was that of a tug of war to determine whether the Republican minority could keep enough votes in their ranks to keep the majority from running its total up to 102.

The first heavy attack on the bill again came from Frank A. McCarthy [Rep., Elgin], who has fought the measure as an invasion of home rule. He charged that it was the purpose of the breweries and a "group of politicians who want to use it as a football."

"Let's regulate this beer honestly and decently," he said, "and the people in the cities and villages know what is best for their own communities.

"If you Democrats force the passage of this bill you will live to see the destruction of your own party."

Chicago Member Answers.

In reply, Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago] raised the question of the source of the backing for the bill, specifically the question of the financing of the opposition for radio talks such as one made recently by McCarthy.

"The thing we ought to do and do quick," he said, "is to investigate the breweries of Illinois and find out why they are charging $17 a barrel for beer they can afford to sell for $8."

Later McCarthy and Mason S. Sullivan [Dem., Chicago] introduced a resolution for the appointment of a committee to make such an investigation. They were referred to the committee.

The attack against the bill was picked up by Edwin B. Bederman [Rep., Chicago], who charged that the measure would put the brewers in control of elections "as in the old days."

Dennis J. Collins [Rep., De Kalb] said that it was "ridiculous to take this license money away from local communities so badly in need of funds," urged that the bill would give too much power to the executive and made a plea for "the poor devil."

Clinton Searle [Rep., Rock Island] quoted an editorial in THE TRIBUNE protesting against a "triple layer" of taxation on beer and asserted that enactment of the bill would create "an army of snoopers, ferrets, and payrollers." Leroy M. Green [Rep., Rockford] and Elmer Wilson [Rep., Kankakee] also spoke against the bill.

Among those who spoke for it were several Democrats—A. B. Lager, Carlyle; Howard L. Doyle, Decatur; Schaefer O'Neill, Alton; Frank McClure, Abingdon, and John P. Devine, Dixon. Their chief arguments were that regulation is necessary and that the state needs the money.

BILL WOULD CUT CHICAGO'S PAY FOR CITY BENCH

Burns Offers Another Economy Measure.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 19.—[Special]—New moves toward state economy were made in the house today by Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee].

Mr. Burns supplemented his reduction program with four bills.

Three of them would cut the salarics of Chicago Municipal court judges, state's attorneys, and the adjutant general of Illinois. The fourth would set the maximum salary for Circuit and Superior judges of Cook county at $12,000—the same pay, the house has decided, which would be given Supreme court justices.

Result of Proposed Cuts.

The house passed Burns' bill cutting the salaries of election commissioners and clerks throughout this state. For Chicago the cuts, if approved by the senate, would reduce commissioners from $6,000 to $4,800 annually, and the chief clerk from $7,500 to $6,000. The house vote for passage of this bill was 88 to 11.

Burns' new bills would cut Municipal court judges in Chicago from $10,000 to $8,500, and the adjutant general and state's attorneys from $7,000 to $6,000.

At present judges of the Circuit and Superior courts of Cook county are paid $15,000. The house has passed a Burns bill to reduce the state's share of their pay from $8,000 to $6,600, or to a total of $13,600. By the terms of the new bill Cook county would reduce its share of these salaries from $7,000 to $5,400. The total would thus reach $12,000.

New Securities Bill.

A bill introduced in the house by Majority Leader Thomas P. Sinnett of Rock Island, proposes "rigid supervision of all securities, including foreign securities, securities of insurance companies and public utilities, real estate bonds, listed securities, oil, gas, or mining royalties or deeds, securities guaranteed by two or more surety companies, and certificates based on Illinois municipal bonds."

Gov. Horner and Secretary of State Hughes in a joint statement, had this to add:

"The amended securities act, and the enactment of wise federal legislation, will, it is thought, adequately protect the investor and yet will not prevent the sale of sound securities and the flow of capital into legitimate enterprises."

REPEAL LEADERS GO TO ASSEMBLY TO ASK STATE VOTE IN JUNE

Leaders of three anti-prohibition organizations left Chicago for Springfield last night to urge the legislature to set June 5, the date of the judicial election, as the day for electing delegates to a state convention on repeal of the 18th amendment. They declared they were not downcast over the action of the state senate yesterday in voting to delay the delegate election until April 8, 1934.

Among those in the group were Mrs. William H. Mitchell and Miss Mary K. Platt, representing the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform; Col. Ira Reeves of the Crusaders, and Capt. W. W. Bailey of the Association Opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment.

"The drys have devised a clever scheme to defer the repeal convention in Illinois for a year," said Col. Reeves, "by urging the legislature to keep the election of convention delegates separate from the coming judicial election. We are going to Springfield to fight against this plan."

C. A. C. ORGANIZES A NEW CRIME FIGHTING AGENCY

The organization of a new crime fighting agency, the Coördinating Committee for the Prevention of Criminal and Civic Injustice, was announced yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

C. L. Rice, vice president of the association, is its chairman. Other members on the committee are Charles R. Holden, Gerhardt F. Meyne, B. J. Cahn, Francis E. Bromwell, J. C. Belden, T. E. Donnelley, R. I. Randolph, and George W. Rossetter.

The new committee will attempt to coördinate the work of the Chicago Crime commission, the Citizens' association, and the Employers' association, privately financed crime fighting agencies. As a step toward the coördination these three groups will take over the activities formerly conducted by the old Secret Six.

Dr. Chas. A. Stone Urged for Job on School Board

The appointment of Dr. Charles A. Stone, president of the Central Association of Science and Mathematics Teachers, as a member of the school board was urged yesterday in a petition presented at Mayor Kelly's office by a delegation headed by I. M. Fenn, an Austin business man. The 300 foot petition, rolled on a spindle, bears more than 15,000 signatures.

30 HOUR WEEK BILL HEARINGS BEGIN MONDAY

Early Vote on Measure Is Backers' Goal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—The administration's drastic "thirty hour week" bill, setting up a governmental dictatorship over industrial wages and production, will be thrown open to the criticism of all interested parties before it begins its way through congress.

Chairman William P. Connery [Dem., Mass.] of the house labor committee announced today that hearings on the measure will be held beginning next Monday. The present plan is to hear first the expected support of administration officials, then the dubious comments of organized labor, and lastly the anticipated protests of industrial leaders.

Early Action Sought.

"It is our intention," said Chairman Connery, "to make the hearings as short as possible so we can report the bill to the house for action."

The decision to hold the public sessions, he said, grew out of the committee's realization that "these proposals have never been passed upon by either branch of congress or the public."

Among those to be invited to testify before the committee, according to Mr. Connery, are Henry Ford, Gerard Swope of the General Electric corporation, Alfred P. Sloane Jr. of General Motors, and other prominent industrialists. William Green and Matthew Woll of the American Federation of Labor are also expected to testify.

May Insist on Embargo.

Although Mr. Connery declined to comment it was learned that the house committee may insist on the insertion of an embargo against imports produced by labor working more than five days a week and six hours a day. Such provision was approved recently by the committee during consideration of the Connery bill and a partial poll of the committee members today disclosed a tendency to insist on its retention in the administration bill despite the fact that Secretary of Labor Perkins is strongly opposed. Chairman Connery has declared he will oppose the 30 hour week bill unless protection in the form of the embargo is provided for American manufacturers.

THREE HELD FOR SELLING OUTLAW BREW AS LEGAL

The first case in which a wildcat brewery beer was said to have been offered for sale as legal brew came to light yesterday in the court of United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. The cases against three defendants, seized in a raid on the Keen Motor Service, 5159 Lafin street, were continued until May 2.

They are Stanley and Alexander Samuels, 5103 Ada street, and William Bader, 1542 West 52d street. Prohibition agents said they found a brewery, a saloon and six $5 internal revenue stamps taken from beer of legitimate brewers in the raid on the alleged motor service.

Officials saw in the arrest a transfer to Chicago of the "revenue war" of the Kentucky mountaineers. It was pointed out that the mountain moonshiners use the same tactics employed by the three men seized in the prohibition raid. The feud with revenue agents has been carried on through the practice of the moonshiners of selling their wares without revenue stamps or with fraudulent stamps.

INTRODUCING MR. CROTHERS, RELIEF "CLIENT"

Neighbors of Mr. Crothers, knowing that he was the recipient of large grocery orders, coal, and other provisions from the Emergency Relief commission, expressed curiosity that the supposedly penniless Mr. Crothers should have cash to pay for old gold. They said also that he did a nice business in barter and exchange.

Mr. Crothers Has a Visitor.

A reporter visited Mr. Crothers yesterday and apprised him of these complaints. Whereupon Mr. Crothers made spirited comment.

"This is all a political frameup," he declared. "There would never have been these infamous charges that I wouldn't be on the relief rolls if I hadn't helped to elect Albert F. Schulz alderman of the Forty-seventh ward at the election April 4.

"It is true," Mr. Crothers continued, "that I receive a grocery order for $15.10 every two weeks from the relief commission in addition to the regular supplies. It is true also that I buy old gold and sell it downtown, collecting a small commission. The business in old gold runs about $5 and $7 a day and sometimes even more, but I only collect a commission on it."

Certain He Is Worthy.

Mr. Crothers said he had discussed the matter with the case worker for the relief commission and assured her that he was a worthy "client" for the relief commission's generosity, which is costing Chicago $7,000,000 for the month of April alone. Despite the "Cash paid for old gold" sign, the relief orders continued to arrive regularly.

"The real political power in the 47th ward lies in this store," said Mr. Crothers impressively. "That is the reason for these despicable insinuations. I supported Ald. Schulz, and his opponents are now trying to get back at me.

13 Frenchmen Find They Are Wrong on Fair Dates

It may be true that fifty million Frenchmen can't be wrong, but thirteen Frenchmen can be—and were. M. Raymond M. Treuil of the National Federation of French Industry admitted at the Knickerbocker hotel last night that he and the other twelve, representing several chain store systems in France, had come to Chicago yesterday in the expectation of attending A Century of Progress exposition. He explained that fairs in Europe usually are held in the spring and that his party was disappointed at being too early. The visitors viewed the exposition grounds.

HIS GUN SEIZED

POLICEMAN MICHAEL TYDINGS.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

A Negro prisoner caused excitement in the Wabash avenue police courtroom yesterday when he snatched a revolver from Policeman Michael Tydings' holster and fired six shots, seriously wounding two other colored prisoners.

His victims, Samuel Gordon, 25 years old, 2953 Federal street, and William McDonald, 24, of 3706 South Wabash avenue, were taken to the Bridewell hospital, both suffering from bullet wounds in the abodmen.

The courtroom, presided over by Judge Leon Edelman, was in confusion until the Negro, James Andrews, 28 years old, 649 East 31st street, was overpowered. The shooting, at first thought to have been attempt to escape, appeared to have been caused by a deranged mind. Andrews was arrested for drunkenness Tuesday night.

ORDERS TROOPS OUT TO PROTECT DYKES IN SOUTH

Glendora, Miss., April 19.—(AP)—A company of Mississippi National Guardsmen was ordered from here to Belzoni tonight to prevent a threatened levee dynamiting there.

The request for troops was made to Gov. Sennett Conner by Sheriff Purvis at Yazoo City, who reported there were three points on the Yazoo river near Belzoni which levee dynamiters had threatened to blast.

Flood Toll Reaches Five.

Boston, Mass., April 19.—(AP)—Five men were dead in New England tonight as a result of floods that have swept this region since Monday, bringing widespread suffering and property damage.

The water continued to rise on the lower reaches of the big Connecticut and Merrimac rivers, which became the danger spots in the flooded regions. Cessation of the prolonged and heavy rains checked the floods in the smaller river valleys.

FOUR INDICTED ON CHARGES OF RELIEF FRAUD

Supervisor and 3 Dairy Executives Named.

Charles Grandt, supervisor of Wheeling township and until recently in charge of the distribution of relief funds in that territory for the Illinois Relief commission, and three dairy company minor executives were reported named in true bills voted by the grand jury yesterday. They were accused of conspiracy to defraud the state of Illinois by manipulation of accounts with the relief commission.

Those reported named with Grandt were William Jeschke, assistant superintendent of the Des Plaines district for the Borden Farm Products company; Harry Knaack, route foreman for the company, and Vincent A. Parker, assistant credit manager of the northwest territory of the Bowman Dairy company.

Milk Companies Not Involved.

Neither of the milk companies was knowingly involved in the alleged racked worked by Grandt, according to Assistant State's Attorneys Wilbert Crowley and William J. Touhy. The companies profited by the transactions but are now making an audit of their books to determine the amount lost by the relief commission so that it can be refunded.

The fraud was perpetrated, the prosecutors said, by getting credit on the firm's books for dairy products that were never delivered to needy persons on the relief rolls. Through collusion with Grandt, it is charged, Jeschke, Knaack, and Parker placed orders in amounts double that supposed to be delivered to families.

Get Credit for Surplus.

The surplus was then credited on the books to offset failures to collect acounts of patrons who have moved away without paying their bills. The milk drivers did not have to pay their half of these delinquent accounts and the accused officials made a good showing in the eyes of their superiors.

Grandt also received free deliveries of milk, butter, and cheese, according to the true bills, the relief commission being charged with these items. It was estimated by the prosecutors that the relief commission was defrauded of at least $300 in about eight months.

She Regains $6,270 Sold to Junkman for a Dime

Mrs. Valeria Walczynska, 919 Rose street, yesterday recovered $6,270 in bonds, currency and gold which she lost last Saturday when her cousin, Walter Podgorski, who lives with her, sold to a junkman for 10 cents the bundle of paper in which the treasure was hidden. Sergts. Thomas Roche and Edward Palczynski of the Racine avenue police found the junkman who bought the paper, Isadore Novak, 1443 North Maplewood avenue. He admitted finding the bonds and money and restored it.

ROOSEVELT HITS TALK OF PUBLIC WORKS "BILLIONS"

Calls Figures Greatly Exaggerated.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt called a halt today on proposals to spend five or six billion dollars in a gigantic public works program for unemployment relief.

Some of the administration advisers, within his own official family as well as members of congress, had planned for far flung building projects, the building of roads, new buildings, bridges, and similar construction. They had discussed the program in terms of billions of dollars.

But the President today told newspapermen that such figures were silly. He said that the public works contemplated in his program would be limited to projects that can be started immediately and be finished by next spring.

Less Than a Billion.

He refused to attempt an estimate on the sum which may be spent on the program, but it was reliably reported that it would be less than a billion dollars and more probably half that sum.

The projects to be undertaken, Mr. Roosevelt said, must be practical, useful, and, so far as possible, self-sustaining. The President is opposed to a permanent tying up of government funds and is anxious that whatever works are attempted in his emergency relief program shall eventually pay their own cost and maintenance.

For example, whatever roads may be built tolls may be collected to provide funds for retirement of bonds.

Must Be Immediate.

The President declared that his program did not contemplate projects which would require detailed planning and engineering preparation; that he intended to use such plans as were in readiness for putting men to work immediately.

He said the program would be as large as these limitations would permit, but it was believed the estimates would go far below those which have been quoted.

Recently the President has been advised that the public works type of inflation possessed some dangers in that a point might soon be reached, unless it was kept well under control, whereby the economic structure of the government would not bear further drains and credit would be impaired or halted.

3,163 Enrolled Here for Reforestation Employment

Joseph L. Moss, director of the county bureau of public welfare, announced yesterday that 3,163 of the first Chicago contingent of 4,000 idle men have been selected for the reforestation army. Of that number, about 2,700 have been enrolled at the United States army recruiting office and sent to Fort Sheridan for two weeks of training preparatory to departing for timber camps, he said. About 40,000 recruits will be trained at Fort Sheridan.

MICHIGAN MAY GET LEGAL BEER BEFORE MAY 1

Lansing, Mich., April 19.—[Special.]—Legal 3.2 beer for Michigan before May 1 was seen today as the house prepared to debate at a night session the administration bill, reported in amended form by the liquor traffic committee after a session that lasted far into Tuesday night.

The house committee restored many of the provisions contained in the original Wilkowski measure, before it was revised by the senate. The tax per barrel to be collected by the state, however, was increased to $2 after the senate had reduced it from $1.25 to $1. This change is probably the only one likely to incur the displeasure of Gov. William A. Comstock.

Gov. Comstock promised speedy action as soon as the beer bill can be agreed upon by both houses. He said he has already decided on personnel of the state liquor commission, the executive committee, and the managing director, all of which are provided in the measure. To expedite actual sale of beer temporary licenses will be issued, he said, to reputable restaurants and hotels and breweries with substantial backing will be allowed to start production immediately. The bill now limits the number of breweries in the state to 48.

GAS TAX SHARE FOR CITY STREET WORK APPROVED

Program Is Indorsed at Committee Hearing.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 19.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner's administration tonight gave its first expression of opinion on the future road program for Illinois. Director Kingery of the department of public works and Chief Engineer Lieberman told the roads and bridges committee of the house they heartily endorsed the program drafted by an advisory commission created by the 1931 general assembly.

This commission, headed by Rep. David Hunter [Rep., Rockford], is recommending legislation that would enable the state to construct elevated highways in Chicago, widen and pave streets of other municipalities, and improve an extended mileage of farm roads with inexpensive surface treatment.

Under the program, the counties would continue to receive 1 cent of the 3 cent state gas tax; the state highway department would continue to receive 2 cents, but 1 cent would be allocated for expenditures in municipalities apportioned among the cities and villages in relation to population.

Based on Traffic Needs.

"The gist of this legislation," Mr. Kingery said, "is that future road building should be based solely upon traffic and economic needs as they are disclosed by careful factual studies.

"The main purposes are to correct the outstanding weaknesses of our system. There are 67,000 miles of unimproved road in Illinois and much of this is deserving of some low cost treatment in keeping with traffic requirements. In almost very city in the state, the arterial streets are not suited for the traffic they carry."

"At last an equitable consideration will be given to the city street problem," Frank Sheets, former state highway engineer, said. "The government's recent economic survey in Illinois shews that 89.7 per cent of the vehicle registration fees and gasoline tax is paid by residents of municipalities. It is a new deal for the larger centers of population that have in the past donated so generously for rural road construction."

Mr. Lieberman, who replaced Mr. Sheets in the highway department, said he had studied the road commission's report and that it has his hearty endorsement in every respect.

Chambers Approve It.

Eugene Gates, highway superintendent of Du Page county, spoke as a representative of the county highway superintendents' association and he likewise okayed the program. He read telegrams from the Illinois Chamber of Commerce and from the Chicago Association of Commerce approving the commission's proposals.

Counter proposals, said to have the backing of the Illinois Agricultural association, were introduced in the house and senate this afternoon. Bills introduced by Senator Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield], and by Rep. Frank McClure [Dem., Abingdon], and Jesse Hall [Rep., East Peoria], would give all 3 cents of the gasoline tax to counties in proportion to automobile registration. The counties would distribute 1 cent to the cities and villages and 1 cent to the townships in proportion to their general tax levies for roads and bridges.

GIRL OF 13 DEFIES SHARKS IN SWIMMING TO ISLE OF TREASURE

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, April 19.—Daphne Pawan, 13 years old, today swam the shark infested channel to Gasparee island, where the treasure of a Spanish admiral is supposed to be buried.

The girl's adventure was not suspected until she was half way over, when her agitated father, seeing her head bobbing in the distance, set out after her in a motor launch. Daphne refused to leave the water until she had completed her swim. She said the venture was the outcome of a secret pact to emulate the feat of a swimmer who long ago regularly defied the sharks of the island waters.

Daphne's father, a scientist in the government service, recently won an award of $1,000 for his discovery that vampire bats carry paralytic germs to babies and cattle.

REFUSE TO LEASE CEMENT PLANT AT DIXON TO STATE

Medusa Officials Defend Price Increase.

J. B. John, president of the Medusa Portland Cement company, announced yesterday that officials of his company do not consider themselves in a position to lease the company plant at Dixon to the state of Illinois for the purpose of manufacturing cement for road building.

Gov. Horner opened negotiations with the company after the work had been delayed because cement bids tendered by manufacturers were rejected by the state.

Fears Loss of Contracts.

"While earnestly desirous that public works be resumed speedily in order to provide thousands of jobs in mills, quarries, and gravel pits, on the roads and in equipment factories," President John said, "the Medusa company prefers not to lease its plant to the state because to do so would result in the destruction of dealer and contractor business and with serious loss to stockholders.

"The Medusa company does not believe that the citizens of Illinois are willing to saddle upon their state government responsibility for the profitable operation of a cement mill which private management has been unable to run under present conditions except at a loss.

Denies Bids Were Unfair.

"The present agitation results from the mistaken feeling that cement prices have been raised to unfair levels. Gov. Horner has announced an inquiry into these matters. We welcome the opportunity to aid in every way in making known the facts."

President John said that in the last two years shipments of cement have been cut in half in the United States, increasing the per barrel cost of manufacture, and that quality standards of cement have been raised, increasing production costs.

WITNESSES SAY THEY CONSIDER RUTH JUDD SANE

Slayer Interrupts Hearing with New Outburst.

Florence, Ariz., April 19.—[Special.]—Testimony refuting defense evidence that Winnie Ruth Judd has been insane during the past several months while in the Arizona penitentiary under a death sentence, was introduced into Mrs. Judd's lunacy hearing early this afternoon.

Uttering oaths and crying, "they can't kill my baby," and "go get Jack Halloran," Mrs. Judd was led from the courtroom by matrons a second time today. She was returned after an automobile ride.

Court Clerk Testifies.

Gordon Wallace, clerk of Superior Judge J. C. Niles' court in Phoenix, testified Mrs. Judd was the state's star witness at the preliminary hearing of John J. "Jack" Halloran on a charge of accessory after the fact beginning on January 16. The charge against Halloran subsequently was dismissed.

"Her story as told there, was one of self-defense," Wallace said. "She evidently was intelligent enough to realize her part in the proceedings."

Lin B. Orme Sr., chairman, and Herman Hendrix a member of the three man Arizona pardons board, which recently refused to commute Mrs. Judd's sentence, were state witnesses.

Chairman Orme said Mrs. Judd appeared before the board March 14 and intelligently advanced reasons why in her opinion she should not be executed.

Promised to Be Good.

"I think she was aware of her impending fate and had sufficient understanding to enable her to know any facts to bar her execution, and sufficient intelligence to inform the court or her attorneys. She said she would be good if her sentence was commuted."

MILLION RETURN TO FARM DURING THE PAST YEAR

Washington, D. C., April 19.—(AP)—The back-to-the-land movement today was credited with boosting the American farm population by more than one million people during the past year, giving the nation its largest agricultural population in history.

The bureau of agricultural economics estimated the farm population on Jan. 1 as 32,242,000, compared with 31,241,000 on the same date in 1932.

It is the largest increase for a single year since 1920 and completes a net gain of more than two million people on American farms since 1930. The previous high mark in estimated farm population was in 1910 when the census bureau credited farms with 32,076,960 people.

County Republicans Decide to Fill Judicial Ticket Vacancies

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The Republican county organization at a meeting in the Bismarck hotel last night decided to place a full judicial ticket in the field to oppose the Democratic fusion ticket in the election June 5.

Six Republican judges, named by their own party, have accepted offers of places on the Democratic ticket and have withdrawn from the Republican slate. It was announced that candidates to replace them will be chosen tomorrow and that the judges who went fusion would be fought just as if they were Democrats. John Sbarbaro was the last to accept a fusion nomination, announcing his decision yesterday.

There was considerable debate among the Republican managers on the question, many holding that filling out of the circuit bench ticket would dilute the strength of those already named. They said they believed the Republican slate will draw its strength from a strictly anti-Democratic vote and that a bobtailed ticket of 12 or 15 would fare better than a full one of 20 names.

Object to Assessments.

Several of the Republican candidates have declared the have no desire to run if they are required to pay a campaign assessment. The county committeemen say this has not been taken up as yet. Intimations are that efforts are to be made to finance the campaign from other sources.

The Democratic assessment for campaign expenses in this election has been placed at $3,000 for each judicial candidate.

The Democratic organization yesterday selected Municipal Judge John F. O'Connell to run for judge of the Probate court, the position vacated by Judge Horner when he became governor. The nomination will be made by the county committee sitting as a county convention. A bill has been passed at Springfield calling for an election to fill the vacancy, to be held with the regular judicial election.

Five of the seven Supreme court districts hold elections June 5, in addition to all Circuit bench districts.

In the Seventh Supreme district, Justice Frederic R. De Young, Republican, was nominated by both Republicans and Democrats. He has elected to run on the Democratic fusion ticket.

Democrat Opposes Heard.

In the Sixth, Justice Oscar E. Heard, Republican of Freeport, present chief justice, has been renominated by the Republicans and is opposed by Elwyn R. Shaw of Freeport, Democratic nominee.

The Democrats in the Third district have nominated Lott R. Herrick of Farmer City, and the Republicans have named Circuit Judge James S. Baldwin of Decatur. Justice Frank K. Dunn of Charleston is retiring.

The First district has a lively campaign. Justice Warren W. Duncan, Republican of Marion, is retiring. The Republicans have nominated Circuit Judge Charles H. Miller of Benton, and the Democrats, County Judge Paul Farthing of Belleville, Judge Farthing is blind.

CONVICT TWO OF KILLING BOXER.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 19.—(AP)—William Dulin and Fred (Shorty) Hayes, former companions of Mickey Erno, onetime boxer, were convicted today on a charge of slaying Erno. The jury recommended life imprisonment. The prosecution said Erno was "taken for a ride" following a dispute over the loot of a Long Beach diamond robbery.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, T. H., April 19.—Thirty naval seaplanes from Pearl harbor today flew to French Frigate shoals, a group of islands 500 miles northwest of Honolulu.

The flight was part of ten days' operations at sea. The personnel included 33 officers and 130 enlisted men under Commander E. W. Todd. Seven surface craft assisted. The French Frigate shoals contain 13 small islands, forming a lagoon which is used as an anchorage.

It is expected that the squadron later will go farther northwest to the Pearl and Hermes reef and the Midway islands.

MONTE CARLO, April 19.—The Monte Carlo company, which omitted its dividend last year for the first time, declared a dividend of $4.20 a share at today's annual meeting.

Gross profits for 1932 were announced to be $3,538,000, a drop of more than $840,000 from the previous year. Net profits were $712,000, of which $416,000 will be disbursed as a dividend. The company set aside $480,000 from its surplus for the construction of a sporting club.

Although wounded in the right arm by a bandit bullet, Ivan Jacobson, 35 years old, 7108 Ingleside avenue, an electrician, thinks he's rather lucky. He was shot last night by a Negro gunman whom he resisted near 69th street and Cottage Grove avenue. The robber fired three bullets at Jacobson. One hit him in the arm. Another struck a tobacco can in his coat pocket and was stopped. The third struck a thick wallet in another pocket and was also stopped.

You'll do it better on Dated Coffee

Coffee is a valuable stimulant. It not only quickens the muscles, it speeds up the brain. Away with fatigue, away with the blues! But avoid stale coffee.

FOR hundreds of years, men and women who have been famous in history . . . soldiers and statesmen, artists and authors . . . have made liberal use of coffee as a stimulant.

Why, then, do some people think they must deprive themselves of this useful and delicious drink?

Science uncovered the facts. Science says people have trouble when they drink stale coffee! Stale coffee contains rancid oil. Nearly half a cupful to the pound. If you keep on drinking stale coffee, you may indeed get indigestion or feel blue or sleep poorly.

But research shows that normal, healthy grown-ups can enjoy as many as 5 cups of coffee every day if they make sure that it is fresh.

By instituting Dated Coffee, Chase & Sanborn have enabled everyone to stimulate brain and body to their highest pitch—safely.

An expiration date, proving its freshness—and full, delicious rich flavor—is on every pound of Chase & Sanborn's Dated Coffee. Your grocer is not allowed to keep a can after its date has expired. Order Dated Coffee tomorrow. You'll work and play better on Dated Coffee.

ACTION BY HOUSE COMMITTEE AIDS RELIEF PROGRAM

Favor Wagner-Lewis Bill and Gas Tax.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—Under pressure of administration urging, house committees which for weeks have been delaying major bills in the Roosevelt program swung suddenly into action today.

By a vote of 15 to 6 the banking and currency committee favorably reported the half billion dollar Wagner-Lewis direct relief bill which has been before it for a fortnight. As it emerged the measure is substantially the same as that which passed the senate except that the 500 million dollar fund for direct relief grants to states is to be allotted equally on the basis of need and of local relief expenditures.

The senate measure provided 200 millions for grants to match local expenditures on a ratio of 1 federal dollar for 3 state dollars, and 300 million dollars for grants on the basis of need.

Continue Gas Tax.

The ways and means committee also favorably reported the administration's first tax bill—a measure continuing for another year the 1 cent federal tax on gasoline. Embodied in it is the authority for the President to regulate postal rates.

House leaders said the gasoline tax-postal rate bill would be taken up tomorrow. If disposed of before the day is over, the Wagner-Lewis relief bill will be considered immediately.

Meanwhile the military affairs committee was finishing a revised edition of the administration Muscle Shoals bill, intending to report it early tomorrow. The committee today turned down the protest of power companies against government construction of power transmission lines in the Tennessee valley and left authority for such construction in the bill.

Alter Shoals Bill.

Language was inserted, however, to insure that the government make an effort to lease existing lines before building new ones of its own.

The committee also struck out a provision in the administration measure providing for the payment to Tennessee and Alabama of 5 per cent of the gross receipts from power sold by the government in each state.

House Democratic leaders today abandoned their effort to tighten up the discharge rule by which 145 members of the house can force a vote on pending legislation.

The proposed tightening of the rule was designed to forestall premature action on inflation legislation. Democratic leaders were understood to believe that President Roosevelt's attitude on inflation, made known today, will satisfy the so-called inflationist bloc in the house, and obviate the necessity for the rule precaution.

LYTTON TO BUILD A "STORE OF THE FUTURE" AT FAIR

Henry C. Lytton, State street merchant, today will formally inaugurate the foundation work on "The Store of Tomorrow" on the grounds of A Century of Progress. The ceremony is significant to Mr. Lytton, for forty-six years ago today—April 20, 1887—he opened his first store at State and Jackson streets.

The World's Fair store will attempt to reflect the most modern and future trends of large stores. The structure will be of modern design and have a 144 foot circular frontage at the 23d plaza, overlooking the lake.

As designed, the "Store of Tomorrow" will be divided into many divisions, each occupied by the manufacturer of a nationally known brand of men's clothing or accessories. The finished plans are the work of Ernest Leaker, director of display and decoration at The Hub, and Kenneth Welch, store designer. The building color has been arranged by Joseph Urban.

Woman Poses as Relief Worker; Jailed in Theft

Mrs. Joanna Kupis, 28 years old, 6120 School street, who had claimed to be a welfare worker employed by the county, was sentenced to ninety days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Joseph A. Graber on charges of receiving stolen property and obtaining money under false pretenses. Testimony showed she had attempted to dispose of clothing stolen in the burglary of the home of Mrs. Frank Goodreau, 7917 Fletcher street, Elmwood Park, on April 13.

EVAPORATED MILK LEADERS PREPARE A PRICE PROGRAM

Representatives of the nation's leading evaporated milk companies in session yesterday at the Congress hotel agreed that a voluntary action within the industry to raise the price paid to farmers for raw milk was preferable to a forced raise by action of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace as proposed in the farm relief bill.

A committee of nine members was named to work out a proposal acceptable to the industry and also to Secretary Wallace, with whom the industry's leaders conferred last week.

WIDOW OF YOUNG SLAYER'S VICTIM TELLS HER SIDE

DiscussesCommutation of Death Penalty.

BY TOM MORROW.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockford, Ill., April 19.—[Special.]—"What's the use?"

This comment today summed up the reaction of Mrs. William Sayles to the commutation o sentence given Russel McWilliams, 18 years old, who shot and killed her husband, a street car operator, during a robbery nearly two years ago.

The punishment of McWilliams, who was to have been electrocuted Friday morning, was commuted to a prison sentence of 99 years on order of Gov. Horner.

"I thought from the start that the death sentence was fully deserved," Mrs. Sayles said. "I don't see why McWilliams deserved any mercy. He showed none to my husband. It might have been different if it had been his first offense, but he had committed seven robberies before he killed my husband.

Blames Sentimental Sympathy.

"I suppose the fact that the public sympathized with McWilliams helped him a lot. They seem to forget that my husband, who hadn't harmed any one, was shot down in cold blood. they have made a hero of McWilliams in this case. I think, too, that politics had a lot to do with the commutation. I guess Gov. Horner wanted to give Clarence Darrow a birthday present."

Mrs. Sayles, who lives in a six room bungalow at 872 Second avenue, watched the case of McWilliams through three trials in the Circuit court and two appeals to the Supreme court. Each trial in the lower court resulted in death sentences for the youthful slayer. Twice the case was remanded in the Supreme court, and McWilliams was saved the third time by the order of the governor.

Tricked into Signing Letter.

Mrs. Sayles, a partial invalid, said that she had been approached by social workers, friends of McWilliams, and persons who had interested themselves in the case. Once, she said, a social worker tricked her into signing a letter which asked for mercy for McWilliams.

"I feel that there's not much use of having any law or any judges," she said, "if the verdicts don't mean anything. Two judges have ruled that McWilliams should die, but he's still alive."

McWilliams announced from his prison cell that he intended to "better some one else" to repay the kindness shown by Gov. Horner.

'KIND' YOUNG MAN BEATS AUTOIST, STEALS HIS $330

Frank Ginger, 2020 Pierce avenue, reported yesterday to West North avenue police that he had been robbed of $330 by a "kind" young man with a bandage over one eye. The young man appeared and offered to call a tow truck after Ginger had driven his car into the curb at North and Francisco avenues.

"For his kindness," Ginger said, "I took him to my home and gave him a few drinks. Then I discovered that $50 I had in a topcoat pocket had disappeared. I accused the man of taking the money. He denied it and struck me over the head. When I came to I found that $280 I had in a dresser drawer also had disappeared."

CREDITS SCHOOLS FOR GOOD ORDER IN DEPRESSION

U. of Ill. Head Talks to Parents, Teachers.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Danville, Ill., April 19.—[Special.]—Credit for the "stability with which the American populace behaved during the crisis," that fact that "America produced neither a Hitler nor a Lenin," was attributed tonight in part to the American system of education. Dr. Harry W. Chase, president of the University of Illinois so declared before the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers here.

Sees Peril to Schools.

"Our system of education has turned out men and women with civic knowledge and with respect for government," he said. "Persons talk about closing up school systems for a year or two. We must remember that our schools are for education of our children, and that anything that narrows their opportunities is a blot on American civilization."

Dr. Chase in speaking of a new attitude toward public school education said:

"I am not speaking of the reasonable view that certain expenditures must be reduced. Our schools, like all other enterprises, must meet the necessity for economies in these difficult times.

"I have in mind that attitude which regards education rather as a luxury and a charity than a cornerstone of American democracy."

More Than 800 Attend.

The two general sessions of the day, attended by more than 800 educators and mothers, were addressed by professional educators. The only rôle the mothers had on the program was the singing of a group of songs by the Danville mother singers. Mrs. Holland Flagler, Chicago, presided. Dr. Charles H. Judd, professor of education, University of Chicago, following Dr. Chase on the program, reminded the parents and teachers that "children are important because they are few in number and are future citizens," citing statistics illustrating the decline in the size of the American family.

Dr. Judd said that at present "there seems to be a lapse in the recognition of the value of children in American society, the public being overwhelmed with the financial burden that care of children in the mass imposes." He urged that antiquated tax systems be attacked.

Takes Rap at Clinics.

At a dinner departmental meeting, Dr. W. W. Bauer, director of bureau of health and public instruction, American Medical association, declared that pre-school examinations should be conducted by the family physician instead of by clinics.

A report of the nominating committee headed by Mrs. Robert D. Pringle, Chicago, named Mrs. Howard Johnson of Chicago as secretary, Mrs. Aaron Levy of Chicago as treasurer, Mrs. Charles W. Balch of Chicago as fifth vice president, and Mrs. J. H. Schacht of Moline as historian.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis or stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia, to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. Your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from Walgreen's. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

SIX DONORS ADD $22 TO FUND FOR HUNGRY PUPILS

Six contributors added $22.10 to the Hungry School Children's fund yesterday and brought the grand total given to the fund since last September to $23,555.87.

Another Easter gift of $5, sent anonymously, was among the contributions. A gift of $2 was sent in memory of Marian Fellows Fox. The Harriette Link Rhythm club, a class of small children, contributed $2.10.

Readers should remember that small gifts are welcome. A few pennies will buy a needy school child a hot nourishing noonday meal and will help out that much toward feeding 10,000 undernourished youngsters in 100 schools.

Acknowledgement of yesterday's gifts is made as follows:

$10—Mrs. Frank C. Caine.
$5—An Easter gift.
$2.10—Harriette Link Rhythm club.
$1—Barbara.

A Westerner Rents Entire Floor of Hotel for His Dog

George Palmer, a sheep grower from Boise, Idaho, registered at the Planters hotel, 12 North Clark street, yesterday. With him Palmer had a playful 4 months old pup. The dog took possession of the corridors and used them just as if they were his own property. Kenneth Williams, manager of the hotel, protested. Whereupon Sheep Raiser Palmer insisted that the dog must have his run and rented the whole floor at a cost of $53 a day. Now his pup has possession of all corridors and bedrooms.

Dr. Joseph Duffy's New Trial Plea Before Judge

Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Criminal court yesterday took under advisement a motion for a new trial in behalf of Dr. Joseph Duffy, who was convicted, with Lester J. [Old Doc] Tilton and Harry de Joannis, of conspiracy to violate the medical practice act. The judge announced that he would rule on the motion on April 24. Tilton, who for years had peddled a "so-called" cancer cure, and De Joannis, his promoter, were sentenced to one to five years and fined $2,000 each. The jury found Duffy guilty but recommended leniency.

HARRIMAN BANK OFFICERS SOUGHT BUYERS OF STOCK

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—Francis S. Williamson, a vice president of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company, now in the hands of a conservator, testified in Supreme court today that officers of the bank solicited purchasers of its stock in November, 1930. The admission partly confirmed the complaint of Mrs. Margaret Singleton, who is suing the bank and Joseph W. Harriman, its former president, for $2,524.

Mrs. Singleton charges that the bank officials urged her to buy some of the bank stock, which they described as representing part of an estate, and that she nfially bought two shares at $1,512 each. Subsequently, she charges, she learned that the stock was worth only $250 a share, and her suit is for the difference between that figure and the amount she paid for it.

Mr. Harriman is now under federal indictment for falsifying the books of the bank.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE WORLD IN A NEW TALK.

Mr. MacDonald, with his retinue of capable British statesmen, is on the high seas on his way to open up the first of the series of international talks by which President Roosevelt hopes to reach understandings permissive of a more hopeful future.

The items on Mr. MacDonald's list can't be much of a secret. One is debt. Another is the tariff. Mr. MacDonald and his associates can be pretty sure in their own minds what they want. The same thing can be said of the representatives of the other nations invited by the President. These nations may not agree with each other, but they are fairly clear in their minds on what they would like to obtain from the United States. They may play the debts against the tariff or the tariff against the debts, but to the extent that they could reduce both they would regard their missions as successful.

America does not know what is best for it. Americans cannot agree in their own interest. Instead of being quite certain what they should do, they are much bewildered. They are told that their insistence upon collection and their retention of the tariffs make world recovery almost impossible. There is no economic certainty which can be consulted and there is great political controversy.

The tariff represents a traditional policy supported by a majority in the country. American conservatism has been taught for generations that competition with the lower wages of foreign industry would be ruinous to the American system. It is recognized that the world relies upon trade and that goods buy goods. Americans realize if they sell they must also buy. Occasionally they are told that they do not know this, but that is untrue, although it is true that in their tariffs they have tried to reserve their home market as much as possible for their own producers. In its highest social theory the American protective system puts most of its emphasis upon the American wage scale. The most severe critical opposition to high tariffs stresses the argument that it is a scheme of exploitation.

With regard to the debt it has been made difficult for the United States to take a purely dispassionate view. The argument against the debt has been so managed that resentment colors American opinion. This is largely the fault of the debtors themselves.

Americans fear that any concessions they might make either as to debt collection or as to tariff reduction could be troublesome if not severely injurious. Consequently the conferences begin with one side quite confident what it wants and the other profoundly perplexed. President Roosevelt may see a way which is plainer to him than it is to many of his fellow countrymen. He may feel that he has a ground for bargaining which will enable him to satisfy the other negotiators and procure ultimate advantages for his own country. Most of his fellow countrymen are very dubious.

The import of world conditions is plainly dangerous. It is unfortunate that the outlines of the remedy are not clearer. It would be tragic to make more mistakes either in what is not done or what is done. It is unfortunate that the procedure most vigorously urged seems so one-sided in its immediate effects. The advantages sought in the concessions asked of the United States are plain and weighty. It is unfortunate that their compensations are so vague and obscure. The first lie within the visible material field. The others are in the doubt of theory and doctrine.

A NEWSPAPER LIBEL DECISION.

An important decision for the protection of a free press has just been handed down by the Supreme court of Florida. The suit was one for libel for publication of allegedly incorrect dispatches received by local newspapers from a press association.

In the opinion, delivered by Chief Justice Davis, the court points out that the modern newspaper differs greatly from the institution existing at the time the first libel laws and decisions were made, and a distinction is drawn between news stories and editorials which the newspaper itself originates or sponsors and the material provided by press associations. The court views the modern newspaper as a "screen" upon which is cast the news of the world gathered and distributed by special agencies, and when libel is charged malicious intent must be proved when they "mechanically" or as a matter of routine service reprint what is brought them by recognized and reliable general news gathering agencies.

The alternative, said the court, would be to impose upon newspapers the necessity of verifying for themselves all dispatches or of publishing each item on peril of being charged with libel. The rule of reason governs such cases, in the opinion of the court.

This judgment would seem to be dictated by common sense. When malicious intent is not shown, and of course in such cases it is most rare, a contrary rule would be an intolerable check upon the public's interest in getting all the news possible. Unless the rule laid down by Chief Justice Davis were the law, newspapers would be compelled to limit their news service to local news.

CHICAGO MILK FROM NEARBY TOWNS.

The continuance of threats of a strike by dairy farmers in Wisconsin and other states bordering on Illinois calls attention again to the advisability of speeding the sanitary inspection of close-in farms in Illinois. The threat of a strike is directed largely, though not exclusively, at the Chicago market, which, for one reason or another, has been supplied in considerable part from farms outside the 100 mile zone.

Hauling milk a long way to market is expensive and consumes time, during which the quality is in some danger of deterioration. Inspection of farms at a great distance from Chicago means an unnecessary cost to the health department of the city and makes for less careful examinations. There is also some economic advantage to Chicago if as much as possible of its purchases are made within the city's own trading area.

The citizens of neighboring states, and notably Wisconsin, have made no protest against their governments' attacks upon Chicago's welfare in the lake levels controversy. That was an indication that small value was placed upon the consuming market for dairy products in the metropolitan region. A successful Illinois waterway means a prosperous Chicago and an expanding market for milk and other dairy products; on the contrary, the shutting off of the flow through the Chicago river may mean epidemics in the metropolitan area, a declining population and declining purchases from dairy farmers.

As Chicago reduces its consumption of Wisconsin milk and increases purchases from nearby Illinois farms Wisconsin dairy farmers may have another occasion to regret the follies of their governing officials.

WHERE IT WILL DO THE MOST GOOD.

The French government proposes to spend thirty-three million francs, or $1,320,000, this year, ostensibly to propagandize in Europe and America in the interest of France. It seems "the foreign press, especially the American press, has not been sufficiently informed about France." In 1931 and 1932 South America, North Africa, and the orient were given attention, but now it "will be possible to reach the United States, and, in a general fashion, all North American nations, otherwise than through the intermediary of foreign newspaper correspondents."

This may be interpreted as meaning that the information service of the French foreign service will somehow find a means of delivering to the American public news and interpretations of French affairs approved at the Quai d'Orsay to supply the inadequacies and correct the errors of the regular press service of American newspapers. But before we expend much mental energy in speculating upon how this is to be accomplished it may be suggested that many acquainted with practical politics in France are of opinion that as a fund intrusted to the department of foreign affairs is protected from parliamentary investigation and public exposure it is a most satisfactory means of political corruption at home. Thirty-three million francs expended upon the remarkable scheme described as fully as possible above would represent a waste of which French thrift would hardly be guilty, but it is a neat sum for distribution in the thirsty channels of politics.

FOR LEGISLATIVE CONSIDERATION.

Proceedings to punish the individuals who obtained money from Col. Lindbergh under promise of returning the kidnaped baby were hampered if not defeated by the inability of New Jersey authorities to compel the presence of witnesses in Virginia. This is one of many cases in which the prosecution of crimes is handicapped by lack of laws permitting extradition of witnesses. To remedy this serious defect a uniform act has been drafted by the Association of Grand Jurors of New York County and is urged upon all state legislatures. The New York legislature passed the act last year and it was signed by Gov. Roosevelt.

The act enables a court to extradite, under proper safeguards, an essential witness in an important criminal case from any point within a thousand miles of the court, if the act is in effect in the intervening states. Judges and lawyers who have studied the measure give it their indorsement as a proper and much needed aid to criminal prosecution.

Another measure fathered by the Association of Grand Jurors is an act for the extradition of persons of unsound mind. The association recalls especially the case of Harry Thaw, who escaped from the prison for criminal insane at Matteawan, N. Y., in 1913, to New England and could not be apprehended there because he had been acquitted of murder on grounds of insanity.

To obviate such defects in public protection an act for extradition has been approved by the commissioners on uniform laws and other legal authorities and is recommended for adoption by the states.

Both of these measures seem to deserve consideration by the Illinois bar and public authorities, and in fact Gov. Horner has already referred the latter to Director Brandon of the public welfare department. If approved they should have the early consideration of the assembly.

Editorial of the Day

[Grand Rapids Press.]

The story related by the few survivors of the dirigible Akron's crash into the sea is one of cool bravery and self-discipline on the part of a crew plunging toward almost certain death. It was the sort of Spartan courage that America expects of its service men on land or sea or in the air.

But America should not expect those enlisted in its forces to be placed in rat trap contrivances like dirigibles or submarines. These dangerous weapons should be among the first to be placed on the disarmament list.

The dirigible may eventually be developed as a ship commercially useful. But it is hardly the navy's place to carry forward that development, at the cost of enlisted men's lives, for a purpose that serves no plausible end in national defense. The seventy-five men who died in the Akron plunge and in the subsequent search were sacrified merely for the sake of giving the navy a new plaything, a majestic airship in which they could parade about the world.

The millions of dollars wasted for the construction and operation of the Akron are not to be compared with the loss of life, but the money might have been spent on a great many projects of more value than this naval toy. How many more disasters like the Roma, the Shenandoah, and the Akron crashes must be experienced before the American congress will call a halt to appropriations for such follies?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"OUR COMMITTEE," said Mrs. Becker to the other D. A. R.'s in Washington, "is in constant touch with the war department, which will notify us when it is necessary for us to go to the White House to use our influence against reduced appropriations for the army and navy. At any hour, day or night—why, it might be tonight at midnight—the war department, if necessary, will notify us to swing into action and we'll swing into immediate action." If we were Franklin Delano we would call up the war department and tell 'em to have a heart and not turn out the D. A. R. at midnight tonight or any night or at half past two o'clock in the morning. With the D. A. R. swinging into action all over the White House lawn and putting ladders against the windows and hammering on the front door it would be almost impossible for F. D. to get a wink of sleep.

VIGNETTE FROM A GARDEN.

The book of spring, apocryphal,
Does not always include
The almanac of Raphael,
Thor's transcendental mood.

It comes in quiet temperament;
Excitement is in man;
And slandered March's loud lament—
Makes April's diagram.

Nature puts creation's root
In understanding clay,
Imprinting there an earthy foot—
A god's anatomy.

The freight that brings the hothouse rose
Avoids in passing by—
The violets along the track,
Blue aristocracy.

In the garden, resolutely,
Stands the hollyhock,
Open gates attend the larkspur
While the thistles knock.

Marigolds are rich exchange
From the garden bank,
Mercenary money plants—
Have the wind to thank.

The highway to Elysium
Is closer than we know,
Nearer than we suspected
A month or two ago.

But marjoram and candytuft
Often can transport,
When the winds are stirring
Through the spiderwort.

A dozen anniversaries
Has my apple tree;
The first . . . the year the blossoms came
In vestal ministry.

The second, when a cardinal
Selected it for home;
And in a timed triumvirate
Brought little ones along.

The third, and all the others
Were when a poet said—
"The only flowers I want are yours,
The day that I am dead."

Eternity is not so far
As often we may think,
It may be in a falling star,
Or in a garden pink.

It might be in a rose trellis,
In spicy mignonette;
But one place that I'm sure it is—
Is in the Bouncing Bet.

In my garden are three altars,
Golden in the sun,
Where a monkshood says the masses,
Spoken but to one.

Where my larkspur lies in waiting—
Underneath the snow,
Far beyond seasonal mating
Shall I also, go.

Blackbirds swing above my garden—
Dark as anthracite;
Freedom is the only warden
Charting out their flight.

ACCORDING to a recent arbiter of this American language, things that last year were "swell" and "grand" are now "swish" and "posh" (and don't you let papa catch you using old fashioned slang, either). But we don't get a break. We didn't see anything so darn swell or grand about last year when we were holding on to those umpty steen shares of Amalgamated Bathmats pfd., and now that we've sold them for a total of $5.81 and were going to order Bishop Burnet's "History of His Own Time" from London, the pound zoomed over thirty cents yesterday. What's either swish or posh about that?

FISTULA.

ONE of the more frequent disorders is fistula. The dictionary definition of the word is, "An abnormal passage leading from an abscess cavity or a hollow organ to the surface, or from one abscess cavity to another." When the term is used alone the reference is to an abnormal passage located by the side of the rectum and often opening into that organ at one end and perforating the skin at the other.

If a fistula is located in any other part of the body it is generally given a compound name, such as salivary fistula.

The impression is common that fistula is a form of tuberculosis and that consumption either follows or is caused by it. For this belief there is considerable basis. Consumption rarely causes tuberculosis of the mouth, or skin or tubercular abscesses elsewhere in the body. On the other hand, it rarely follows scrofula. One school of physicians holds that the tuberculosis of the neck glands which goes by the name scrofula immunizes or protects the lungs against consumption. For some reason not easily understood, fistula is an exception to both of these rules. A disproportionate number of those who have fistula ultimately develop consumption, and a disproportionate number of those with consumption develop fistulas in the course of time.

A recent report from the Chicago Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium throws light on this relation. Of a series of patients operated on for fistula in that institution 84 per cent had consumption. The lung disease had been present for times ranging from a few weeks to thirteen years before the rectal trouble developed. In 13 per cent the fistula preceded the discovery of the lung disease by periods ranging from two months to twenty-one years. Of these fistulas 78 per cent were tubercular, as proved by microscopic examinations. Of the patients in this hospital, 7 per cent have fistula.

All of this proves that there is considerable basis for the popular belief that consumption and fistulas are related. However, the belief exaggerated the relationship. The surgeon making this report adds that in his private practice the proportion of fistulas found to be tubercular is only 3 to 5 per cent as compared with the nearly 80 per cent reported from the institution.

Most fistulas are not tubercular and are neither secondary to consumption nor do they lead to that disease. Superficial fistulas may heal spontaneously and without treatment. Deep ones call for surgery.

PHYSICIAN PROBABLY RIGHT.

B. R. writes: A month ago, while taking a walk, my left leg got too tired and, after walking that way for half a block further, my foot simply refused to walk, having a pain like when a foot falls asleep. After waiting for a few minutes I was able to continue for another quarter of a block without any discomfort when the same fatigue and discomfort came on. This continued during the rest of my trip. I rubbed it with alcohol and it disappeared for about five weeks. Since then I cannot walk for more than a block. I have no pain, whether sitting or standing; my foot looks natural, only when that tired feeling comes on after a short walk part of the foot looks as though it were short of blood and the veins look a light blue and are thinner than the ones on the other foot. This foot is also colder than the other.

I consulted a doctor and he told me it was intermittent claudication, and he does not know of any remedy for it. What do you think of this diagnosis?

REPLY.

There is no reason for doubting your physician's diagnosis. Something can be done for some cases of this disease.

LIENS.

Chicago, April 13.—Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Would a lien on property interfere with a mortgage that is to expire next November? 2. Would I be forced to pay the lien before I could renew the mortgage? S. H. S.

1. Depends on which is prior in point of time.

2. Not necessarily. If, for example, the lien in question is a judgment which was recovered after the date of the mortgage, then the mortgage continues to be a prior lien and there is no more reason for insisting on the paying of the judgment before renewal than there would be to insist on the payment of a second mortgage before renewing the first.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BANKRUPTCY LAW.

Chicago, April 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—How can the new bankruptcy law recently passed by congress be applied to prevent a first mortgage foreclosure on a bungalow? Can the mortgage be reduced under this law? Can the holder of the mortgage be compelled to accept a small sum per month, either on a reduced amount or on the whole amount, until either amount is paid in full? G. P.

Under section 74 "an extension proposal may extend the time of payments of either or both unsecured and secured debts." "Such extension shall not reduce the amount or impair the lien of any secured creditor, but shall affect only the time and method of its liquidation."

Under subsection [a] the person applying for such relief must file a petition "stating that he is insolvent or unable to meet his debts as they mature, and that he desires to effect a composition or an extension of time to pay his debts." The amendment went into effect March 3, 1933.

CHICAGO.—It was a wild night at the World's Fair grounds. The wind howled and the waves roared, and when daybreak came over the angry lake evidences of the wrath of the elements were visible on every hand. Two hundred and fifty feet of the main roof of the Manufactures building was blown away. A large number of exhibits, particularly in the British section, were soaked and badly damaged. Twenty-five to fifty panes of glass fell in from the dome of the Horticultural building. Five hundred feet of staff, weakened by the wind and rain, fell from the walls of the Guatemala building. Part of the roof of the Music hall gave way. The bells in the tower of the German building were set to ringing by the wind. They are 110 feet high in the tower of the building and were cast at the order of the emperor and empress.

The exhibit from Lyons, France, at the fair is a collective one. The silk salon will include forty-three exhibits of spinners, silk throwers, etc. Twenty-seven manufacturers of Lyons will be represented in all sorts of tissues and fabric worth from 10 cents to $100 a yard.

The German empire has sent a commission consisting of university professors to represent the educational exhibit to be made by the fatherland at the fair.

The model in clay of the statue ordered by the government for the center of the French section at the fair is on the ocean. It represents "La France" majestically seated and wearing a cuirass. The head is erect and noble; above the bands of hair the three symbolical figures of liberty, equality, and fraternity form a diadem. The entire figure seated measures two meters forty centimeters in height.

APRIL 20, 1917.

WASHINGTON.—National prohibition of the liquor traffic as a measure to promote military and economic efficiency looms large on the legislative horizon today. A proposal to make such legislation a part of the war program of congress at this session was indorsed in a caucus of house Democrats by a vote of 87 to 60. The unexpected victory of the prohibition forces threw the caucus into turmoil.

WASHINGTON.—Impressed by the formidable opposition to the administration army bill in congress, particularly in the ranks of his own party, President Wilson issued a public appeal for the support of the principle of "selective conscription." The President's argument is contained in a letter to Representative Helvering of Kansas, a Democrat who favors the administration bill, the selective conscription feature of which has been subordinated to the volunteer system by the house committee on military affairs. The President issued his appeal on the eve of what is expected to be one of the bitterest legislative battles in a nation's history when the conscription bill comes up for passage.

LONDON. — Though the valiant troops of Gen. Nivelle, "the old fox of the French army," continued to press heavily against the German forces yesterday, the commander in chief desisted from the smashing blows he has delivered since the French offensive opened and successfully applied the well-known "pinching" tactics to the German salient which projects into the French lines northeast of Soissons. Swift advances drove the Germans back against the Chemin des Dames, the road which runs across the Craonne plateau, established the French on the summit of the plateau itself, and pocketed the heavy German forces between Laffaux and Jouyina. On this five mile tongue of land, extending southwestward from the plateau, Von Hindenburg's men are faced with the alternative of precipitate flight or certain surrender.

NEW YORK.—Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the national food commission, in a cablegram to James E. West, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, urges that the services of the quarter of a million members of the organization be employed in planting beans "so that the biggest bean crop ever known will be the contribution of the Boy Scouts to America and her allies."

CHICAGO.—Potatoes sold at $1.10 the peck yesterday in Chicago, eggs as high as 40 cents a dozen, and navy beans were retailed at 20 cents a pound. Stores began selling in limited quantities to prevent housewives hoarding supplies. It is said that professional men, real estate dealers, and others who possess ready cash have entered the game of food speculation and have been buying provisions in the wholesale markets.

MOUNT CHICAGO.

Chicago, April 17.—Dr. White, whose letter was published in the Voice of the People on April 15 suggesting that an island be built out in Lake Michigan off the Chicago shore, expresses the right idea but it does not go far enough. By way of comparison I have visited the east end of Navy pier, some 3,000 feet off shore, on hot days and have not noticed any appreciable difference in temperature.

What we need is an island with a mountain on it at least 2,500 to 3,000 feet high. The basic structure of said mountain could no doubt be built through the dumping of garbage, ashes and other refuse. As a name I suggest that it be called Mount Chicago. The Surface Lines could build a tunnel with tracks out to the island similar to the three tunnels now in use under the Chicago river, so that it would be accessible twelve months in the year. An incline railway would carry passengers to the top. Observation platforms could be built at different points. Think what a wonderful place this would be in summer time for the poor tired mother and her kiddies to spend a cool afternoon with temperatures in the city above 90 degrees.

What a boon this would be to Chicago. With no mountains within a thousand miles of our great city, Mount Chicago would attract many out of town visitors. Baseball diamonds, golf links, tennis courts and mountain trails could all be built, with skating, snowshoeing, skiing, and tobogganing as suggested winter sports. In fact, at an altitude of 3,000 feet these sports could no doubt be indulged in nearly all winter, instead of only the two or three weeks' skating season that Chicago now enjoys.

There are so many possibilities to a proposition of this kind that space will not permit mentioning all of them. A radio beacon could be erected that would dwarf the one on the Palmolive building, so far as visibility is concerned, and be visible under favorable weather conditions throughout the greater part of the United States. The department of agriculture would, no doubt, want to establish a weather bureau, not to mention the University of Chicago, which would doubtless be glad of the opportunity to establish an observatory closer to Chicago than the present one at Williams Bay, Wis.

We have almost everything else in Chicago. Why not a Mount Chicago? Let's go. CLYDE B. HARDING.

TELEPHONE CHARGES.

Chicago, April 17.—The people of Chicago are still being fleeced $3.50 for telephone connection, even where wires are already in place. The writer has a private line from his office to the warehouse. Owing to quiet business he is having it temporarily disconnected. The phones are left in place, but the telephone company writes that it will cost $6 to restore service, $3 for each instrument. When is our administration going to have this graft stopped? P. M. B.

TOO MANY TRAINS.

Chicago, April 17.—You have called attention to duplication of railway service as respects the St. Louis-Chicago and the Twin City-Chicago lines. The other day, in Kansas City, I noted that there are six passenger lines between that town and Chicago. Each of them has at least one good evening train leaving for Chicago. The Sante Fé has five; the Rock Island two.

Here is the time table: Rock Island, 5:30 p. m. and 9 p. m.; the Atchison, 6:15, 7:55, 9, 10, and 10:30; the Milwaukee and St. Paul, 6:30; the Alton, 6:45; the Burlington, 8:15, and the Great Western, 11:30 p. m.

Aside from through Pacific coast patronage covered by the Atchison and the Rock Island, I doubt if the customers from the Kansas City area for Chicago would fill one good train. TRAVELER.

THE FORGOTTEN FAMILY.

Chicago, April 16.—In the article on relief this morning THE TRIBUNE is, as always, the champion of the self-respecting, self-supporting and tax-paying citizen. And O, how we need a champion! I have answered many a howl about relief abuse the last few months with "THE TRIBUNE will get after them soon."

This has long been a public scandal about which every one seems to know but the officials. The clerks in the store look at me and shake their heads while filling relief orders with patented dog food, candy, etc. Yesterday I saw a hundred pound cake of ice being taken into a home where they have been getting all kinds of charity for years and where they have rent coming in all the time. I manage without ice nine months of the year.

I know for a fact that the groceries sent to the homes of the "clients" are in such large quantities that people have protested they could not use them all and were told to take that or nothing. I myself have been given spaghetti and dried apricots that had been passed on by two others. And milk is skimmed of cream and let run down the sink.

Our income has been reduced to an average of $15 a week the last year, but we have kept afloat and out of debt, paying all taxes so far by using our small savings. And now we must pay the sales tax. Our governor said no one will notice this tax, but we and our kind know better.

What adds insult to injury is that every plea for more and more money is based on the supposition that it is to keep people from starving. How they love that word as a money getter! We know many of these "starving" are living much better than we are. No one worries whether we have balanced rations or are able to keep up on "morale." And we want something done about it. WORRIED.

Admiral Cluverius Will Tell Experiences in Spanish War

Historical Society Will Commemorate Conflict at Special Meeting Sunday.

BY JUDITH CASS.

EVERY prominent Chicagoan who remembers 1898 with particular pride and glory is planning to drink a cup of tea Sunday afternoon at the Chicago Historical society. In commemoration of the declaration of war with Spain on April 25, 1898, the trustees of the society have decided to have a very special party with two guns on display that contributed fire and fury to that conflict, and first hand reminiscences of several of the more important battles.

The reminiscences will be contributed by Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, commandant of the Great Lakes Naval Training station. As a junior officer in charge of one of the small boats of the ill fated Maine, Admiral Cluverius went through the Spanish-American war and took part in many another thrilling event. His subject is to be "1898 and After."

Admiral Cluverius has also promised to bring with him a revolver that was used by an officer of the Maine. This will be displayed side by side with the firearm that Charles S. Dewey is presenting to the historical society on this occasion. It is also a revolver and it, too, saw Spanish-American action, for it belonged to Aguinaldo, the famous Filipino rebel chief of the war.

Mr. Dewey has had the revolver carefully laid away among his keepsakes since he was a student at Andover. One of his roommate's brothers fought against the rebel chief and captured the firearm from him. Not considering its value very seriously at the time, he passed it on to Mr. Dewey. Then Mr. Dewey took it on with him to Yale, and finally brought it to Chicago.

Seek Material On Spanish War.

When he heard the trustees of the historical society commenting recently that they had little in the way of a Spanish-American exhibit he suggested his revolver and they accepted with great excitement and gratitude. Then the Sunday party was chosen as the proper time for its presentation.

"The problem is," the historical society trustees explain, "to convince people that articles of the Spanish-American period are treasures. It is considered too near the present day in time's cycle, not romantic enough to be of interest to historians."

Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne are planning to be present Sunday to hear Admiral Cluverius and to examine Mr. Dewey's revolver. Both of them are acquainted with Aguinaldo, who is now enjoying the quiet life of a farmer in the Philippines. As they describe the rebel chief, he is a living example of the strenuous life of the twentieth century, having served as soldier, sailor, medical student, petty office holder [under Spanish rule] and "chief executive" of his nation . . . since he was a house boy and scoured the knives and set the table for a Jesuit priest at Cavite. It was in 1901 that Aguinaldo was captured by Brig. Gen. Frederick Funston and took the oath of allegiance to the United States.

Howard F. Gillette is to play host to a corps of Sea Scouts at the party Sunday, and Barrett Wendell will be present with a troop of Boy Scouts.

Welcome Polo Players Today

There will be a delegation on hand this morning to greet Winston Guest and Michael Phipps when they step off the Century and they probably won't have another quiet moment until they leave town some time the end of next week. Beer parties, cocktail parties and late supper parties are all in the making, though, as Frank Bering, the genial chairman of entertainment for the National Polo championships, explains, "We can't decide any plans until these celebrities arrive."

Mr. Guest and Mr. Phipps will team up tonight with Harvey Schaefer in one of the most thrilling matches so far at the 124th Field Artillery armory against the class B champions from the Chicago Riding club. Then on Saturday evening they will play the riding club's class A trio. And after this second game there is to be a big party . . . the biggest, in fact, they will enjoy here, though the place nor the details have not yet been announced.

Jimmy Mills and Stewart Iglehart are due the first of the week, but the two popular Gerry brothers, "Ebby" and "Bobby," are, according to reports yesterday, about to disappoint polo fans here and neglect this year's nationals.

Rebori Tells Plans for Ball

"It's going to be better than the architects' ball" answered "Andy" Rebori when we asked him yesterday if the "Bal des Quat'z Arts" was going to be as good a party as that far famed one the architects gave last autumn at the Drake hotel.

If Mr. Rebori's optimism is justified the ball that will "tilt the lid" at A Century of Progress Monday night, May 29—the exposition opens on June 1, you know—will make history in our city, for the other one was such a great success, from the standpoint of those who were there at least.

The "ball of the four arts," to translate it literally, is to be held in the "Streets of Paris" at the Fair. If present plans materialize there will be social and business leaders from all over the country at the affair, for invitation committee chairmen are being appointed in the principal cities of the country to arrange groups in their cities to come to Chicago by train, plane, and automobile for the preinaugural ball. Among those working with Mr. Rebori, who is the director of Paris, Inc., on plans for the ball are George Lytton, president of the sponsors; Mrs. James Ward Thorne, Mrs. George Woodruff, Mrs. John Root—these three women head Chicago's invitation committee — Laurence H. Armour, Edward A. Cudahy Jr., and Louis C. Seaverns.

Entertainment for Polish Ambassador

From Titus Zbyszewski, the Polish consul general, comes news of the plans for entertaining the Polish ambassador, Stanislaw Patek, when he visits Chicago next month. He is to arrive on Saturday afternoon, May 6, and that evening the Charles S. Deweys will entertain at dinner for him at their State parkway residence. The next day Mr. Zbyszewski will give a luncheon for the ambassador at his apartment, 999 Lake Shore drive, and that afternoon the distinguished guest will participate in a large celebration organized by the Polish National alliance in commemoration of the Polish national holiday.

That night the Polish organizations and societies will give a dinner at the Palmer house for the ambassador and the next day, Monday, the Polish Women's alliance will entertain at luncheon for him in their newly erected building at 1314 North Ashland avenue.

Yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. William T. Bacon, in Winnetka, several matrons gathered for tea to discuss plans for a minstrel show to be given on May 26 under the direction of A. Iver Coleman in the parish house of Christ church. This was the first meeting and it was decided that Mrs. Roy E. Bard will be ticket chairman. Others on the committee for the show, which will be followed by dancing, are Mrs. Ralph Sargent, president of the Women's Guild of Christ church, and Mrs. Alfred Britten, treasurer of the Choir Guild.

Linen Benefit for Passavant.

This week is a gala hailing of the end of the Lenten season for all of society's matrons interested in Passavant hospital. On Monday there was the portrait tea for Mrs. Robert R. McCormick and Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, president of the woman's board, and now this evening comes the select party Mrs. Harry H. Shearson has planned to benefit the linen committee of the Woman's Aid society.

The party is scheduled for 9 o'clock at the Lake Shore Drive hotel. Miss Beatrice Borland, daughter of the Chauncey B. Borlands, is to give her fascinating movie and talk, "Banging Through India and Persia," and Miss Alice Mock of the Chicago Civic Opera company is coming to sing.

Before this stellar program, however, there is to be a grand dinner in the dining room of the hotel, and all of the members of the committee and many more are planning special parties.

Dr. Anspacher Speaks Today.

Dr. Louis K. Anspacher will arrive this morning from New York to speak to the Chicago Drama league at a 12:30 luncheon in the French room of the Drake hotel. Dr. Anspacher's topic will be "The Jazz Age."

All of the women who sew Red Cross garments at the weekly causeries of the Alliance Français in the Fine Arts building are sure to be present this afternoon, for Mrs. Charles S. Dewey has consented to tell [in French, of course] some of the more intriguing details about "French Ambassadors I Have Known."

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago will lecture in Kuppenheimer Memorial hall at the Skokie school in Winnetka. Dr. Hutchins' lecture, which has as its title "The Educated Person in Public Life," is sponsored by the Winnetka Nursery school board, with Mrs. Herbert Sieck as the chairman.

Visitors who will be very busy as soon as her friends know that she and her new husband are here are Mr. and Mrs. William A. Blake, who arrived at the Ambassador East last Saturday for a fortnight's stay. Mrs. Blake, the former Elizabeth Channon Bendix, did not let any one but her mother, Mrs. James H. Channon, and her sisters know that she was coming, for she wanted time to let her relatives get acquainted with her husband before she began introducing him to her many friends.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the secretary of state, entertained at tea this afternoon at the Carlton in compliment to Mme. De La Boulaye, wife of the new ambassador from France, and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. Mrs. Hull has out invitations for luncheon next Tuesday for Miss Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of the prime minister of Great Britain, who will be a guest with her father at the White House.

Mrs. Daniel C. Roper, wife of the secretary of commerce, entertained at tea this afternoon for the delegates to the D. A. R. congress from North Carolina.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elbert H. Gary has gone to Atlantic City.

Mrs. Richard T. Wilson and Miss Muriel Langmore entertained parties this evening in the St. Regis Seaglade, where "A Night in Paris," a dinner and supper dance was given for the benefit of the Riverside Day Nursery.

Mrs. Inman Brokaw is due on the Europa on April 24 and will be at the Drake, where she has had an apartment several years.

Mrs. Joseph Walker, who was at the Westbury, has opened her house at Garrison for the season.

Kenwood Club Fashion Shows

Mrs. Kimball Burr was one of the attractive young women who displayed smart spring fashions yesterday afternoon and again last night at the Kenwood Social Service club's annual spring Infant Welfare benefit. The afternoon fashion showing was at a bridge tea and the evening one at a supper dance, both in the Urban room of the Congress hotel. The other models were Mrs. George B. Cross, president of the club; Mrs. Albert Cummins, Mrs. Henry Conkey, Mrs. Faris Chesley, Mrs. Kenneth, MacLellan, Mrs. Berthold Cronson, Mrs. Carl Defebaugh, Mrs. Henry Cummins, Mrs. Philip Copenhaver, and Mrs. Raymond Lukins. Slashed Effects Are Prominent in Paris Frocks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Necklines built up to an excessive modesty continue to be outstanding in Paris spring and summer evening styles, and they are paramount in daytime clothes. The extreme effect of covering up is, however, greatly mitigated by the prevalence of peekaboo openings that appear on bodices with modest necklines.

Maggy Rouff and Worth slash some of their high necked bodices almost to the waistline in front and back. Jean Patou harnesses his back bodices so as to leave here and there peeps of skin plainly visible. Jane Regny leaves triangles of bare skin showing at some place around the waistline, and Bruyere puts her peekaboos right on top of the shoulders, as is shown in the model sketched today.

This frock is one of the long sleeved evening dresses, of which there are so many in Paris at the moment, and is made of ivory lacquered satin. The dress has a streamline body, with a seam up the center front and back from the hem of the skirt to a high waistline. Tucks in herringbone arrangement at the waistline help the easy molded line along.

The wide shoulder straps of this model are twisted in front and back where they join the frock and the long bell sleeves begin below the top of the shoulders and end at the wrists in narrow fitted cuffs.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"Ivan" is, technically, one of the best pictures to emerge from the studios of the soviets. It has some breath-takingly lovely photography, a bit of humor, some scenes intensely dramatic in their simplicity and fervor, and a number of powerfully drawn characterizations.

The story—if story you can call it—has the same general trend of most Russian narratives. It deals with the activities of the workers employed in constructing the mammoth Dnieprostrov dam; depicts Ivan, who is merely the personification of the youth of the land lined up by the soviets to participate in industrial enterprises, leaving his Ukrainian village to become a skilled worker AND—in the course of time realizing his ambition, and, in the last reel, shows the Red army in review, all set to protect what the workers have built.

The picture presents some pat contrasts between a slacker of the old school and the up and coming achievers of the new. You are introduced to some of the notables who furnished the headwork for the building of the dam, and are struck, as you always are by the enthusiasm and unself-consciousness of the Russian players.

Of love interest the piece hasn't a soupçon. Maybe your imagination will read romance into an occasional glance flung by Ivan at a husky damsel operating a crane—but I couldn't see it that way.

The picture is too long. When the director hit on a good thing he clung to it with tenacity—like a man who tells a really funny story over and over again. So, several parts that would have been effective as brief scenes are strung out till you could yip with impatience.

Sunny Jim.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This is "Sunny Jim," though at the time this portrait was made he seemed to be in a serious, thoughtful mood and his sunny dispostion was not so evident. The name "The Overall Boy" will suit him quite as well. Cut Jimmy's hat of a light yellow, straw colored material, his shirt of a peppy print, and the overalls of blue—either striped or plain.

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn street.

Matrix Club Party.

The Matrix club is to hold A Century of Progress bridge party and concert at 8:30 this evening in the Alumnæ room of the Allerton hotel. This is the first of a series of parties to be given by Matrix, an organization of professional women writers, to raise funds for the entertainment of visiting women journalists during A Century of Progress.

Leacock Sees Student Dying of Compulsion

Economist Talks Before English Union.

Dr. Stephen Butler Leacock, economist of McGill university and famous humorist, addressed the annual meeting of the Chicago chapter of the English Speaking union last night in the Drake hotel on "Education by the Yard." He began with "an outline of my address, so you will know what I am talking about," which was never finished, but when he stopped talking he had delivered an indictment of educational methods.

"I have been teaching for 88 years," he said, "actually only 44 by the calendar, but each one seemed like two." He then presented the theme that of the two contradictory elements in education, the desire to know and the compulsion to learn, the latter has to a great extent killed the value of education. A few of his more pointed conclusions were:

"The written examination is the most ghastly disfigurement on the face of our intelligence—but it is necessary.

"The last of the students is dead.

"What we need is the old fashioned professor who was a little flustered and a little foolish. There are no more of them.

"Our universities kill poets all the time. If a poet comes to us we soon knock it out of him with required courses and examinations.

"Corporal punishment in secondary schools is a thing of the past, unthinkable. Public opinion has put caning beyond the pale. Yet there are two generations of pupils I have licked at Upper Canada college, among them two prime ministers, a major general, and others who have done well.

"We should have a little more of the spirit of education which was illustrated by Rousseau with the character Emile, the little boy who learned for the joy of learning and only as his curiosity was aroused. It is true, however, that little Emile would never know a circular angle until he met it in the bush, while an English schoolboy learns the rudiments of navigation by having it thumped into him. Of the two, I would sooner trust the English schoolboy with a ship."

Red Tape in College Records Abolished as Economy Move

Simpler, but just as efficient, methods of keeping college records have been developed during the depression by registrars whose appropriations have been slashed. This was disclosed yesterday at the convention of the American Association of College Registrars, held in the Stevens hotel.

"Much of the red tape being eliminated never will and never should be brought back," said Ernest Miller, recorder of the University of Chicago.

Fifteen registrars reported they had abolished all attendance records. Others have done away with probation reports, midquarter grades, fraternity grade lists, and class grade lists. Several colleges have proposed the elimination of all the machinery of registration.

Chorus Groups Fill Day with Good Music

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It was possible to hear quite an amount of well performed music yesterday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon the Chicago Symphony orchestra gave the last of the young people's programs at Orchestra hall, assisted in this case by a large choir from the Roosevelt High school. Excellently trained, accurate, and persuasive of tone, they sang eight-part unaccompanied choruses by Mendelssohn and Di Lasso and an encore under the direction of their conductor, Erhardt Bergstrasser. Mr. Stock then took the baton and led them through Horatio Parker's "Union and Liberty" and the chorus of Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance."

The Swedish Choral club took the stage of Orchestra hall in the evening, and before a crowded house sang Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise and Rossini's "Stabat Mater" under the direction of Harry T. Carlson. It was another case of good training and fine material with which to work. The chorus has a striking ability to go into resonant sturdiness of tone without apparent effort, but it can also sing softly with no loss of vitality. Its accuracy and balance are entirely admirable.

The soloists were Olive June Lacey, soprano; Margaret Gent, contralto; Walter Pontius, tenor, and Frederic Jenks, bass, four artists of ability who won much well deserved applause for their appearance singly, in combination, and with the chorus. Mr. Pontius' performance of "Cujus Animam" was a high spot both in range of voice and assured certainty of singing.

Meanwhile Elizabeth Moritz, a pianist of striking talent, was giving a recital at Kimball hall. An expert technician, she has learned the secret of being broad to the point of muscularity without ever pounding, and to be brilliant without loss of ease or accuracy. She began her program with the first American performance of Franz Philipp's Toccata in D and followed it with Brahms' Sonata in F minor, two numbers capable of testing the skill of any pianist, and in which she made a notable impression.

At the same hour the Austin Opera club gave a performance of "Cavalleria Rusticana" in English at the Austin High school theater under the direction of George Gunderson. Nina Meilinger, Roy Zobel, Emil Taflinger, Alice Baenziger, and Edna Moe were the principals. There was a chorus of forty formed around the choir of Faith Presbyterian church as a nucleus. The orchestra was composed of prominent west side musicians.

Warns Carnegie Hall May Become Movie Theater

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—The possibility that Carnegie hall, the leading concert center of the city, may be converted into a motion picture theater unless the patronage of the music loving public increases was intimated today by Robert E. Simon, president of Carnegie Hall, Inc., at a luncheon meeting of officials of the company and representatives of leading concert managements.

NewHandbags, Gloves Startle Style World

Costume Accessories Win Happy Buyers.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

There may have been more decorative eras of feminine fashions, but any prowling shopper will doubt it. What with gloves gone absolutely mad with ruffled cuffs, color, and color contrasts that fairly scream for adventurous buyers, and some of the best looking bags ever unpacked, these spring days ought to set some sort of a record.

The first thing you will notice the next day you snoop around for new things are white handbags . . . you'll see them made of sleek white patent leather, of dull finished, amazingly soft kidskin, of crinkled crepes called matelasse, of thick woven fabrics, but all of the newest arrivals are a clear sparkling white.

There are some oblong numbers that are just big enough to be plenty swanky clutched under the arm of the gal who wears dark colored suits, wide and capacious oblongs that are flat and anything but bulky, yet the can hold all the shopping loot you must carry. One has a huge oblong chromium buckle decorating the extreme lower right corner, another is fitted with two outsize lifesaver circles also of chromium, while some other snappy models use gold as a stunning contrast in frame or clasp.

Plain white dull finished handbags are extraordinarily effective with braided loops pinch hitting for the usual metal clasp, and if you must have dogs, you can find some envelope purses handsomely canine with two black and white pups attached by a cord leash to the round disc of a clasp.

White belts to match these white handbags are the newest things in town . . . you can buy narrow braided affairs of cord to match the cord trimmings on the bag of your choice, or you can select a glistening white patent leather belt with a silver buckle that matches exactly the combine on the patent leather handbag. White belts combined with colored buckles or trick slides such as scarlet, orange, green, and silver and gold and some copper offer practically limitless possibilities for the collector of handbag and belt to match.

There seems to be a grand rush for the plain tailored leather handbags fashioned with the two huge initials of the owner. As a knockout and unusual frame and clasp these letters are simple block type, primer style, but you've no idea how smart they can be until you have seen . . . for instance, two gold letters topping a beige leather bag, the frosty silver accent of two letters contrasting black or deep blue, or dusky copper with ginger brown, or chromium with dark green or gray. They deserve the rush they are getting, for they unquestionably are the swankiest accents for tailored street costumes that can be found.

The Changeling Bride

By Martha Ostenso

SYNOPSIS.

The Hendersons—Meryl and Margaret, sisters, Flint, their older brother, and Andrew, the father, have lived for twelve years in poverty in a fishing settlement on the shores of Lake Superior, after losing their fortune in Chicago. Great-Aunt Letitia, formerly dean of a girl's school in Ohio, is the liaison between the Hendersons and a cultured past. Flint and his friend, Ned Bremner, hope to build up a great export business. A forest fire brings Blake Lawrence, injured and lost, to the Henderson cottage. There were two great names in nearby Agate Bay and its environs—Lawrence and Greer. When Blake returns to Agate Bay he takes Meryl with him to be his bride. Meryl learns, after the wedding ceremony, through Lucia, a snobbish cousin of the Lawrences, that Blake married her as an escape from Christine, the wife of Julius Greer, with whom he had been in love. Meryl prepares to return home. Theresa, Blake's sister, persuades her to stay for six months, for Blake's sake, whom she still loves, and not to hurt her people. Theresa promises to teach her social service work. Greer at one time saved the Lawrence fortune and Blake feels honor bound not to interfere with the crooked schemes he knows Greer is engaged in. Meryl believes Blake won't fight Greer because of Christine. Greer causes the death of Ola Palka, an old friend and neighbor of the Hendersons. Theresa and Meryl go to New York to attend a charity conference. Christine calls on Blake.

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

Christine closed the door behind her and leaned against it with studied diffidence.

It was studied diffidence, Blake knew. And yet her eyes burned somberly across to him. His smile was an effort at casual friendliness. He stepped toward her and offered his hand.

"It's nice to see you again, Christine," he greeted her, with determined warmth. "But what brings you back to the frozen north?"

Her slim hand, delicately tense, clung to his. Her eyes clung to his. He felt suddenly as though his self-hatred were swarming like bees about his head. This situation—like all the other damnable situations—was of his own making.

"I—I couldn't stand it any longer," she said swiftly.

Blake's mouth became set in wry desperation. "You couldn't stand—what?" he asked.

She smiled, a hurt, accusing smile. "O, Blake—please be honest with me!" she pleaded shortly. "We aren't strangers." Her white fingers fluttered upward to the bosom of her gown. She lifted her face in a challange that was like some flame steady and white beneath a transparent surface.

"O Blake, please be honest with me, we aren't strangers.

"You are quite right, Christine," he said, in a voice that sounded heavy, inadequate, futile. "We have never been quite honest with each other—or with ourselves."

She laughed softly and seated herself in a chair before the open fire. "I'll be honest with you, then," she said. "I stayed away as long as I could. When Lucia wrote me and told me that Meryl had left, I couldn't stay away any longer. Lucia may be a little fool in some respects, but she knows what I have known from the first—that you and Meryl are not happy."

Blake colored darkly, but kept his eyes fixed upon her.

"Knowing me as you do, Christine, you ought to know that there are some things I do not care to talk about."

"Your wife, for example."

"Christine, please!"

"Are you being honest with me?"

He looked at her coldly. "I would not be honest if I did not tell you that this conversation is extremely distasteful to me, Christine. I wish you would change it."

Her small, erect figure seemed to crumple as though he had struck her. Her eyes burned sullenly, contemplatively at him.

"But if I do not choose to change it! There was a time when we could talk about anything—and you found it far from distasteful. I have waited all day for this moment—to be with you alone. Waited—and hated everyone about me. But all you tell me is that I'm distasteful to you."

"I didn't go so far as that—quite, Christine," Blake protested.

"It doesn't matter. It's all the same. I have come all the way back to you—for this."

"The fact is, Christine," Blake said very deliberately, "I am in love with my wife as I never thought I could be with anyone. That, probably, will explain everything."

She eyed him narrowly, craftily almost. "And she is with you?"

His eyes gleamed in sudden anger. "That is something I will not discuss with you—or with anyone," he said in desperation.

Christine indulged in a taunting little laugh that stung him. "That seems to bring the conversation neatly to an end," she said smoothly. "I congratulate Meryl. She seems to know how to play the ancient game, for all her simplicity, better than the rest of us. Her technique is still a bit faulty, however, or she would know how to prevent the gossip that's going the rounds among your friends in New York."

Blake tossed his cigaret aside impatiently. "I have never been tempted to ask a guest—a lady—to leave this house, Christine, before she wished to go, but——"

"My dear, I'm sorry," she said gently, even contritely. "I forgot myself for the moment. It's just that I can't understand. After everything that we have been to each other—and you are still everything to me—I have no pride left, Blake. I love you—and I hate everything and everyone who has come between us."

Blake looked away in a conscious effort to regain his self-control.

"You are only making an unpleasant situation unbearable, Christine," he told her.

She got up slowly from her place before the fire and stood beside him. "I have told you I have no pride, Blake," she said, almost in a whisper. "Some day you may have need of me—as I had need of you when I came to you. I shall be as ready then as I am now—as I have always been."

He had no need of asking what she meant. She was offering him that compromise which had become all to familiar to him among people of his acquaintance—among men and women who were married to frigidity or incompatibility, and who had made the best of it in the manner Christine suggested. There had been a time when such an arrangement might not have been revolting to him. But now, after his weeks of arid loneliness, Christine's overture moved him with cold disgust.

He looked at her with a feeling of stupefaction. In his acute discomfort and embarrassment, he felt ponderous and entirely without humor.

"I can only say that I'm terribly sorry, Christine," he said awkwardly. "I want you to try and forget it."

She looked at him strangely, unbelieving, for a long time—and then, suddenly, she was gone.

In less than a fortnight, Meryl and Theresa were met at the station by Nelson, the chauffeur, and Lucia, who happened to be at the Lawrence house when Theresa's telegram arrived.

Lucia was very gay. "Welcome home, darlings!" she cried as she embraced them both. "Blake was kept at a nasty meeting."

Theresa, feeling rather stodgy and bored, got into the car after Meryl, and Lucia followed.

"Our absence hasn't put you into a decline, Lucia," she observed dryly. "You look quite chipper."

"O, I was terribly low for a long time," Lucia confessed, "just after you all went away. But when Christine got back I perked up again."

Meryl drew the robe over her knees. In spite of the fact that the car was heated, the chill she had felt when she got off the train remained with her. It was a chill of nervous excitement, but it seemed to penetrate to the depths of her body as she heard the mention of Christine's name.

"We heard she was back," Theresa observed idly.

"Yes, she's been back for two weeks," Lucia replied.

Appeal for Shoes.

Today I should like to make a special appeals for men's shoes. There are so many cases where a discarded pair of ordinary shoes would seem like seven league boots to some footsore, weary man. In one particular instance brought to my attention a young man has been tramping the hard pavements, wearily searching for work, wearing a pair of tennis shoes. You can well imagine what a pair of comfortable shoes, size 7, would mean to him. He is the oldest of 7 children and his father has been out of work for over a year. So if you have shoes of any size, 7, 8, 9, 10, won't you please let me have them?

Movie Babies Open Eyes on Flower World

Children of Actors Get Many Presents.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 19.—[Special.]—The baby section at Cedars of Lebanon hospital, where Harold Brent Wallis Jr., one week old son of Louise Fazenda and Hall Wallis, and Elizabeth Montgomery, 4 day old daughter of Bob Montgomery and the former Elizabeth Allen, non-professional, are getting their first look at life, is a veritable bower of flowers. THE TRIBUNE's correspondent paid a visit to Louise's room in the hospital, and counted 36 boxes of flowers delivered in one afternoon.

Some of the gifts received by the Wallis baby make even a man's eyes kindle. One was a furry rabbit holding a beer mug which was filled with gardenias. Another was a little porcelain appearing receptacle in lavender enamel filled with Cecil Bruner roses and gardenias; there was a large, white furred rabbit with a blue bow, from whose paws were suspended a baby's comb, brush, powder puff.

A gift brought to Baby Wallis from the 9 months' old daughter of Director George Fitzmaurice and Diane Kane was a regulation cradle completed filled with roses, blue delphinium and gardenias, and bearing a note with Baby Fitzmaurice's name which read: "They say gentlemen prefer blondes. I am a blonde."

The Wallis baby is a little blond fellow with blue eyes; the Montgomery baby is darker. Zasu Pitts remembered the mama as well as the son, and sent her old pal, Louise Fazenda, a great orange colored basket of mysterious and interesting looking food, some in jars, some in bright colored cellophane wrappers, some in silver paper.

George Frank, one of the better known actors' agents, is introducing the new Mrs. Frank. They were married by Justice of the Peace E. H. Billings last Saturday night. She was Barbara Sheldon, 21 year old New York brunette. Frank gave his age as 37.

George O'Brien, Fox western star, quietly slipped back into Hollywood yesterday, the quietness of his return being caused by the long standing illness of his father, former Police Chief Dan O'Brien of San Francisco, whom George went to Europe to bring home. George's father is much better than he was when he went to Germany and Italy for treatment a year ago.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a Saturday morning radio feature—will be presented Saturday by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 9:45 for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

To perk or not to perk—that is the question!

And if we do not prefer to perk, shall we steep or shall we filter? The subject, as your womanly intuition already has told you, is coffee. The debate in hand, how shall we make it, and in what?

There are tricks to the production of a soul warming cup of coffee that we too seldom understand. And if hubby is to dash off each day with no trace of morning grouch it behooves us to look to the coffee pot . . . and have a care!

The goodness or sadness of a cup of coffee depends on the brand and freshness of coffee we use, and on the method and the utensil in which we make it.

The brand of coffee we buy and like will depend both on our tastes and our pocketbooks. Some have much more of a roasted flavor than others. As a rule, as in the case of many foods, the coffees which are uppish in price are considered by many connoisseurs to have a superior flavor and aroma. Yet again we have sent those same connoisseurs into raptures over one of the low priced coffees carefully prepared.

The thing to remember is that cheap coffee that is fresh is better than the best grade of coffee that is stale.

Also, if you are buying coffee by bulk, see to it that it is ground just before you buy it . . . has not stood around weeks on a grocery shelf.

Then for the making. If you are thinking of buying some new coffee equipment you will have three types to consider. Any one of the three will make good coffee. First, it may be simply our old friend the coffee pot for making steeped—sometimes called boiled—coffee. Second, it may be a percolator—an electric or a non-electric kind. Or lastly, it may be the kind that is known as the French Biggin or tricolator, for making drip or filtered coffee.

But if I can't tell you which is the best I can give you a few pointers on what to look for in each type of equipment. First, see to it that it's durable. Get a good grade of enamel, aluminum, nickle, or chromium plate, or of glass or china. A poor enamel will quickly chip. A poor aluminum will dent. A material which will hold heat is important, and glass and china are good for this purpose, but they are also more likely to be destroyed than metals.

Next, look for coffee equipment which is easily cleaned, has a big top, and preferably a short, broadish spout.

Have you ever tasted bitterness in coffee? It's a sure indication that the maker has boiled it or steeped it too long. And remember, more coffee, not longer heating, makes stronger coffee. For steeped coffee the best way is simply to pour boiling water over the grounds, then to place the pot on a warm surface to keep hot, yet not to boil it. Let it steep five minutes, then serve. You see, it takes only a few minutes to extract the flavor, and that's all we want from coffee. Longer heating brings out substances which make the coffee bitter.

Then about percolating. Don't try to make up cup of coffee in a largish percolator. It must come up over the opening of the spout or it won't "perk." Allow 2½ to 3 minutes per cup of cold water, and about half that time for hot water. I use from 1 to 2 tablespoons for each cup. The amount, though, depends on family tastes.

And finally about the tricolating method which gives us dripped or filtered coffee. This makes good bachelor equipment, for one doesn't even have to hold a stop watch on it. Simply pour boiling water over the grounds [1 tablespoon coffee per cup of water]. These grounds are in an upper compartment with a perforated floor, which lets the water seep gradually through the coffee and down into the pot. It's often a good idea to heat the lower part of your tricolater with hot water just before starting operations. Otherwise the coffee is inclined to cool too rapidly.

Then another tip on drip coffee. The grounds absorb the delicate aroma of the coffee which has dripped through them if these grounds aren't removed as soon as the tricolating has finished. Also remember that it's the fragrant odors that give us the coffee taste, and that these escape at the first chance. Steeped and dripped coffee should have little reason for escaping steam, so a little plug of tissue paper in the spout during the process will add flavor to the cup.

Helen B. Slutz Exhibit Opens New Gallery

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An exquisite group of flower paintings in pastel by Helen Beatrice Slutz opens a new gallery in Chicago. This is the Ohm gallery, Diana Court building, under the charge of George Chapellier.

Miss Slutz exhibited a year ago in the Illinois Woman's Athletic club, and since then her reputation for children's portraits has grown by leaps and bounds. Her particular development in this branch of painting is the employment of water color as a medium and presenting the sitter in profile. The result is more than charming.

The current exhibit shows three pastel portraits of great merit and a group of miniatures, in addition to the pastel flower studies. The flower paintings are sparkling, fresh, and decorative. They give an accurate account of the spiritual quality of the artist's talent. Several of them have the glowing radiance of a precious stone turned for the sun to strike it. None of the water color portraits is in the exhibit.

The Increase Robinson gallery, Diana Court building, has an interesting addition to its current show in the presence of a number of tentative sketches embodying ideas for mural decorations for various buildings of A Century of Progress. Three New York artists are represented and eleven Chicago artists. The spaces to be covered run to great size—in one case a decoration forty feet by forty feet is the problem, and the current exhibit merely brushes the hem of the work that will be demanded of the painters whose work passes the committee. The gayest sketch so far is that for a cosmetic and jewelry booth, designed by George Melville Smith.

The exhibit is almost too slight to be suggested as a goal for a sight-seeing trip, but perhaps before April 26, when it closes, it will possess more definite material. Among the artists who are submitting ideas are: A. Raymond Katz, Davenport Griffen, George Biddle, Anton Bourdelle, Rudolph Weisenborn, William S. Schwartz, Peter Diem, and Richard Crisler.

Dudley Crafts Watson, extension lecturer of the Art institute, is giving the proceeds of two lectures to help put the scheme of Chicago murals on the Fair grounds on a practical, cash basis.

Easy to Learn, This Exercise Is Vital One

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You're doing your Six-a-Day, I hope! Six exercises every morning first thing as you hop out of bed? Just to keep you in the running, or put you there should you happen to have dropped out for any reason?

Only 4-5 minutes is asked of you to do the six exercises a day, in return for which you are guaranteed a new toning up of your entire system, a younger appearing body and the correction of overweight or underweight.

Today we're on the fourth in the Six-a-Day set. This is for back and abdomen, waist and hips. It combines stretching and flexing of back and abdominal muscles, stretching of arm, leg and shoulder muscles. Coming fourth in the set, it appears at the right time. The body muscles have been limbered with the preceding four exercises.

Maj. Rayner, in charge of physical training at West Point, says of today's exercise: "I consider it one of the easiest to learn, yet best of the series, because it calls for no excessive strain, and the beneficial results obtained are many."

No part of the body escapes some beneficial effect from this exercise. And the mid-sector which, in most cases, is in need of reducing and silhouette straightening is particularly benefited.

Do the exercises in pajamas or night robe. Have the windows open wide enough to allow an ample supply of fresh air. Do them before the bath or shower. Take a brisk towel rub, and you'll feel like a million.

Only Six-a-Day, the pick of the full series given here, is all you need do to keep you in fine shape and condition.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

THE PROFESSOR WORKS AN OLD ONE.

"By Gad, Joe," laughed Kelley, "you certainly pulled an old but successful ruse on those two crooks last night!" He was referring to the arrest of Hurd and Olson.

Sergt. Reynolds, detailed to the case, sought the help of Fordney. He had learned that two men, unknown by name or description, suspects of several important robberies, had a rendezvous at a designated log in Carson woods at eleven o'clock that night.

His plan was to surround the spot with as many policemen as he could safely hide, but, knowing if they were drawn too close his birds would become suspicious, he stationed them at some distance with instructions not to detain any one walking into the net.

Reynolds and Fordney arrived early and the professor, taking two objects from his pocket, set the stage. Everything was now in readiness; they were close enough to overhear any conversation.

The appointed hour arrived. "What a night," muttered Reynolds, "actually can't see my hand before my face! Are you there, professor?"

Suddenly they heard surreptitious footsteps, a murmured greeting, a creak, and the watchers knew their two men were unsuspectingly sitting on the log conducting their business—their conversation betrayed them!

At this point a loud, uncontrollable sneeze escaped Reynolds and the game was up! The two suspects fled into the night and eluded the cordon.

Ten minutes later Fordney and Reynolds, entering the nearby village, spotted their prey strolling unconcernedly ahead of them.

The next morning they were telling it to Inspector Kelley!

HOW DID THEY KNOW THE TWO MEN WERE THE SUSPECTS?

[See solution on page 27.]

Pretty Girl, 19, Wonders Why Boys Don't Call

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She tells that she is 19, intelligent, very pretty, has a beautiful figure, dances exceptionally well, plays the piano, is a good conversationalist—and yet has no beau.

Men pause to notice her. Some flirt with her. But none tarry long. Her mother and father tell her she is too nice for the men she comes in contact with.

Her girl friends are divided in their criticism. Some say she is too reserved; others say they don't know why she doesn't attract men more easily. But all, as the girl tells it herself, agree she is a very lovely person.

The girl asks, of course: "Why haven't I a beau?"

We're not doubting at all the young lady's intelligence nor her beautiful silhouette, nor her accomplishments. But we just wonder if her consciousness of their superior grade hasn't something to do with the beau shortage. We wonder, too, if the parental indorsement of the young lady's high opinion isn't just a little obstructive.

Anyway there's something wrong. With all the physical charms it isn't normal not to have and hold the fancy of one young man, at least.

Maybe the good conversational ability needs investigation as a first step on the road to popularity. We're all for girls talking intelligently, knowing enough about current affairs to talk well. But we're much more for young women studying and practicing the listening rôle.

Then this estimate placed on the natural gifts and accomplishments may be slightly exaggerated. With a mom and dad handy to indorse one's own version of her charms it's hard to keep a balance on one's self.

Children Need a Little Time to Themselves

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The summer day stretched itself out, blue and sunny and not too warm.

The breezes rustled the trees. The little river flowed gently past or sparkled and chattered where it rippled over a stony place in its bed. The little old tub of a rowboat floated down the river, then up—a young figure stretched out in it, dipping a lazy paddle when progress was wanted.

The day wore on. Twilight came, then darkness. The evening breeze blew across the garden and in at the bedroom window with that special sweetness that gardens seem to have at night.

"Well, has it been a nice day?" said the child's mother as she leaned over to kiss her goodnight.

"O yes, mother," she said contentedly. "But I haven't done very much today. I've just been out in the boat and—you know, mother, I like to lie and look up through the trees. I haven't done very much today . . . but sometimes I don't seem to want to . . . sometimes I like to just—be."

I believe every one has that need—child or grown-up. Every one should have occasionally a little pool of silence and solitude about him. Every one should have some time not filled with duties or pleasures, some time in which he can do just exactly as he pleases, when he can be alone and quiet—either to think or just to be.

Mrs. Roosevelt Hopes Better Times Will End Relief Measures

New York, April 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt concluded a lengthy address on government and comunity relief work today by declaring she hoped "that some of the things which are being undertaken as emergency measures we will soon be able to do away with because we have achieved a real betterment of conditions to all our people."

The President's wife discussed in considerable detail her ideas of what the federal government should do to aid the unemployed, as she addressed 3,000 women at a luncheon given by the federation for the support of Jewish philanthropic societies. Several thousand women were turned away for lack of space.

Mrs. Roosevelt returned to Washington by rail.

The Stage

Katharine Cornell's Century of Progress engagement in "Alien Corn," announced yesterday, will take place at the Harris theater, beginning Monday, June 5. The actress-manager fixes a limit of two weeks on her visit, but an extension of a week or two may be expected. She will probably remain here with her play until the summer heat becomes oppressive.

Maurice Schwartz's dramatization of "Yoshe Kalb," the Yiddish novel with hints of the Wandering Jew legend in its story, will have its Chicago première at the Apollo theater this evening. This first performance will start at 8:10; later performances will have the usual 8:30 curtain time. Mr. Schwartz brings his Yiddish Art Theater company here after an eight months' run of "Yoshe Kalb" in New York.

"Leonardo da Vinci," a drama by Maurice Gnesin, will have its first acting next Saturday night at the Goodman theater.

Friendly Aid Society.

The Friendly Aid society will elect officers at 10:30 Friday in the Tower ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Plans for the annual card party to be held May 23 at the Stevens hotel will be discussed.

CHINA IS GRIPPED BY PANIC AS JAPS BOMBARD CITIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 19.—The advance of the Japanese army south of the Lwan river, the bombardment of the city of Lwanchow and other cities, renewed military activity at Kupeikow pass through the Great Wall 80 miles north of Peiping, and the prospects of an early Japanese drive on Tientsin were responsible for intense excitement in Shanghai tonight.

While Peiping is becoming filled with refugees from Kalgan, Kupeikow, and other points to the west and north, the wealthier residents of Peiping are fleeing to Tientsin on trains which are jammed, while the terrorized residents of Tientsin are fleeing south to the Yangtze valley.

Wounded Fill Hospitals.

More than 5,000 wounded Chinese soldiers are in Peiping and Tientsin hospitals, and more than 200 arrived from the battle front today. Trains are operating on the railway north of Tientsin only as far as Tangshan, where the British Kailan mines are located. Japanese planes dropped leaflets on Tangshan today, terrorizing the population, which fears an early bombing of the city.

Japanese official announced tonight that the Japanese navy is reëstablishing a base at Port Arthur, near Dairen, for the defense of Japanese lives and interests in Manchukuo and north China. Japan abolished its base at Port Arthur in 1922, following the Washington conference.

U. S. Mission Bombed.

PEIPING, April 20.—[Thursday.]—The Rev. Mark Brown, secretary of the North China conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, announced today that American mission property at Miyun, 50 miles north of Peiping, had been struck repeatedly by bombs dropped from Japanese planes and many buildings destroyed. The Chinese pastor, who was hiding in a dugout at Miyun during the bombing, arrived here today. He said the United States flag was flying when the mission was bombed by 12 Japanese planes and he believed the American property was a total loss.

Gen. Ho Ying-chin in a communique reported that an American missionary had been killed by the Japanese at Miyun. The United States legation has investigated, but has been unable to confirm the report.

James Chuan, a director of field operations for the Y. M. C. A., said today that the Japanese had bombed a Y. M. C. A. hut located in a temple at Miyun where civilian refugees were concentrated.

LINDBERGHS FLY ON INSPECTION OF TRANSPORT LINE

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh took to the air again today—this time for an inspection tour of the lines of the Transcontinental and Western Air company of which the colonel is chief technical adviser. They expect to fly to the coast and back in a series of leisurely hops, no exact schedule for which has been fixed.

Before climbing into the cockpit of his new plane at Newark this afternoon Col. Liendbergh told officials of the company on hand to see him off that he and Mrs. Lindbergh would suit their own convenience on the trip and that they might take a week or a month to make the circuit.

The Lindberghs intend to stop at Pittsburgh, Columbus, St. Louis, Kansas City, Albuquerque, Kingman, Ariz., and Los Angeles.

Cattarinich Heads New Combine.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Controlling interest in the Aurora race track passed into the hands of Joseph Cattarinich, wealthy Montreal turf operator, and Robert S. Eddy Jr. of New Orleans yesterday.

Soon after negotiations for the purchase had been closed Eddy, who was named general manager of the track, succeeding Edward Carruthers, who became chairman of the board of directors, announced a spring meeting would open at the Aurora course on May 1 and continue for 18 days. He said there also would be a fall meeting covering the last 14 racing days in October.

Little Money Involved.

No mention was made of the price paid for control of the Aurora track, but it was reported only a small amount of money was involved. Turf people in Chicago viewed the transaction as the beginning of a new fight against half mile track racing in the Chicago district because the dates applied for by the association, which maintains the name of Exposition Park Jockey club, are the same as those selected by the National Jockey club, which operates Sportsman's Park, the half mile track in Cicero.

A fight between Sportsman's Park and the Aurora association developed last spring when the tracks raced on concurrent dates. For three weeks they fought each other and at the finish both tracks reported a profit.

The Aurora association did not attempt to stage a meeting against the half mile course last fall, but tried to hold a meeting early in September when the Lincoln Fields track was operating.

Passes Up Dates.

The Aurora meeting lasted but two days, and because of a lack of patronage and racing material the officials brought the meeting to an abrupt close.

When the Illinois Turf association met late in the winter to award 1933 dates, the Aurora association did not ask for either spring or fall dates. However, the first 18 days in the Illinois Turf association schedule remained open as did the last 14 days of the season, because the National Jockey club in control at Sportsman's Park is not a member of the turf governing body in Illinois.

Cattarinich, who through the deal at Aurora is making his third attempt to establish himself in Chicago district racing, probably is interested in more race tracks than any other individual in America. He controls the Jefferson Park track in New Orleans, the Fairmount track in Illinois across the river from St. Louis, the Bainbridge Park track in Ohio, and the Blue Bonnets, Dorval, Ottawa, Niagara Falls, and Delorimer tracks in Canada.

Backed 2 Chicago Tracks.

He first appeared in Chicago as one of the backers of the new Washington Park track in Homewood, which the Chicagoan, Thomas E. Bourke, was building. He managed the mutuel betting department. Later, when this track was sold to Col. Matt J. Winn and associates, Cattarinich was out. When H. E. [Curly] Brown came here to build Arlington Park, Cattarinich again showed up in the rôle of an angel. For the money he invested, he was put in charge of the pari-mutuel betting.

When a group of prominent Chicagoans headed by John Hertz, Charles McCullock, and Otto W. Lehmann bought out Brown and took over Arlington Park, Cattarinich again found himself in the cold as far as any Chicago race track interests were concerned.

Referee Stops Jones, Jeby for Stalling

Cleveland, O., April 19.—(AP)—The 12-round nontitle bout between Ben Jeby, New York middleweight, and Gorilla Jones of Akron was stopped at the end of six rounds tonight and declared "no contest" by Referee Freddy Block, at the order of Cleveland boxing commissioners, who said "both scrappers were stalling."

A riot call sent into police headquarters when some one threw a chair into the ring at the end of the match was answered by four police squads, but no further demonstrations took place.

The contest was slow from the start, and Block admonished the fighters at the opening of the third round and again at the start of the fifth to show more spirit.

Jeby holds the world middleweight title recognized by the New York boxing commission and Jones the American title as recognized by the National Boxing association, but since the bout was a nontitle affair the weights of the fighters were not announced.

Repeated boos from the crowd were heard from the third round on. In the fifth round boxing commissioners went into a huddle at the ringside and at the end of the frame told newspaper men that another round similar to the first five would result in their stopping the match.

Indiana Eleven to Play Temple in East in 1934

Philadelphia, Pa., April 19.—(AP)—Indiana university's football team and the Temple eleven, coached by Pop Warner, will meet in 1934, Earl R. Yeomans, graduate manager of athletics at Temple announced today. The game will be played in Philadelphia on Oct. 13.

KIZER IS NAMED NEW ATHLETIC HEAD AT PURDUE

Lafayette, Ind., April 19.—[Special.]—Noble Kizer, Purdue football coach, today was appointed director of the division of physical education for men at the university. Announcement of the appointment was made by President E. C. Elliott following the regular quarterly meeting of the university board of trustees.

NOBLE KIZER.

Kizer will continue as head football coach. His selection to succeed Col. N. A. Kellogg, who recently resigned to accept a similar position at Lehigh university, was enthusiastically acclaimed by students, faculty, and alumni.

The trustees formally accepted the resignation of Col. Kellogg, who left today to visit his parents in Battle Creek, Mich., before reporting at Lehigh May 1. They also approved the proposal of President Elliott to reorganize the department of physical education for men, which hereafter will be classified as a division.

Authorize Reorganization.

The president was authorized with Kizer to effect such internal rearrangements of activities and personnel as would secure effective coördination and economical operation. The division will include the departments of physical training, of intercollegiate athletics and of intramural athletics.

Kizer now has the distinction of being the youngest director of athletics in the Big Ten. He is 31 years old. He also is the only Big Ten official who will carry the joint duties of head football coach and athletic director.

He has been a member of the Purdue coaching staff since the fall of 1925, when he was signed an assistant to Jimmy Phelan. Following Phelan's transfer to the University of Washington, Kizer was appointed head coach, assuming his duties in the fall of 1930.

Basketball, Football Star.

In his three years as head coach, Purdue has had its most successful gridiron period, losing only three games out of 26, tying for one championship, and finishing second the other two years.

Before coming to Purdue, Kizer had an outstanding athletic career. He was an all-around high school star at Plymouth, Ind., his home. He entered Notre Dame in the fall of 1921.

At Notre Dame he won six major letters in football and basketball. In football he was one of the original "watch charm" guards on the famous 1924 Four Horseman eleven, one of Notre Dame's greatest teams.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

HOMECOMING.

FRIEND ARCH: Well, Arch, I suppose you think I got away pretty quick after receiving that getaway money you sent me in Florida. I did. I took a train that very night, leaving Mrs. Wake and her friend to follow in the old bus. Even then the train didn't come fast enough once I was started, and maybe you can figure out why it takes 41 hours to travel approximately 1,500 miles on what is supposed to be the "good" train; and it was an hour and a half late, at that.

My anxiety to come home was not because I didn't like Florida, but I was anxious to see you and the boys and to get into my usual swing. And it was so wonderful to feel a nice cool drizzling rain after all the sunshine and to find the thermometer at 40 after having had to endure temperature of 75 to 85, with one day up to 95; only 95 there isn't sweltering and suffocating as 95 here would be, on account of the trade winds. You see, I'm a climate booster almost like those Californians.

Jimmy says you won't be down until later, so I think I'd better run along home and see you tomorrow, because I want to get my wet bathing suit out of the bag and also some other stuff they have in Florida—you know what I mean—out of the other bag; but, anyway, I'm here and anxious to do a lot of hard work for you because it was fine of you to send me the getaway money.

Now about my work: I haven't read all the details, but I don't want you to pay any attention, so far as I am concerned, to that new bill at Washington for only six hours' work a day and only five days a week. I'd like to work longer than that, and from the accumulated mail on hand to be filed and answered it will take much more than that. Anyway, what with beer back, only thirty hours a week work isn't enough for a chap with naturally convivial tastes.

Of course, most bosses would wisecrack, "I don't see what difference it makes, because you never did more than thirty hours' work a week, anyway." But you never were sarcastic like that, but always treated your staff well, which is one reason why we're so careful and conscientious about our expense accounts. I'll take that up with you later, especially about the 4 cents extra I spent for postage stamps.

Speaking of work reminds me of the time when Max Annenberg was circulation manager, before going to New York to leave the job to Louis Rose, and Don Maxwell was sports editor before you, and our department had to work like the very mischief to get out a Sunday early edition with all the baseball and racing results in it to catch one of the circulation department's pet trains to Iowa.

Well, Don said to Max one day, "You're certainly making us a lot of extra work on that edition and it's a terrific hustle," and, while Max appreciated it all right, he couldn't help saying, "Well, when you came to THE TRIBUNE and wanted a job you asked for work, didn't you?" So that was that.

Furthermore, there's the Kentucky Derby coming soon, and it looks like a remarkably open race at this writing. As you know, French Lane likes to talk to the trainers and jockeys and gets his opinions from them, but I prefer to talk to the horses themselves. So I'll get out my equine dictionary and brush up on the horse dialect again. It's only two weeks from Saturday until the Derby and the meeting opens a week before that.

Also I want to talk with Irving Vaughan and Ed Burns about the baseball teams and get any lowdown they haven't already told, and to hear what Ed says about earthquakes. But if Ed doesn't like them I'm not going to say anything disparaging, lest we have one here, because last fall, when Ed was complaining about the open press stands at football games, I said they didn't bother me any, and then I had flu the very next week after sitting in the open at 6 above to watch Michigan and Minnesota play at Minneapolis.

If you have no other plans and it's convenient, let's have dinner together tomorrow. Regards.

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

NORTHWESTERN NINE WINS OVER NOTRE DAME, 9-7

Notre Dame, Ind., April 19.—[Special.]—Northwestern defeated Notre Dame, 9 to 7, today. Elmer Johnson, Wildcat pitcher, drove in five runs and scored twice himself.

Johnson retired from the mound in the seventh when Notre Dame tied the score with a three run rally, but he continued in left field, driving in the winning run in the eighth inning.

WINSTON GUEST TO PLAY IN POLO TOURNEY TONIGHT

Tonight will be "Guest night" at the 124th Field Artillery armory in honor of Winston Guest, highest ranking indoor polo player of the United States. Teamed with Michael Phipps and Harvey Schaefer, Guest will play in an exhibition match against Herb Lorber's Chicago Riding club class B champions.

WINSTON GUEST.

This game will serve as a warm-up for Guest's team's subsequent appearances in class A and open competition in the national indoor polo tournament which is in progress at the armory.

Guest, the only 10 goal star in indoor polo, left New York yesterday and will arrive this morning. Accompanying him are Phipps, Schaefer, the members of the Brooklyn Riding and Driving club team, and other players who will participate in the tournament championships.

The Brooklyn trio of Harold C. Parsons, Reginald N. Webster, and Frank Fox will battle the 124th Field Artillery Cardinals, consisting of Lieut. Chris Schuh, Lieut. Romeo Mura, and Lieut. Lou Levine, tonight in the first game, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Play Semi-Final Tonight.

The Brooklyn-Chicago duel will be the semi-final in the D class champion ship, the winner meeting the Cleveland Riding club for the title. Cleveland, winner of the Ohio circuit eliminations, drew a bye in the pairings. The present schedule calls for them to play tonight's victor Saturday night.

Both the Cleveland class C and D teams will reach Chicago today, and tomorrow will mark the arrival of the 112th Field Artillery class C team of Trenton, N. J.

Cardinals Are Unbeaten.

The 124th Field Artillery Cardinals have yet to experience their first defeat and they are visioning the national title in their class. Lieuts. Schuh and Mura were members of the 124th Field Artillery trio which landed the national D class title in 1929.

Mayor Kelly said last night: "I welcome Mr. Guest and all the visiting polo players to Chicago. I know that the east will find here in the west the same good sportsmanship that prevails everywhere in polo circles."

Cardinals Buy Shires from Boston Club

Boston, Mass., April 19.—(AP)—For the third time in a year, Arthur [The Great] Shires, colorful but truculent first baseman, today talked himself out of a trip to the minor leagues.

Sold by Boston Braves to Toronto yesterday, Arthur rebelled with such vim that President Emil Fuchs canceled the deal with Dan Howley and shipped Shires to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Shires, who insists he will never play minor league ball again, was thrilled by the switch to the Cardinals.

When notified he was going to Toronto yesterday Shires defied Bill McKechnie, Braves manager, and announced he would quit baseball for boxing. While attending a dinner tendered to Jack Dempsey and Max Schmeling last night, he told the German heavyweight he would be ready to take him on within a few months and suggested that Dempsey promote the bout.

Twice last season McKechnie tried to use Shires in a minor league trade and each time Arthur adroitly ruined his plans. The Braves bought him from Milwaukee in 1931 and he started last season as the regular first baseman.

STREET DOESN'T WANT HIM.

St. Louis, Mo., April 19.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals late today announced the purchase of Arthur Shires from the Boston Braves and Manager Gabby Street admitted he didn't know "what we'll do with him." The Cards already have two first basemen, Jimmy Collins and Pat Crawford.

Columbus of the American association, a St. Louis farm, has been crying for reinforcements and sport writers speculated on his possible transfer to that club.

"I'm sure Shires is not coming to the Cardinals," Street explained. "We don't need him. We have two first basemen now. He's probably to be sent to some other club."

GREAT FIELDING HELPS CHICAGO VICTORY MARCH

10,000 Attend Home Opener.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There was no hesitancy on the part of the redesigned White Sox in the successful staging of their 1933 homecoming act yesterday at Comiskey park. Ted Lyons contributed the pitching. A few of the men delivered the hits for which they are paid, and just about all of them had a slice in a series of dizzy defensive plays. Under the circumstances the St. Louis Browns probably felt themselves lucky to escape with nothing worse than a 3 to 0 beating.

Because it drizzled almost up to an hour before game time only 10,000 were present, but the Sox at least won that many customers for days to come. The 10,000 saw the difference in a team boasting an Al Simmons, a Mule Haas, and a Lew Fonseca, and a team that for years had lacked such a trio. And the 10,000 couldn't help but detect the possibilities of the outfit if it gets pitching.

Three Runs on Four Hits.

The Sox started parading their finesse in the first inning. They picked up a run on one hit off Dick Coffman, recently turned back to St. Louis by the Senators. They paired hits for another run in the third. Another hit popped loose behind an error in the seventh and another run went home. That's three runs on four hits. Three of the Sox safeties went to waste, but this oversight didn't annoy anybody, because once Lyons had disposed of the opening inning it was apparent that one run might serve his day's purpose.

Lyons, who had been complaining for several days of distress in the stomach, didn't give the least sign of being a recent invalid. The three hits he surrendered were singles. The Browns collected only two passes. Four of the Browns strayed as far as second, one on the only Sox error. None moved to third.

Another Big Day for Simmons.

Mr. Simmons naturally conducted himself in a way that indicated it won't be long before he'll have his regular following occupying space in the left field pavilion. He popped out his first two times up. Men were on base, so he wasn't satisfied. He was all right after that. He doubled down the third base line to open the sixth, but his teammates didn't assist in his progress. He doubled again in the seventh, this time to right field off Sam Gray, and that wallop sent in the final run. Prior to this Hayes, Haas and Fonseca had been the big run producers.

Simmons also was in on the fielding gems. He cut a real double down to a single for Rick Ferrell in the third, when the Browns got two of their hits. The ball passed Al, but he dashed after it, caught up with it from behind and wheeled to make the throw without even looking for a target. The throw went straight to second and Ferrell wisely decided he had best dash back to first. After Ferrell's hit two men were set down before West singled. Reynolds offered nothing worse than a bounder which Lyons picked up.

They Forget Appling's Error.

Appling's error was harmless. He dropped a popup when he tried to invade Simmons' territory in the fourth, but Luke made the customers forget his mistake. He added to Ferrell's peeve over the Simmons' incident by dashing toward second for a hard grounder in the fifth and throwing the ball to Fonseca for a putout. And when he slipped making a grab for the same kind of a drive by Campbell in the ninth Luke didn't wait to get back on his feet. He threw from a kneeling position and his aim was perfect.

Hayes furnished the hit that became the first inning run. He led off effectively by whacking a drive down the left field line for two bases, and went to third when Haas rolled one in front of the plate. Fonseca walked and Simmons strolled up to take his bow. He popped out to Scharein. Ap-

Sam West, St. Louis center fielder, tops the ball and dumps it directly in front of the plate in the first inning. Catcher Frank Grube of the Sox throws off his mask and is ready to pounce on the ball. He got it in time to throw West out at first base, while Arthur Scharein, who was on first, went to second. Fog Hides Tall Building; Bird Dies in Crash

BY BOB BECKER.

The heavy fog which has been sweeping inland from Lake Michigan during the last few days brought death to a migrating woodcock yesterday when the bird, confused by poor visibility, crashed into the Borland building at the corner of La Salle and Adams street.

This spring "traffic" accident is just one example of the hazards the birds face during the spring when they attempt to cover thousands of miles over land, water, and cities on their way to northern nesting grounds. Every spring storms and unfavorable weather, especially those periods which bring foggy and misty nights and days, levy a toll on the feathered travelers.

Taxi Driver Sees Bird Fall.

George F. Brown, 1756 North Frederick street, picked up the dead woodcock. He was driving his taxi in the loop when he saw something swirl out of the fog and drop to the street. When he picked up this object he found it was a bird, later identified as a woodcock.

The woodcock apparently had been flying high above the street. But, instead of passing over the skyscraper limit, it had flown against the side of a building and broken its neck.

Although most of our American woodcocks go north to nest and come through on a regular migration in the fall, we have a few of them nesting around Chicago every season. Outdoor fans occasionally find some of these nesting birds while hiking through the forest preserves and other wooded areas in Chicagoland. Members of the Prairie club usually are fortunate in locating a nest or two in the course of the hikes which this club takes every week.

Birds Peck at Flower Beds.

Suburbanites in Chicagoland also get a glimpse of woodcocks during the fall or spring when the birds boldly come into yards which have a considerable area turned into flower beds. The rich black loam in these flower beds are ideal hunting grounds for the woodcock which gets its food by boring into the earth for worms, grubs, etc.

We know of some gardens on the north shore which have played host to one or more woodcocks for several weeks, the birds refusing to leave the rich earth which is heavily stocked with their favorite foods. Right now one of the best places to see woodcock along Lake Michigan is a wooded ravine leading down to the beach. Secluded, heavily wooded, and always moist the woodcock find these ravines excellent places for food.

Pawson Wins Marathon in Record Time

Boston, Mass., April 19.—[Special.]—Leslie Pawson, young runner from Pawtucket, R. I., won the Boston marathon today. Pawson covered the 26 mile course in 2 hours 31 minutes and 1 3-5 seconds, breaking the former record of 2 hours 33 minutes and 8 4-5 seconds, established by Johnny Miles, Nova Scotia, in 1929.

Pawson's brilliant run also shattered the Olympic record, which was made 13 years ago. The mark was 2 hours 32 minutes and 35 4-5 seconds, made by Hannes Kolehmainen, Finland, in the 1920 Olympic games at Antwerp.

Dave Komonen, representing the Monarch Athletic club of Toronto, Ont., finished second in 2:36.27 2-5, while Dick Wilding, also of Toronto, was third in 2:38 3-5 seconds.

Behind the leaders was Clarence DeMar, the veteran runner who has won the race seven times. DeMar finished in eighth place by nosing out Johnny DeGloria, Albany, N. Y. Willie Kyronen, another veteran, was fifth and Whitey Michelsen finished sixth.

Pawson rushed into the lead after 21 miles. Komenen led several times during the race but dropped back in the final stages. Pawson started in third place and maintained it for several miles and then forged ahead to second and after 21 miles went in front of the pack.

Aurora Track Plans Spring Meeting May 1

Names Racing Aids.

From his headquarters at the Congress hotel last night Cattarinich announced definite plans for the Aurora spring meeting. He selected John T. Ireland of Kentucky as presiding steward, R. A. Lee of New Orleans as racing secretary, and Buddy Wingfield as the starter. Wingfield dispatched the fields during the winter at Jefferson Park in New Orleans and at Tropical Park in Florida.

Cattarinich announced that seven races will be run daily, except on Saturday when eight events will be offered. Purses will range from $500 to $1,000 on each day's program, he said. "We will have a thousand horses on hand when the meeting opens," he told reporters.

Edward J. O'Hare, president and general manager of the Sportsman's Park track, said last night he was not interested in what was going on at the Aurora track.

He plans to leave today for Springfield with a certified check for $45,000 which he will turn over to the secretary of agriculture for a license to race 18 days in May.

Officials of the other Chicago tracks would not comment on the deal. "We are not interested one way or another," the head of one of Chicago's big tracks said.

BIG 10 ATHLETES PICKED TO STAR IN KANSAS RELAYS

Lawrence, Kas., April 19.—[Special.]—Western conference schools are expected to carry off a majority of the honors in both the relays and individual events in the 11th annual Kansas relays which will be held in Memorial stadium here Saturday afternoon. Especially is this true in the sprint relays, the 100 yard dash, high hurdles, and pole vault.

The pole vault will be a 3 way battle between star athletes representing Illinois and Indiana, all of the men being capable of clearing more than 13 feet. Estil Lennington of Illinois, who won the Big Ten indoor championship at 13 feet 10 inches; Irving Seely, also of Illinois, and Steve Divich, Indiana, are the principal contenders for the title. It would not be surprising if one of the western conference representatives broke the record established at 13 feet 9¾ inches by Tom Warne of Northwestern in 1930.

Thomton Defends Title.

In the 100 yard dash, Hal Thomton, Minnesota, who won the event last year in 9 7-10 seconds, will be back to defend his title, but to do so he must beat Fuqua and Crouch of Indiana, Edwin Hall of Kansas, Peyton Glass of Oklahoma Aggies, Heye Lambertus of Nebraska, and Whitley Cox of Oklahoma.

Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska, and the Oklahoma Aggies are contenders in the dash relays. The mile relay in the university section will find Iowa, which has come to every Kansas relays carnival since it was inaugurated, in the running to defend the meet record set by the Hawkeye quartet at 3 minutes 20 seconds in 1926.

The University of Missouri, winner of the mile relay last April, will be back, but Oklahoma and Iowa State rank as title threats. Oklahoma's all-sophomore team recently covered the distance in 3 minutes 19.7 seconds.

Feature Race Is 1,500 Meters.

The feature event on the program will be the 1,500 meters run, which has drawn 40 entries from 19 institutions. Glenn Cunningham, Kansas university distance star, who represented the United States in this distance at the Olympic games last summer, is a favorite to win. His rivals will be Glen Dawson of the Tulsa Athletic club, Dean Woolsey of Illinois, and Harold Manning of Wichita, Kas., former national collegiate 2 mile champion, who is running unattached.

The Kansas relays will draw more than 600 athletes from 11 central western states, representing almost 50 institutions. Runners are coming from Arkansas, Indiana, Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, South Dakota, and Texas. Schools entered in the university division are:

Arkansas, Butler, Drake, Grinnell, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa State, Iowa university, Kansas State, Kansas university, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma Aggies, Oklahoma university, and Texas.

CUBS OPEN WITH CARDS TODAY IF IT DOESN'T RAIN

Malone Prepares Once More to Pitch.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 19.—The Chicago Cubs, greatly harassed by bad weather up till now, arrived late this afternoon to find indications that cold will not be their enemy during the series here, though they are not sure they will evade moisture in the Cardinals' home opener tomorrow.

Pat Malone, who has been rarin' for a chance to do a lot of pitching ever since a week before the team left Los Angeles, again is scheduled to start for the Cubs. Three times since the championship season Pat has been the overnight selection to pitch. Twice he was thwarted by weather and in the final with the Pirates at Wrigley field yesterday Manager Grimm switched from Pat to Lon Warneke.

Weather Upsets Plans.

The only pitching Malone has done in this dripping month of April was against the White Sox on April 9 and there was little that day to cheer the big boy, the American leaguers hammering him for nine hits and nine runs in six innings.

All this idleness for the Altoona fireman-huntsman-fisherman-bon vivant has been in striking contrast with Manager Grimm's announced plans. While the team was journeying east to Kansas City early this months Mr. Grimm announced that Malone would be the most frequently worked starting pitcher of his staff. He said that he planned to use Pat with three days' rest, Root with five days', and Warneke and Bush with four days' rest.

The weather has been the only reason that this schedule has not been even approximated. The only player who has not been content with the routine is Guy Bush. The energetic Mississippian insisted upon going to the bull pen in two of the three games in which he didn't start.

He Wants No. 100.

Last year Malone had his worst season, from the percentage standpoint, since he joined the Cubs in 1927. Even so he won 15 games, rating 20th in the league because of 17 losses. Pat pitched 17 complete games, finished two and worked in 37. He was 12th in the league on the earned run basis with 3.38.

In six years Malone has won 91 games while losing 58, the best showing in the National league for the same span. Malone's main ambition at present is to win his 100th game for the Cubs from the Cincinnati Reds in July. If Pat gets eight more before that time he will not wait for the Reds, he says.

The trip was the first daylight ride the Cubs have made to St. Louis and the first journey of the kind made by Gabby Hartnett, who is starting his 12th season as a Cub. The boys were not out of touch with baseball, however. A radio in the club car brought details of the White Sox opener. The Cubs, incidentally, have been showing more appreciative interest in their Chicago rivals than they have in the last baseball generation.

Reds Are Next.

The Cubs will be here tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, after which they go to Cincinnati for three days and their first 1933 look at Donie Bush's outfit, thence to Pittsburgh for two with the Pirates, whom they've met ten times this year.

Rogers Hornsby will probably be back in the Cardinal lineup in a few days, Manager Gabby Street said today. Hornsby's injured tendon has improved rapidly and he is virtually free from discomfort.

DODGERS WIN OVER BRAVES IN 10TH INNING, 2-1

Boston, Mass., April 19.—(AP)—Ed Brandt allowed only five hits and yielded one base on balls, but one of the hits and the pass paved the way for the run that gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a 2 to 1 victory over the Boston Braves in a ten inning battle, played before a shivering Patriot's day crowd of 6,000 today.

With the teams deadlocked at one all, Brandt walked Cuccinello to start the tenth inning. A sacrifice by Flowers and Bissonette's single advanced him to third from where he scored on a squeeze play bunt by Lopez.

The Braves obtained eight hits off Walter Beck, rookie pitcher, but he kept them well scattered except in the seventh, when Berger doubled and scored on Holland's sharp single. In winning his second major league start, Beck struck out five Braves, did not give a base on balls and scored the Dodgers' first run. He doubled in the sixth and romped home on Stripp's single to center.

Is Loughran Too Old for Title Hope? Tomorrow Should Tell

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Tommy Loughran, who will reach his thirty first year Nov. 29, still is beset with championship aspirations. Tommy one time ruled the 175 pound class until advancing years and weight caused him to retire in 1929. The following season he began a campaign for the heavyweight title.

Ernie Schaaf, whom Loughran had beaten a month after Tommy had made a successful defense of his 175 pound title in the opening bout at the Stadium against Mickey Walker, spoiled that first drive by licking Loughran twice. Since then, Tommy always has been a top notch boxer, but no one has given him consideration when mentioned with Sharkey, Schmeling, Baer and Carnera. There's no doubt Loughran could outbox the bunch, but it's equally certain he couldn't outpunch any of them.

Still Seeks Title.

Now Loughran comes up with the information he still wants another title. And, moreover, he expects to start by knocking off another of the new crop of aspirants, Izzy Gastanaga, whom he will meet in ten rounds tomorrow night at the Stadium.

Loughran attracted one of the largest pre-view crowds of the boxing season to Trafton's gymnasium yesterday afternoon. He worked two rounds with Jack Robinson, and while Robinson isn't a Gastanaga, he's the same kind of a battler, rugged, durable and dangerous if he can find the target.

This workout, barring the unexpected, merely is a tipoff on tomorrow's fight. Loughran always fights that way. No boxer today is a better exponent of what can be accomplished with a deft left hand. For information, ask King Levinsky, whose wild, powerful blows, if laid solidly on the side of Loughran's jaw would knock him into obscurity. But Levinsky couldn't do it at the Stadium, although, to give the "personality kid" credit, he outpointed Tommy in New York by virtue of a glancing swing and a knockdown.

Beat Tuffy Griffith.

Tuffy Griffith also learned about Loughran's left hand for Loughran licked Tuff just when the west side heavy thought he was going to town. In all Loughran has fought and won five times in Chicago. Prior to the Walker fight in 1929 Tommy disposed of Martin Burke and Big Boy Peterson at the Coliseum.

In all probability the fans who unbuckle their pocketbooks tomorrow for these fights will not turn out to watch Loughran. While he's a known quantity, a dependable boxer, who will pile up points, step in and out with precise certainty, there'll be no fireworks in his attack. Rather it will be a case of whether he can avoid Gastanaga. And that's where the Spaniard takes the stage.

Izzy can hit. This ability is all a fighter needs plus some experience. It remains to be seen whether Gastagana has sufficient experience to bore through Loughran's defenses and score effectively. Which, of course, is just the reason why the fans want to see tomorrow's fight.

Izzy Has a Knockout Punch.

Charley Retzlaff to date has been the most renowned of Gastanaga's opponents. Retzlaff's reputation also has been made by punching. He's the opposite of Loughran. Retzlaff caught one of Gastanaga's punches and it was all over in one round. Izzy's first bout in Chicago resulted in a three round knockout of Babe Hunt at the Coliseum. Shortly thereafter Joe Doktor finished on the floor of the White City ring in round one. That knockout was No. 25 for Gastanaga.

All of which brings the story back to its starting point. If Gastanaga can lick Loughran he's on the way to the top rank of the heavyweights. If Loughran wins he may continue to wish for a chance at the heavyweight title. And he may receive that opportunity. Stranger things have happened.

The supporting card of four bouts tomorrow night is better than average. Otto von Porat and Hans Birkie in ten rounds are expected to provide some first class tumbling. Lou Scozza, still one of the country's best light heavyweights, and Tiger Jack Fox of Terre Haute, Ind., are down for eight rounds. Then Marty Sampson, a rugged New York middleweight, will enter the lists with Frankie O'Brien of Hartford, Conn. This bout also is for eight rounds.

Scalba to Fight.

The eye opener will be Nick Scalba, 1931 Chicago intercity and international Golden Gloves winner, against Joie Palazzola of Detroit. This six round bout, to many fans, will be more attractive than any other on the card.

Scalba is under the management of Sam Goldman, who directs the affairs of Lightweight Champion Tony Canzoneri. Goldman and Canzoneri are in Grand Rapids, Mich., where Tony meets Wesley Ramey tonight in a nontitle affair. Both will be here tomorrow. Goldman will second Scalaba. At the same time he will discuss a championship bout with Sam Pian and Art Winch, co-managers of Barney Ross.

Still Seeks Crown

TOMMY LOUGHRAN.

Purdue scored one in the second inning when Hoke bobbled Cherico's single and enabled the Purdue right fielder to complete the circuit. Four hits and a wild pitch accounted for three more tallies in the third, and Griffin scored on singles by Olsen and Smith in the eighth.

Paul Gregory or Durham to Pitch 2d Game for Sox

Either Ed Durham or Paul Gregory will be given the chance to stretch the White Sox winning streak to three this afternoon in the second of the series with the Browns. The choice will depend on what Durham thinks of the arm he injured in the opener of the season at St. Louis. The ailing elbow was examined by a doctor yesterday and pronounced O. K. but the medicos frequently are fooled on such things. Jack Knott, giant rookie from the Milwaukee club, will start for the enemy.

For a time yesterday morning Manager Fonseca thought he wouldn't be able to take his 1933 home introduction as combination manager and first baseman. His eyes were giving him considerable pain when he stepped off the train from Detroit. He rushed to a specialist for treatment and was sufficiently relieved to make it possible for him to play. The eyes are thought to have become infected as the result of dirt kicked in his face in a sliding play at first base during the Detroit series. Kress will go to first today if necessary.

A flock of the old Woodland Bards, which once boasted being the most exclusive club in existence, gathered in their grand stand club house to sip a few buckets of the 3.2 in behalf of the new regime. Lou Comiskey played Santa Claus.

Al Simmons must be slipping. He made only 12 hits in 27 times at bat since the season opened. He made two or more hits in each of six games, barring last Saturday afternoon when the Sox had their first look at Lynwood Schoolboy Rowe, the new Tiger phenom. On that day Simmons collected nothing, but a cross wind was all that kept him from a homer.

Adolph Schacht, veteran trainer with the Seattle Indians of the Coast league, was signed by the Sox yesterday and will leave Monday for the east. His salary was reported to be $5,000 a year.

pling then did the best he could to prove that other shortstops have their bad days. He drove a speedy grounder to Levey, who let the ball trickle through his hands, Hayes scoring.

Fonseca Drives in Haas.

The run in the third was purely an affair between Haas and Fonseca. The man who hit Pat Malone for that now famous homer in the final world series game of 1929 opened the inning with a genuine two bagger past first base. He scored on Fonseca's hit to right, but the manager placed too much trust in his speed. He thought his tap was good for two bases, but the ball was at second when he arrived. Then Simmons hit a high fly to left and Appling popped to short.

The Sox held a full house in the sixth, but couldn't make it pay. Simmons opened with his first two bagger. Appling tried to sacrifice, but bunted on the fly to Burns. A fly to center ended Kress. Simmons jumped around second and made so many gestures that Coffman began to figure the old Athletic signal stealing system was being worked. The result was that he couldn't get the ball over and Dykes walked. Grube also drew a pass. This put it up to Lyons, who in other years invariably had to drive in the runs as well as pitch. Ted was thrown out by Melillo.

Levey Kicks Another.

Gray's appearance in the seventh brought no joy to either Hayes or Hass. The former flied out and Haas was looking the wrong way when a third strike slipped over. Then Fonseca gave Levey a chance to pick up an every day roller, but the shortstop fumbled for the second time. Simmons immediately took advantage of this opening. He slashed a long fly into the right field corner—a homer in almost any other park—and Fonseca crossed the plate.

KNEE INJURY MAY FORCE STRIBLING TO STOP BOXING

New York, April 19.—(AP)—The same sort of injury that has ruined many an athletic career—a torn cartilage in the knee—may end the fighting days of W. L. [Young] Stribling.

"W. L. was boxing the last round of his training for a return bout with Don McCorkindale April 6," explained Pa Stribling, his manager, today. "He was weaving in a corner, punching at a sparring partner when something gave in his left knee and he crumbled to the floor. We had to carry him out of the ring.

"The British doctors wanted to operate right away but we caught a slow boat the next afternoon and came home. If there's anything like that to be done, it'll be done right here."

N. U., Loyola Boxers Will Clash Tonight

Eight boxing champions from Northwestern and Loyola universities will clash tonight at Loyola gymnasium, Sheridan road and Loyola avenue. Northwestern was defeated by Wisconsin boxers early this month, six bouts to two, in its first intercollegiate meet in 12 years. Loyola has not engaged in intercollegiate bouts since 1930.

Anthony Marcy and Robert Wiley will lead Loyola's team against Northwestern. William Nott and Walter Roseborough are to head Northwestern's representatives. The card:

LOYOLA.		NORTHWESTERN.
Wilkins	vs.	Angilotti
Wiley	vs.	Berley
Marcy	vs.	Ginsberg
Benedict	vs.	Slining
Murphy	vs.	Nott
Monaco	vs.	Rossborough
Hodgins	vs.	Sinco
Ferlita	vs.	Babich

Dick Daniels, Minneapolis, Minn., heavyweight, arrived yesterday for pending bouts here. He has accepted a return match with Johnny Risko, whom he whipped recently, at Cleveland next month. . . . Sammy Levine, west side featherweight, went to Minneapolis yesterday, where he will rest for three weeks.

Barney Ross, Chicago lightweight, last night turned down an offer to meet Cecil Payne at Louisville, Ky., Derby eve, May 5, in an outdoor bout. . . . Jack Moran, local middleweight, will go to Detroit today, where he will take a vacation until his right thumb, fractured in his bout with Eddie Gill last Monday, heals.

Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois athletic commission will return this morning from Cleveland, O., where he went on business Tuesday.

Boys of the Bishop Quarter school will meet in a series of amateur bouts at Fenwick High school, Washington boulevard and East avenue, next Wednesday. Twelve matches are scheduled.

PUZZLE: WHO'LL BACK FIGHT FOR 135 POUND TITLE?

Rivals Seek to Sign Up Canzoneri and Ross.

Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion of the world, will meet Barney Ross in Chicago this summer in defense of his title. This isn't news, but the question remains: Who will promote the fight?

"The Chicago Stadium will promote the championship bout," Joe Foley, promoter for the Chicago Stadium Operating company, said yesterday upon his return from Grand Rapids, Mich., where he conferred with Sam Goldman, Canzoneri's manager. "No, we haven't Canzoneri's contract. We expect to get that tomorrow when Goldman and Canzoneri come to town for the Gastanaga-Loughran fight. Ross is under contract with the Stadium."

Mullen Bids for Bout.

Jim Mullen also avers that he and his associates will promote the championship in Chicago. Mullen left yesterday for Grand Rapids accompanied by Charles (Babe) Barron. Frankie Harmon also is said to be interested in this combination. Another rumor had the White Sox management willing to take a financial interest in the venture.

"Comiskey park is available as a site," Harry Grabiner, White Sox secretary, said last night. "We are in the baseball business, but don't forget to mention that Comiskey park has been the scene of many championship fights."

Stadium Holds Ross' Contract.

"Ross is under contract to the Stadium," Sam Pian said, "but we'll have to go with those who sign the champion. All we want is a chance for the title."

Ross and Winch will go to Grand Rapids today to see Canzoneri's nontitle fight with Wesley Ramey tonight.

Apparently the question of who will promote the impending lightweight championship will be settled this week-end in Chicago. That is, unless Jim Mullen produces a pack of aces in his Grand Rapids conference.

CHICAGO DEFEATS LAKE FOREST, 11-5; COLLECTS 14 HITS

University of Chicago's baseball team scored its second victory of the season by defeating Lake Forest college, 11 to 5, at Greenwood field yesterday. The Maroons went hitless for five innings, but turned on the pressure in the remaining innings to collect 14 off two Lake Forest pitchers, Drakeman and Door. The Maroons will play Wheaton on the latter's field today. Score:

"What do you mean 80c?" "I mean 80c for repairs in 21,000 miles. Boy, that's Terraplaning!"

Eighty cents for repairs in 21,000 miles of driving! Incredible? Well, here's the actual story—and it's only one of hundreds . . .

A. A. Brandon of Wilmington, N. C., delivers 900 pounds of newspapers and motion picture reels every night on a 240-mile route. In 90 days up to March 21st, his Essex Terraplane had run more than 21,000 miles—at a total repair cost of 80c for a fan-belt.

The Unit-built Essex Terraplane, according to all available records, is the most rugged and economical full-sized car on the market. Proof? Ask any Terraplane owner.

WHY ESSEX TERRAPLANE MAKES POCKETBOOKS SMILE

No need to take the manufacturer's word for Terraplane ruggedness and economy. Just read the following paragraphs from owners' letters, each backed by a sworn affidavit:

Over 30,000 Miles—No Repair Expense. "I have driven my Essex Terraplane Coupe more than 30,000 miles in 7 months, and have not spent a cent on it other than gas, oil and greasing. It has averaged around 20 miles to the gallon of gas."—R. A. Willard, Decatur, Ill.

27,000 miles—$26 for Repairs. "My Terraplane has been used on my regular route with 200 stops per day, on mountain gravel roads, with several steep grades. Have driven through snow and slush with water often as high as the bottoms of the doors. Total mileage to date (March 20) 27,575. Total repair expense, $26. Gas mileage, 20.5."—C. A. Walrath, Gig Harbor, Wash.

63,719 Miles—40,000 on Original Tires. "We are using eight Terraplane Sedans in taxicab service. Cab No. 91 driven 63,719 miles in 6 months 15 days. Total cost exclusive gas and oil hundred twenty-eight dollars fifty cents (½ of a cent per mile) including new tires at forty thousand miles. Valve grind at 35,000 miles, and brakes relined twice."—Telegram from People's Cab Co., Denver, Col.

20 Miles to the Gallon—No Repairs. "During the past six months I have driven my Essex Terraplane over 17,000 miles and the car has given perfect service in every way. I average about 20 miles to the gallon. I have had no expense whatever for mechanical adjustments or repairs."—L. A. Wilson, Syracuse, N.Y.

BABY PLAYS AS MOTHER IS TOLD TO DIE IN CHAIR

Albany, N. Y., April 19.—(AP)—A baby's prattle sounded loud in county courtroom. Anna Antonio, young mother of three children, stepped before a judge today to be sentenced to die in the electric chair "in the mode and manner prescribed by law" as one of three who killed her husband.

Two men, convicted with Mrs. Antonio, are Vincent Saetta and Sam Faraci. Antonio was killed on Easter Sunday, 1932. The state said Mrs. Antonio wanted her husband's insurance and agreed to give them $2,000.

Judge Gallup fixed execution date for the three as May 29, but an appeal to the Court of Appeals, which reviews all death sentences, automatically will stay the sentence.

HOTEL PROPOSED AT MONTROSE AND THE LAKE SHORE

Site Is Taken Over by Mortgage Holder.

BY AL CHASE.

Conveyance of title to the southwest corner of Montrose boulevard and Lake Shore drive by Ben H. Matthews, trustee, to Albert O. Olson, attorney, yesterday disclosed tentative plans for a seven story apartment hotel. The transfer, by quitclaim deed, was made by Mr. Matthews, as trustee for four out of town beneficiaries, and is a step in the reorganization of the property, according to Mr. Olson.

The land is vacant and is 202x136. It was purchased by the four out of town buyers some years ago for an undisclosed cash consideration plus a purchase price mortgage of $100,000, which has defaulted. Attorney Olson represents the mortgage holder whose identity he declined to disclose at this time.

May Form Corporation.

"We're considering the building of a seven story apartment hotel and hope to arrive at some amicable agreement with the four owners by which they'll go along with us in the formation of a corporation," said Attorney Olson. "This is one of the strategic lake shore sites and at one time was valued at $200,000. Our plans at present are only tentative, however; we've not even engaged an architect."

The Dearborn Catering company has leased for five years the store and part of the second floor at 26-28 North Dearborn, from the William D. Boyce estate, and will open a restaurant about May 10th. Gus Mann, president of the leasing concern, now operates two loop eating places, both specializing in sea foods. Bernard E. Green of Hooker & Slosson was broker for the lessor and the Real Estate corporation for the lessee.

Long Term Lease Cancelled.

Cancellation of the forty year lease on the northwest corner of 47th street and Ashland avenue, 121x76, has been filed for record. The property originally was leased by Charles H., Tillie and Henry W. Bischoff to D. A. Schulte, Inc. Echulte assigned it to Raymond A. Jarman of Brooklyn, N. Y., who has now assigned it back to the Bischoffs.

The records disclosed some interesting subrentals. The Walgreen company's lease, which expires May 1, 1933, called for $6,000 annual rental. The Best Shoe company pays the following annual rental for its store: $3,300 to April 30, 1933; $2,700 to 1934; $3,000 to 1935, and $3,300 to 1938.

C. & O. REPORTS $4,487,470 PROFIT IN FIRST QUARTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 19.—Net income of $4,487,470 after charges and taxes, which after preferred dividend requirements was the equivalent of 58 cents a share on the 7,652,813 common shares, is reported for the March quarter by the Chesapeake & Ohio railway, the most productive Van Sweringen carrier. These earnings compare with $7,750,346 or 62 cents a share earned in the corresponding period a year ago.

COTTON ACTIVE; UP $2; HIGHEST FOR SEASON

Trade in cotton was excited yesterday and a strong undertone, based on inflation of currency reports from Washington and advanced to the highest of the season, $2 a bale and over, on all months, and reacted moderately from the top on profit taking. Trading was the heaviest since March 16 when business was resumed after the moratorium holiday.

Profit taking on the advance brought a setback, and futures closed in Chicago at net gains of 28 to 37 points. Other markets up 40 to 44 points on futures, and 40 points, or $2 a bale, on spots, New York being 7.25c; New Orleans and Galveston, 7.10c, and Houston, 7.05c, placing majority of the spot markets above the 7 cent level. Southern spot markets were up $2, or 40 points. Trade reports are rather better and sentiment was mostly bullish at the close. Prices follow:

ESTELLE TAYLOR SHOWS SCAR ON HEAD TO JURY

Los Angeles, Cal., April 19.—(AP)—Estelle Taylor, movie actress and former wife of Jack Dempsey, described on the witness stand today the Christmas eve, 1931, automobile accident in connection with which she is suing her escort, Frank Joyce, theatrical agent, and his chauffeur, Noel Scott, for $150,000 damages.

She illustrated her story with expressive gestures. At one point she took off her hat and walked before the jury box with bowed head to show a four inch scar on her scalp.

She said she and Joyce had attended a dance at a hotel. In answer to a question, she said she had not drunk any liquor and did not see Joyce take any.

Back on the stand, Miss Taylor said her average salary was about $2,500 a week. Since the accident she said she had been able to work very little.

BREAKS WINDOW; TAKES SNUFF BOX OF FAMED KING

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—The gold snuff box used by Frederick the Great, on display recently in the window of Marcus & Co., jewelers, at 544 5th avenue, was stolen early today. A thief smashed the glass with a brick, snatched the diamond-encrusted box and fled.

A watchman heard the tinkle of breaking glass and ran from his quarters at the rear of the store to the 5th avenue entrance. But the street was empty. There was no sign which way the thief had gone.

The snuff box is an elaborate piece of goldsmith's work, and is insured, according to the police, at $10,000.

It has a gold framework, in which are set green jade panels, there are eight large diamonds, twenty-four marquise diamonds, and 1,866 small diamond chips set in the metal.

GRAIN PRICES SKYROCKET ON WAVE OF BUYING

Inflation Plans Are Spur to Market.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Inflation talk, combined with a sharp advance in sterling exchange, yesterday brought a flood of buying orders into the grain market that swept all deliveries of wheat, rye, and barley to a new high for the season and for a number of months. July and September corn and oats were also in new ground for the crop year to date.

All grains made an immediate response to the marked increase in speculative buying. Although fluctuating erratically, wheat at the top showed an upturn of 4½ to 4¾ cents over the finish of the previous day, with corn up 2⅝ to 3 cents, oats up 1 to 1⅜ cents, rye up 3¼ to 3½ cents, and barley up 2⅜ to 4⅝ cents.

A tremendous trade was under way from start to finish, with the aggregate volume swelled to what pit brokers characterized as the largest since November, 1931, when the total was in excess of 100 million bushels.

Profit Taking Absorbed.

Little attention was paid by grain traders to news other than inflation plans. For a time the price changes in wheat were so rapid that the quotations on the blackboard were frequently as much as ¼ of a cent out of line with the actual market in the pit.

It was not until near the close that profit taking by longs was able to stem the advance, and there was also heavy selling by holders of daily and weekly bids. This finally became effective and toward the last all grains receded rather sharply from the best figures of the day.

Wheat finished with net gains of 2 to 2½ cents, with the May showing the most strength and closing at 65 to 65¼ cents. July was 65⅞ to 66⅛ cents and September 67⅛ to 67⅝ cents. Prices in other world markets were generally higher, with Paris showing the most appreciation and gaining 6½ cents for the day. The advance in foreign exchange was largely responsible for the upturns abroad.

Cash wheat kept pace with the upturn in futures and a sale of No. 2 red wheat was reported at 69¾ cents, the highest price for any grade since January, 1932.

Local Long Sells Corn.

Heavy selling of corn, which the trade attributed to a leading local long, held the market in check early and it was rather slow in responding to the strength in wheat. A return of pressure toward the close, due to hedging sales, brought about a sharp reaction from the top. However, the finish was ¾ to 1 cent higher, with May closing at 33⅜ to 33½ cents, July at 35⅞ to 36 cents, and September at 37⅜ to 38 cents.

Oats gained ½ to ⅝ of a cent for the day, with May finishing at 22⅛ to 22¼ cents and July at 22⅝ cents. Rye was ½ to ⅞ of a cent higher, with May at 46½ cents and July at 47 cents at the last. Barley gained 1¼ to 2¾ cents for the day, with May closing at 39⅛ cents, July at 40 cents, and September at 41 cents.

Owens Illinois Glass Co. Earns $2.02 a Share in '32

President William E. Levis announced yesterday at the annual meeting of stockholders of Owens-Illinois Glass company in Toledo that net income of the company and subsidiaries for the twelve months ended March 31, 1933, amounted to $2,466,008 after deductions for depreciation and provision for federal taxes. FIRST REPORTS SHOW FREIGHT LOADINGS RISE IN LAST WEEK

New York, April 19.—A substantial increase in revenue freight car loading for the nation as a whole was indicated today in reports received from individual carriers for the week ending April 15.

A rise for the seven days would be seasonal, and would constitute added proof that the country is now enjoying a belated spring recovery following the dampening effects of the bank holiday.

The first eastern line to report—the New York Central—showed an increase of 1,270 cars. In the previous week a drop of about 3,000 cars was reported during the seven days.

Total loadings of the Central were 77,777 cars, against 76,507 for the seven days ended April 8 and 91,197 in the corresponding week of last year.

Illinois Central Railroad company freight loadings last week totaled 21,561 cars, compared with 21,536 in the previous week, and 22,970 in the same period last year. Loadings were 11,163 cars, against 10,571 in the previous week, and 11,456 last year.

Wabash loadings were 11,163 cars, against 10,571 in the previous week.

Chicago Trade Chiefs Favor Inflation Plan

Midwest agriculturists, industrialists, financiers, and merchandisers united last night in approving President Roosevelt's embargo on gold exports, a step in the announced policy of controlled inflation.

"It was the only thing that could be done," said Gen. Charles G. Dawes, former Vice President, referring to the gold embargo. "And in my judgment it will have a good effect upon prices. It will assist generally in the necessary readjustment between commodity prices and debts."

"I am entirely satisfied with it," said Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank. "Personally, I have been of the opinion for some time that the only way to equalize our exchanges with foreign countries was to suspend gold shipments."

D. F. Kelly, president of The Fair, large loop department store, said: "We have been hoping for this commodity rise for some time. I hope it will bring the desired results in business. A price rise is always good for business. People have been waiting for prices to rise and now that they are going up, it will stimulate business."

J. S. Jones, secretary of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, indorsed the controlled inflation plan "in so far as it raises the general price level for farm and other commodities." He said the bureau "stands for controlled price inflation."

NEW YORK BANKERS APPROVE.

New York, April 19.—(AP)—New York financial leaders generally today voiced approval of President Roosevelt's embargo on gold exports and reported plans for controlled inflation.

Some bankers said the Washington steps evidently constituted a counter-attack against dangerously radical inflationary movements. It was explained that the United States in its present program could act to control its currency and its price level, as Great Britain has done in the last year and a half, and thus avoid anything bordering upon Germany's post-war experience with fiat money.

Other banking authorities said the United States had been technically off the international gold standard since the government took control of gold movements during the banking holiday in March, and that frank abandonment of the gold standard for the time being, while permitting the dollar to find its own level in relation to other currencies, was a constructive step.

Debate Control of Bond Prices.

Some authorities expressed the hope that the federal reserve system would again embark upon an aggressive policy of buying United States government securities.

Bankers said the government had clearly indicated that it could control its expenditures, and that the market for its bonds could quickly be restored through federal reserve open market purchases, which at the same time would increase the excess reserves of the member banks and make them eager to loan money to industry, stimulated by the rising staple prices.

The rising price level would, in the opinion of one banking authority, contribute much toward the accomplishment of one of the administration's objectives, namely, wider adoption of the emergency bank act currency.

Predicts Credit Expansion.

People will want to borrow for commercial purposes when they see prices rising, this banker explained, and the government's measures will make the banks eager to lend. Inasmuch as some 90 per cent of the nation's business is done with bank credit rather than currency, and bank credit creates bank deposits, it was felt that normal financing of a normal flow of commerce would be started on the way.

Leaving the dollar unsupported in the foreign markets, another banking authority said, would undoubtedly prove a valuable trading point for America in the forthcoming economic discussions with foreign statesmen. A lower level for the dollar would give an increased purchasing power to foreigners to buy American goods.

BALTIMORE-OHIO HAS 1932 LOSS OF $6,334,978

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad operated at a loss of $6,334,978 in 1932 compared with the net income of $3,427,662 in 1931, according to the annual report of Daniel Willard, president, to stockholders.

Total railway operating revenues were $125,882,823 in 1932, compared with $172,753,429 in 1931. Total railway operating expenses were $91,654,935, compared with $132,104,525. Net operating income totaled $21,973,398, compared with $27,752,398.

Mr. Willard said that, compared with 1931, the income account reflects a decrease in operating revenues of 27.13 per cent and a decrease in operating expenses of 30.62 per cent.

Howard Ave. Savings Bank to Open Today

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Howard Avenue Trust and Savings bank, 1737 Howard avenue, will open today for unrestricted business, freeing a quarter of million of deposits which have been tied up since the beginning of the bank holiday.

Oscar A. Kropf, chairman of the board, announced last night that stockholders have put $100,000 of new money into the institution, which is the only remaining bank in the Rogers Park district. The capital structure remains unchanged with capital of $200,000 and surplus and undivided profits of $21,000. The new money, Mr. Kropf said, was raised to place the institution in an adequately liquid position.

Plan District Celebration.

To herald the restoration of normal banking in the district a community celebration has been arranged for this morning by the Howard District Business association. News of the bank's reopening was announced yesterday at the luncheon of the association and a committee was immediately named to arrange the celebration. A band has been hired and all of the prominent citizens in the district are expected to be present when the bank's doors swing open at 9 o'clock this morning.

State Auditor Edward J. Barrett was in Washington yesterday where a conference of federal reserve officials was being held to discuss means of releasing the deposits in closed banks.

Organize New Bank.

Plans are understood to be nearing completion for the organization of a new bank by Norman B. Collins, president of the Security bank of Chicago, which is now paying off its depositors in full.

The location of the new bank has not been decided definitely as yet. No lease has been closed, but it is expected the arrangements will be made in a few days. The old bank was located at 767 Milwaukee avenue.

It is understood that $250,000 of capital for the new bank is assured.

State Auditor Barrett announced last night that four downstate banks have been given permits to open this morning. They are:

TAYLOR RIDGE—State Bank of Taylor Ridge.
FAIRBURY—Farmers' State Bank of Fairbury.

DETROIT DRAFTS BROAD PLAN FOR REFUNDING DEBT

New York, April 19.—(AP)—Officials and business representatives of Detroit, after several days of conferences with New York banking interests, headed home tonight with a tentative draft for refunding Detroit's indebtedness for further consideration.

The plan provides that all bond maturities from Feb. 15, 1933, through June 30, 1937, or longer if necessary, are to be refunded into serial bonds with an average maturity of approximately 15 years; interest to be continued at the present rate, which is approximately 4½ per cent. Bond anticipation and revenue notes are to be funded into 4½ per cent serial bonds with an average maturity of approximatelyy 15 years. Tax notes are to be refunded into 4½ per cent serial bonds with an average maturity of approximately eight years.

Forty million dollars is estimated as the minimum requirement to be collected in cash from 1933-1934 tax levy, $8,700,000 of which is to be applied on interest requirements. Operation and maintenance costs are to be limited to the income of the city after payment of interest.

BANKS, CHECKING ON BONDS, BRAKE TOWN'S SPENDING

An indication of how the banks are now putting the brakes on public spending is seen in a recent incident reported by a Chicago banker. A fair sized community not far from Chicago recently asked bidders for bonds to finance a public improvement. The banks invited to participate sent an expert on municipal affairs to the city. The expert spent over a week in the city, making a detailed study of conditions. When he returned to Chicago he said that his investigation disclosed that the improvement was not needed now and that business conditions in the city were such as to indicate the taxpayers would have difficulty in meeting the obligation.

"In the old days," the banker said, "we would have made a quick examination of the assessed valuation of the city and its bonded indebtedness, and in this case the chances are we would have bought the bond issue on the record before us. We don't do that any more."

Insurance Companies Happy Moratorium Is Still in Force.

While the inflation boom is on life insurance company officials admit that they are glad that the moratorium on policy loans is still in effect. The rush of investors to hedge against depreciation of money and the speculators striving to clean up big profits on a rising market would pull money out of insurance companies, it is generally agreed. The story is told of one nationally known plunger in New York who has been trying for weeks to borrow $600,000 on his life policies to employ in market operations.

Pigeons' Depression Over; Cutten Doubles Corn Ration.

Among those gladdened yesterday by the upturn of prices on the board of trade were the Jackson street pigeons. Arthur Cutten, big grain operator on the Board of Trade, long has had the habit of treating the pigeons to a meal each morning. In the past he has poured one boxful of corn on the ledge outside his window on the south side of the Continental Illinois Bank building. Yesterday Mr. Cutten's neighbors in the Board of Trade building across the street noticed that he poured generously from two boxes instead of the customary one. They wondered if it meant the return of happy days.

SILVER ADVANCES TRADING LIMIT OF 3 CENTS AN OUNCE

New York, April 19.—(AP)—Silver prices experienced a violent rise in both the spot and futures markets today. The former was marked up 3½ cents to 32⅜ cents an ounce, the sharpest advance in several years, which carried the price well beyond the previous high for the year.

Dealings in futures on the National Metal exchange reached a record total of 11,500,000 ounces with all positions marked up the full trading limit of 3 cents an ounce.

North Western Debenture Holders Deposit 93 Pct.

Officials of the Chicago and North Western railway stated yesterday that approximately 93 per cent of holders of 5 per cent sinking fund debentures due May 1, 1933, had deposted their securities under the plan recently proposed by the railroad. This is said to comprise the "virtually all deposits" required by the interstate commerce commission for the success of the plan.

Downs Tells How I. C. Cuts Road's Loss

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The record of the Illinois Central system in being able to improve, even though slightly, its 1932 net income in the face of dwindling revenues resulting from the depression was discussed by President L. A. Downs with stockholders at the annual meeting of the system held in its general offices here.

Mr. Downs also devoted attention to the competition of other forms of transportation with the railroads, saying that, contrary to a common belief, the roads were not seeking to shackle or annihilate their rivals—all they wanted was fair and equal treatment.

The revenues of the system for 1932 totaled $89,305,000, Mr. Downs said, a decline of $27,483,000 from the preceding year. However, economies were put into effect totaling $28,294,000, which offset the loss.

Report Smaller Deficit.

The Illinois Central sustained a deficit of $3,547,000 for 1932. Although 1932 revenues were considerably less than for 1931, the 1932 deficit was about $36,000 less than that for the preceding year, which Mr. Downs said was gratifying, no matter how small, in the face of the decrease in revenues.

Comparing 1932 and 1929 results for the Illinois Central and the railroads of the country as a whole, Mr. Downs gave these figures: Operating revenues of all railroads decreased 50.3 per cent, for the Illinois Central 50.7 per cent; operating expenses for all roads were reduced 46.7 per cent, for the Illinois Central 52.3 per cent; net railway operating income of all roads declined 73.8 per cent, for the Illinois Central 54.7 per cent.

Saying that the road had reduced its operating expenses from $139,430,000 in 1929 to $66,504,000 in 1932, Mr. Downs asserted that for every dollar spent in 1929 the road spent 48 cents in 1932.

Wage War for Revenue.

Mr. Downs said that the battle of railroad management must be fought out on two fronts—one that of reducing expenses, the other that of safeguarding revenues. In connection with the second point Mr. Downs called attention to the efforts of the system to retain business by making rates to fit the changed conditions and be rendering services that would attract patronage.

"It has been said that there have been more innovations in railway service and more rate adjustments to meet changed conditions in the last four years than in the preceding forty years," Mr. Downs remarked.

CHICAGO OUTPUT OF ELECTRICITY HOLDS UP WELL

Electricity output for both the Chicago district and the nation for the week ended April 15 made a slightly less favorable comparison than that of the preceding week, when compared with the respective periods of 1932. Nevertheless the figures for the week ended last Saturday were still better than those for the weeks ended April 1 and March 25 this year.

Electricity production for the Chicago district for the week ended April 15 was 87,684,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 89,793,000 kilowatt hours in the like period last year, a decrease of 2.3 per cent. The production for the week ended April 8 at 89,066,000 kilowatt hours represented a decline of 2 per cent from that for the comparable week of 1932.

For the nation, according to the Edison Electric institute, the electric power output for the week ended April 15 showed a decrease of 4.8 per cent from that for the corresponding week of 1932.

DOLLAR DROPS TO NEW LOW IN FOREIGN MONEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 19.—The American dollar dropped to new low levels in terms of foreign currencies today as the events in Washington were interpreted to mean that the United States has embarked on a definite program of inflation.

The British pound sterling and the French franc made sharp gains against the dollar. The pound made a sensational advance of 30 cents to be quoted at one time at a cable rate of $3.85, the highest price since Oct. 31, 1931. It reacted later to $3.70, or a net gain of 17¾ cents for the day. The trading was so spirited that the quotations in the different markets seldom agreed and closing quotations in the various centers showed variations.

Franc Rises 47 Points.

The French franc climbed to a new high quotation of 4.50 cents, a gain for the day of 47 points. In terms of francs the dollar was at the lowest figure since 1925. Other European gold currencies also moved sharply against the dollar. Dutch guilders and Swiss francs were up 165 to 100 points respectively.

At their highs the four gold standard exchanges showed the following percentage gain over their dollar gold parities: Francs, up 15.11 per cent; Swiss francs, up 14.02 per cent; belgas, up 10.76 per cent; guilders, up 11.95 per cent. The pound sterling, while still $1 below par, showed an appreciation of 11.35 per cent over its quotation for March 3, just before the suspension of domestic specie payments here.

In London, Paris, Rome, and other European centers spirited trading was reported in the dollar. Bear traders were reported to be taking advantage of the uncertainty of the United States monetary policy to raid the dollar.

France Supports Dollar.

The Bank of France supported the dollar throughout the official trading session on the bourse, but in the later unofficial trading the dollar dropped again.

New York bankers advanced the theory that exporters of American goods were in many instances leaving the proceeds from the sale of merchandise on deposit in the countries the goods were consigned to instead of bringing the money home. Thus, they said, while apparently this country has a favorable balance of trade, in reality it has an unfavorable balance.

Steel Rate Up to 23%; Best in Year

Steel production is continuing the forward movement started some weeks ago. The Iron Age yesterday reported that steel ingot output, based on plant capacity, had advanced 3½ per cent. Mill operations now average 23 per cent of capacity, compared with 19½ per cent last week.

The present rate is not only the fourth consecutive weekly increase, but it is the highest in about a year and is above the monthly average for any month since March, 1932, as computed by the American Iron and Steel Institute. Iron Age also states that the rate may be increased further this week as a result of the starting of the Carnegie Steel company's rail mill on a recent Erie railroad rail order.

Most Districts Show Gain.

Almost all districts, except the Atlantic seaboard, are participating in the upturn, Iron Age says. The Chicago district is now running at about 23 per cent, Pittsburgh at 18 per cent, Cleveland at 35 per cent, Youngstown and adjacent Ohio districts at 23 per cent, and the Wheeling district at 40 per cent. There have also been gains at Birmingham and Buffalo.

"Aggregate orders received by some steel companies thus far in April are considerably in excess of their entire March bookings," the paper says. "The chairman of the United States Steel corporation on Monday announced a 21 per cent rate for the corporation's subsidiaries. Some of the smaller companies with a narrower range of products are working at considerably higher rates."

Raw Materials Advance.

A strengthening of prices of raw materials accompanied the further gain in output, the Iron Age says. In all important districts advances in scrap average about 50 cents a ton. Pig iron prices are firmer, with an advance of $1 to $2 per ton on southern iron.

Makers of galvanized sheets have announced an advance of $2 a ton to 2.70 cents a pound, Pittsburgh, and $2.80, Chicago, effective at once.

Crucible's Orders Rise.

New York, April 19.—(AP)—H. S. Wilkinson, chairman of the Crucible Steel Company of America, today told the annual stockholders' meeting that he believed the business tide "has really turned."

"Reports," he said, "indicate steel operations this week showed a marked increase all along the line. Of course, they have increased once or twice before, only to drop back again. This time, however, we believe the tide has really turned."

Orders of crucible steel, he added, had increased at about the same rate as that reported by other companies.

F. L. Cooper and A. T. Galbraith were elected directors to fill vacancies.

STOCKS SHOOT UP IN 5 MILLION SHARE SESSION

Advances in Prices as High as $9.50.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 19.—The stock market responded to the inauguration of the administration's four point inflationary program today with the most spectacular price upheaval since the collapse of the 1932 midsummer advance last September.

Tickers were fairly deluged with buying orders, many of them pouring in by cable from foreign cities. The turnover was in excess of 5,000,000 shares.

Demand converged on the shares of companies in line to benefit most directly from the inflation program, such as those of the steel, copper, merchandising, silver, rubber, tobacco, and sugar industries, but every department of the list shared in the improvement, with the big proportion of listed issues reaching new high levels for the year. The price markups ranged all the way from $1 to $10 a share.

Gains Up to $9 a Share.

Some of the outstanding gains of the session were: Allied Chemical and Dye, $7 a share; American Can, $6.37½; American Smelting, $6; Homestake Mining, $9; Union Pacific Railroad, $4.37½; Utah Copper, $10; Hershey Chocolate, $9.50; Du Pont de Nemours, $4.25; United States Steel, $4.12½; Greene Cananea Copper, $8.50; Liggett & Myers, $4.50; Air Reduction, $4.25; McKeesport Tin Plate, $5; Goodyear, $4.37½; National Lead, $7; and Byers company preferred, $9.37½.

Commodities of every kind shared in the market honors of the day with stocks. Most of the important staples were established at the best levels in months in fever of speculation. The bond market alone failed to keep step in the forward moving procession. United States government securities broke a point or more and corporation issues dipped 1 to 3 points.

Trading Is Heavy.

The stock market was the strongest in every way since Sept. 13 of last year. Blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares began to appear on the tape in rapid succession in the first few minutes of trading, reflecting the overnight news from Washington, and the pace scarcely slackened from then until the closing gong at 3 p. m. The ticker was distanced in the first hour and never caught up. At times it was as History: The Duluth Steam Corporation was incorporated under the laws of Delaware in 1929. Construction contracts were let late in 1931. The plant was completed and placed in operation September 15, 1932. The Company serves the business district of Duluth, Minnesota, with live steam for space heating power, and process purposes. Company owns one of the most modern high pressure central steam generating plants in the United States, located at the edge of the business district and close to the coal docks. Steam is distributed at high pressure through mains and service lines, covering the entire commercial area. The Company operates under a franchise extending until 1954.

Territory: The City of Duluth has a population of approximately 105,000. Its climate, with an average yearly temperature of 34°F. and an annual heating season of ten months, makes this locality an ideal market for steam for power and heating purposes. In addition, due to the low cost of lake transportation, high grade coal is readily available at reasonable prices, and pure water from Lake Superior can be converted into steam without expensive treatment.

District Steam Industry: The attention of engineers and bankers is rapidly turning to this industry as one offering exceptional opportunities for sound development. There is approximately $100,000,000 invested in district steam companies. Outstanding companies are: The New York Steam Corporation; The Allegheny County Steam Heating Company, serving Pittsburgh, and the steam plants at Detroit, Rochester and Boston. Engineering developments of the past few years have so decreased the cost of central steam generation and distribution and so increased the use of live steam for industrial, commercial and domestic purposes as to make the outlook for this industry most promising.

Earnings: The Company makes the following conservative estimate of earnings over the next four-year period commencing April 1st:

	Gross Earnings	Net Available for Interest and Dividends (After Depreciation)
1933-34	$256,250.00	$ 58,150.00
1934-35	352,500.00	117,600.00
1935-36	457,500.00	177,600.00
1936-37	505,500.00	205,700.00

Book Value: The Company's system was constructed and placed into operation for approximately $1,500,000. Net worth as shown in the balance sheet gives the stock a book value of $14.93 per share.

Management: Robert L. Fitzgerald, Vice-President and General Manager of the Company, was formerly General Manager of the central steam department of the Indianapolis Power & Light Company. James O. McKinsey & Company of Chicago have been retained as Management Counsel to supplement the active management. The following men comprise the Board of Directors: J. H. Shively, Vice-President and Treasurer, Edge Moor Iron Company, Wilmington, Delaware; Ely C. Hutchinson, President, Edge Moor Iron Company, Wilmington, Delaware; A. R. Robertson, President, A. R. Robertson Co., St. Paul, Minnesota; A. W. Strong, President, Strong-Scott Manufacturing Co., Minneapolis, Minnesota; R. J. O'Neil, President, R. J. O'Neil Construction Company, St. Paul, Minnesota; Hugh J. McClearn, Attorney, Duluth, Minnesota; R. W. Geyer, Partner, Haskell, Scott & Geyer, Chicago; C. C. Colton, Attorney, Duluth, Minnesota; J. G. Ordway, Vice-President, Crane Company of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn.

All legal matters pertaining to the affairs of the Company since incorporation have been passed on and handled by Messrs. Baldwin, Holmes, Mayall and Reavill of Duluth. Construction was supervised by the Pillsbury Engineering Company of Minneapolis, who also collaborated on design of plant and distribution system.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 19.—Inflation fever spread from the stock market to the bond trading community today and touched off a buying wave that raised prices of speculative issues from one to five points in both the domestic and foreign sections.

But if the promise of inflation proved a boon to the speculative type of security, it naturally had a depressing effect on fixed interest bearing investments, including bonds of the United States government, states, and municipalities, and high grade corporation liens. Recessions were numerous in this section of the list.

Domestic issues, chiefly "commodity" bonds, soared from one to more than five points. Spectacular gains occurred in Goodrich 6s, United States Rubber 5s, Chile Copper 5s, International Telephone convertible 4½s, and others.

Earning Basis Is Factor.

The movement in speculative bonds, which sell largely upon an earnings basis, was parallel with the uprush of stock prices to the best levels of the year. Conversely, high grade bonds, including United States governments, broke severely on the fear of inflation. Public utility bonds in the domestic corporation list were soft, with selling in issues of Consolidated Gas of New York and American Telephone influenced by the threat of more intense regulation.

Liberty 3½s, which sell almost entirely on a money basis, suffered the sharpest loss among the treasury issues. Liberty fourth 4¼s, which rallied sharply a few days ago, were inclined to the selling. All long term treasury issues were liquidated, both for institutions and private holders.

Public Issues Weaken.

State and municipal bonds in over-the-counter trading declined generally. Federal land bank bonds were slightly easier, but, on the whole, gave a much better performance than did United States government issues.

Selling in prime corporation bonds, according to traders in the outside market, came from all sources, and was dislodged principally by the threat of inflation.

Coincident with soaring prices for sterling and other exchanges, foreign dollar bonds reversed the slow downward trend of recent weeks and gained from one to more than four points.

Pan-American Life Insurance.

Pan-American Life Insurance company has outlined an income policy for our employés. I would appreciate all information as to the soundness and history of the company.—P. E. H.

Pan-American Life Insurance company, a stock company, began business in 1912.

Reflecting reduced amount of insurance in force, admitted assets declined in 1932. They totaled $28,378,000, against $28,563,000 in 1931, $27,120,000 in 1930, and $8,602,000 in 1920.

Assets at the close of 1932 included $12,291,000 first mortgage loans, $6,789,000 policy loans and liens, $3,818,000 bonds [amortized values], $1,742,000 real estate, and $568,000 cash.

Foreclosed real estate represented about 6½ per cent of total assets, against 3½ per cent the year before. President Ellis in his annual report stated that most of the foreclosed property is rented. Reserves set up for possible losses through depreciation of property totaled $60,000 in 1932.

Insurance in force at the end of 1932 totaled $170,558,000, an 8½ per cent drop from $187,065,000 the year before. This compared with $190,583,000 in 1930 and $87,359,000 in 1920. The decline in 1932 is in line with the experience of most companies and was due in large part to the necessity of many policy holders resorting to exercising cash surrender provisions to raise funds for living expenses.

Legal reserve totals $25,229,000, capital is $1,000,000, and surplus and special funds total $1,289,000.

Income in 1932 amounted to $7,001,000 and disbursements $7,166,000. In 1931 income totaled $7,863,000 and disbursements $6,509,000.

Cutting Average Cost.

What virtue is there, if any, in buying additional shares of the same stock to bring down the higher price of an earlier purchase?—A. S.

This practice goes under the misleading name of "averaging." It proceeds on the theory that if stock is purchased and the market price goes down additional purchases reduce the average price paid. The fact remains, however, that if additional purchases are made the stockholder has made two transactions at different prices. The average price has no bearing on the case.

The speculator should properly make his commitments on what he believes the price of the stock will be in the future—not what it was in the past. The investor should base his decisions on what he estimates the future yield of the stock to be, not on what he mistakenly paid for it in the past.

STOCKS SHOOT UP IN 5 MILLION SHARE SESSION

Advance in Prices as Much as $9.50.

Brokers reported a heavy stream of buying orders from London throughout the day. Foreign speculators in other European capitals were almost equally as quick to sense the changed order of things in Uncle Sam's economic situation and shared in the rush to buy American stocks before prices soared beyond reach.

Utilities Join Parade.

For a while in the early trading public utility stocks were something of a drag on the general list, being held down by threats of forced rate reductions and impending regulatory legislation, but the early afternoon found them taking heart and several of the most prominent issues of the group finished showing worthwhile gains. American Telephone, which has long been a conspicuous weak spot of the market, varied its usual performance today by forging ahead for a net gain of $2 a share.

Mining shares made the best group showing of all, with the issues of the American Smelting, United States Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Kennecott, Homestake, and Anaconda companies featuring the activity.

The chemicals bounded forward in mass formation, and the metal and rubber descriptions were buoyant and strong all day. Food stocks were fairly buoyant. The farm implement and mail order favorites kept well up in the van, with Case, International Harvester, and Montgomery Ward among the many to achieve new price peaks for the year or longer.

Railroads Also Rise.

Even the railroads mustered steam enough to make the grade, New York Central, Atchison, Lackawanna, Delaware and Hudson trailing Union Pacific for markups of $2 to $3 a share or more.

The twenty-five representative industrial stocks used in computing THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S market "averages" showed a gain of $6.06 on the day's activities. The upturn on the fifty issues selected from throughout the list amounted to $3.65.

Part of the day's buying was attributed to the conversion of "depreciated" dollars held here for foreign account. Short covering provided some of the impetus in the early dealings.

Higher car loadings figures, the fourth successive rise in as many weeks in the steel industry, increased electrical power production and other improved figures in the midweek business inches contributed to the outburst of bullish enthusiasm.

BUTTER AT NEW HIGH

A heavy wave of buying sent butter and egg futures sharply higher on the Chicago Mercantile exchange today, butter selling at new highs for the year, with gains ranging to $240 per car. Egg trading set a volume record for the year, prices moving up $100 per car. Heavy new buying came into the market on inflation talk and shorts were stampeded into covering. While the wide advances brought out heavy new selling and profit taking it was offset by the increased buying. Prices of both commodities closed of the day's highs, with butter up 1@1¼c and eggs ⅝c higher. Bearish egg news did not dampen enthusiasm in that market. Sales: Butter, 32 cars; eggs, 238 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 3 cars. Prices follow:
